Navy Blasts Six Jap Warships and 191 Planes in Luzon

BOMBS DAMAGE TWO CRUISERS IN MANILA BAY

91 Enemy Aircraft Downed in Battle.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, T. H., Nov. 6 (AP).—Third fleet carrier planes sank one Japanese warship, damaged five others and several cargo ships, and destroyed 191 planes in surprise raids on Manila and southern Luzon.

Preliminary reports also show that much damage was done to five air fields in the raids Saturday, Adm. Nimitz reported today.

The Japanese rushed 80 interceptors into the air over Clark field in an effort to turn back the American fighter, torpedo, and dive bomber planes, but 58 enemy aircraft were shot down.

100 Destroyed on Ground.

Nimitz said enemy air opposition became less effective the remainder of the day but that 25 interceptors were shot out of the air over other targets. Five more were downed in the vicinity of 3d fleet carriers and three more were destroyed by night fighters over Clark field, making a total of 91 shot down. More than 100 planes were destroyed on the ground.

American losses were not reported.

Nimitz said shipping in Manila bay was bombed heavily and reported these preliminary figures:

One light cruiser damaged.

Several cargo ships damaged.

Nimitz said there was only light opposition over Manila, indicating the pilots raiding the harbor had little to fear except anti-aircraft fire from the ships they were attacking.

Hit Storage Areas.

Preliminary reports of damage to ground installations were rather meager, but Nimitz listed these:

At Clark field, oil storage areas, shops, and hangars bombed and set afire.

Land based planes meantime struck Japanese bases from the northern Kuriles to Nauru, blasting air fields and ground installations, and attacking two 180 foot transports at Chichi in the Bonins, south of Japan. Results of the bombing of the transports were not observed by the high flying Liberators.

MacArthur Advances.

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HDQ., Philippines, Nov. 7 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Beating back three night banzai attacks, the American 24th division plunged thru Japanese mountain defense in a four mile advance from Carigara bay yesterday and raced toward Nipponese reënforcements defending Ormoc, 16 miles southward.

Forward elements of the 24th drove beyond Limon on the narrow, winding mountain road thru Ormoc valley, and the advance "continues

Stalin Urges Armed Body to Stop Wars

LONDON, Nov. 6 (AP).—Premier Stalin, naming Japan and Germany as typical aggressors, urged tonight creation of a special post-war armed organization of peace-loving nations empowered to act immediately "to avert or suppress aggression."

Addressing a cheering Moscow throng on the eve of the 27th anniversary of the Russian revolution, Stalin asserted that Germany was "on the verge of inevitable catastrophe."

"We all know Germany will attempt a new war," Stalin said, declaring Germany already was preparing for a third world war. He added that in 20 or 30 years Germany might be ready for aggression again.

The task of the allies, he asserted, was not only to win victory but to make future wars impossible.

"One Means" to Secure Peace.

There is only one means, he said, to secure peace, namely:

"To create a special organization to defend peace and insure security, composed of representatives of freedom-loving nations; to put at the disposal of the leading organ of such an organization the essential amount of armed forces required to avert aggression, and to make it the duty of this organization, in case of necessity, to apply without delay these armed forces to avert or liquidate aggression, and to punish those guilty of aggression."

Asserting that peace-loving nations always are ill-prepared for war, while aggressive nations usually are better prepared, Stalin said:

"It cannot be considered accidental that such unpleasant facts occurred as the incident at Pearl Harbor, the loss of the Philippines and the other islands of the Pacific, the loss of Hong Kong and Singapore, when Japan, as an aggressive nation, proved more prepared for war than Great Britain and the U. S. A.—an example of the advantage of an aggressive policy.

"Big Three" Alliance Called Vital.

"The alliance of Russia, the United States, and Great Britain is vitally important for all. If it has stood so far, the stronger it will be at this final stage of the war."

Stalin said that the success of an international organization rested with the United States, Russia, and Great Britain, and he foresaw peaceful solution of all differences among these powers.

He cited the recent Dumbarton Oaks conference at Washington as an example of what could be accomplished in friendly talks, saying that "nine-tenths of the security questions were solved at this conference in a spirit of complete agreement."

Stalin admitted that differences existed among the allies, but he said the surprising thing about them is

Chicago 'Doc' Treats Filipino Dance Fever

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DINAGAT ISLAND, Philippines, Nov 7 [Tuesday].—It didn't take long for word to get around Loreto village on this island at the entrance to the Gulf of Leyte that an American doctor had arrived. The first American physician to land in the Philippines, he is Lt. Herbert Karol, 6820 Paxton av., Chicago, formerly on the staff of the Cook County hospital.

Lt. Herbert Karol.

He came ashore with the Rangers three days before the main force landed on Leyte. The Filipinos of Loreto were greatly in need of him. Their Filipino doctors had long ago run out of supplies and medicine and any attempt to get them from the Japs was futile. Loreto immediately sent a messenger asking Lt. Karol to visit them.

The Feasting Begins.

Early the next morning Lt. Karol and two Rangers went nine miles up the coast in a Higgins boat to the village. The entire 500 population swarmed the shore. Six girls, who were so pretty they made the Ranger guards whistle, helped the doctor out of the boat.

"We are most glad to welcome you to Loreto," they said, and then they introduced the mayor.

"Let's get to work," the doctor said. The mayor insisted that they eat first and led the way to his two story frame house for a feast of sweet potatoes, chicken, and tuba, the native beer. "Now let's see the patients," Lt. Karol said.

The mayor would still hear nothing of it. "First we dance," he said, and led the way to a large room over the city hall. The populace, which had waited outside the house during the feast, followed. In the hall a seven piece jazz band was playing "I'll Be Seeing You" and other current numbers.

Jitterbugs Have an Inning.

The populace lined the walls. Three girls invited the doctor and the two Rangers to dance. The men took a few steps and then other girls cut in. All went well until one of the physician's partners wanted to jitterbug and the doctor said he didn't know how. A host of Filipino couples volunteered to show him. They did, and the dance started from there.

By the time the dance was over it was noon and there had to be another feast at the mayor's house. After that the doctor went to work. A third of the populace needed treatment, their troubles ranging from scratches and an upset stomach to a leg amputation.

When he left, one of the girls made a pretty farewell speech and invited the doctor back.

"I'll be back," he said, adding under his breath, "If my wife will let me."

NINE GERMANS SEIZED IN A FARMHOUSE BY YANK NIGHT PATROL

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 3D ARMY ON THE MOSELLE RIVER, Nov. 6.—When they send after prisoners, they get prisoners. At least they do if they are the Texans of Lt. Herbert H. Hardy, 26, Dennison, Tex. Hardy, who is 6 feet 5½ inches tall, took out a combat patrol a few nights ago after careful daylight study of the terrain. The patrol reached an isolated farmhouse where 12 Germans were manning a machine gun post.

Hardy ordered the wires from the house cut. When four Germans came out to see why the line was dead, the Americans fired. They closed in and entered the house. Three of the 12 Germans were wounded.

Lt. Hardy led nine Germans back to our lines, leaving the three wounded ones behind because they were unable to carry them thru the night. Hardy also checked the location of a suspected mine field on the return trip. He ordered the prisoners to go thru the area in which mines were believed to have been planted. The prisoners declined, explaining that mines were present. So every one walked around the area.

New York, Nov. 6 [Special].—Mrs. Erica de Balogh, 31, a German born naturalized citizen, was killed tonight by an apartment house blast which broke hundreds of windows and routed approximately 1,000 tenants from a 17 story residence building in midtown New York.

Police said Mrs. Balogh's body was found in a broken chair in front of her kitchen gas range, five jets of which were open. The death was listed as "apparently suicide." Her husband, Andre, said to be a Belgian refugee and a radio executive, was not immediately located.

Fires started by the blast on the 15th 16th, and 17th floors were quickly brought under control.

British Envoy in Cairo Slain by 2 Gunmen

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 6 (AP).—Two gunmen shot and fatally wounded Walter Edward Guinness [Lord Moyne], British resident minister in the middle east since 1942, and killed his chauffeur today as the minister alighted from his automobile at his residence.

Walter E. Guinness.

Both the attackers were captured. One of them was wounded by a constable as he fled. The Egyptian government announced that neither of them was Egyptian. Their identities and nationality were not disclosed.

[The London radio said Gen. Bernard Paget, British commander for the middle east, had stated that the men who shot Guinness were Jewish.]

Dies at Army Hospital.

Guinness was wounded in the stomach and neck when his assailants emptied their revolvers at him. His military driver, apparently killed instantly, slumped over the steering wheel of the car. The minister died a few hours later at the army hospital where he had been taken for an operation to remove the bullets.

The two gunmen attempted to flee across the front grounds of the residence, but one was shot by an Egyptian constable and the other was captured nearby. Both were held by Cairo police.

Served in Two Wars.

Authorities have not released any explanation of the attack on Guinness, who was 64 years old.

Guinness was born in Dublin in 1880, a member of the family which manufactures the famous Guinness ale and stout. He was educated at Eton and served in the army during the Boer and first World wars.

Elected a member of parliament in 1907, he served as undersecretary of state for war in 1922-'23, financial secretary to the treasury in 1923-'24, minister of agriculture and fisheries from 1925 to 1929, secretary of state for colonies in 1941-'42, and was leader of the house of lords in 1941-'42.

Seize Suspected Terrorists.

JERUSALEM, Nov. 6 [Reuter].—Eight suspected terrorists were arrested and important documents relating to terrorist activities were seized when police searched a number of houses in Haifa today, the police announced.

DEWEY PLEADS FOR CHANGE TO SHORTEN WAR

End of Confusion at Home Held Vital.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 6. — Gov. Dewey, in a final and solemn appeal to America's voters, tonight urged defeat of the fourth term candidacy for the following reasons:

1. To shorten the war and to hasten the return home of 11 million soldiers and sailors.

2. To assure a peace that will last.

3. To revive America after the war as a land of freedom and opportunity.

The 42 year old Republican nominee spoke from the executive mansion here. With him were his wife, his mother, and two sons, 12 and 9 years old.

He spoke as an American who has advanced himself under the free enterprise system. He spoke on behalf of his sons and others of the future generation. He spoke on behalf of the youth now in uniform which would like to return home as soon as possible and find jobs, and not a dole, regimentation or leaf raking.

Arguments Substantiated.

With a thoroness that has characterized his entire campaign, Dewey substantiated each of his three points. He documented his argument that none of the three objectives of tomorrow's election can be attained without defeat of President Roosevelt and the entire New Deal.

On the first point, Dewey told how confusion and bungling at Washington, D. C., have weakened support of the professional warriors, Marshall, King, Eisenhower, Nimitz, MacArthur, and Halsey, who are fighting this war and will continue to command. He told how Roosevelt's personal and secret diplomacy has stiffened enemy resistance.

On the second point, Dewey said that Roosevelt's constant conflicts with congress preclude a harmony between the executive and legislative branches of government essential for making treaties in accordance with plans for a world peace organization. He recalled former President Wilson's failure to win accord with the senate on the first league of nations issue.

Emphasizes New Deal Failure.

On the third point, Dewey emphasized that Roosevelt has offered for the post-war era no economic program other than continuation of the New Deal burocracy, which, after eight peace years in 1940 found 10 million still unemployed.

To advance all three objectives, Dewey asked the electorate tomorrow to end the unhappy turmoil, dissension, class hatred, group conflict, and antagonism that have accumulated in Washington, D. C., for the last 12 years. With new, young blood, he would inaugurate an administration dedicated to and qualified for harmony and efficiency on the home front, for a quick end of the war, a prompt return home of the soldiers and sailors, and for a sound economy of full production and full employment after the war.

His last words were almost a prayer asking for divine guidance, asking for faith in our neighbors, faith in America, and faith in Almighty God. With these words, he closed his Republican campaign for the Presidency. Tomorrow, he and Mrs. Dewey will go to New York City to cast their ballots with about 50 million other Americans.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

On the eve of the Presidential election today there were revelations last night that the Roosevelt administration, if continued in power, has no intention of bringing our soldiers back from Europe in any large number after the defeat of Germany.

An enormous American army is to be maintained indefinitely abroad to police Germany and help to enforce the partition of Europe into British and Russian spheres of influence.

This, it transpires, was one of the agreements reached by President Roosevelt, British Prime Minister Churchill, and Russian Dictater Stalin at the Teheran conference which caused Communist Chief Earl Browder to hail the results as a great Russian diplomatic triumph, and thereupon dissolve the American Communist party and declare for the fourth term.

It was private knowledge of this agreement and of the administration plans to keep a large army in Europe that caused the Republican leaders at the Chicago convention to incorporate into the Republican platform this specific pledge:

"At the earliest possible time after the cessation of hostilities we will bring home all members of our armed forces who do not have unexpired enlistments and who do not volunteer for further overseas duty."

Meeting a few weeks later, the Democratic national convention adopted a platform that was silent on this question. A proposed plank

F. D. R. APPEALS FOR MILITANT, UNITED PEOPLE

Browder on Religion

IN his book "What Is Communism?" Earl Browder, leader of communism in America, explains the Communist stand on religion:

"We stand without any reservations for education that will root out beliefs in the supernatural. . . . .We Communists do not distinguish between good and bad religions, because we think they are all bad for the masses."

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Nov. 6.—President Roosevelt wound up his fourth term campaign tonight with a plea that the nation "face the future as a militant and united people—united here at home as well as on the battle fronts."

In a solemnly worded appeal, he urged 50 million American voters to "show the rest of the world that our kind of government is the best in the world—and the kind we propose to keep."

He said the political battle was finished and he did not want to talk of partisan politics. He concluded, as he had on election eve in 1940, with a prayer by an unidentified author asking the blessing of God upon the whole land.

The text of the radio address, which had been in readiness since early in the afternoon, was withheld from the press until Mr. Roosevelt actually began speaking into the microphones in the library of his big home on the Hudson river.

Delay Not Explained.

No official explanation was given for this unusual delay.

Tonight's sober speech was in contrast to the informal speeches delivered by Mr. Roosevelt this afternoon in a tour of the Hudson river countryside.

His last address to the voters before they march to the polls tomorrow was almost somber at times. The President said he and millions of other Americans were most deeply concerned with the well being of our fighting men far away from home.

These men, he continued, will be asking questions sooner or later as to whether the folks back home looked after their interests while they themselves were off at war.

Jazz Closes Campaign.

New York, Nov. 6 [Special].—A strange medley of jazz, jingles, and wisecracks, interspersed with political pot pourri put the finishing touches tonight on the New Deal's fourth term campaign.

For three-quarters of an hour over all major networks, writers, singers, comedians, politicians, and movie stars from Hollywood and New York followed each other in bewildering succession in the Democratic national committee's vaudeville jamboree.

After Frank Sinatra had spoken and others in the heterogeneous array of performers had done their bits, President Roosevelt came on in a serious mood.

Groucho Marx Ad Libs.

Speakers included Quentin Reynolds, writer; W. Averill Harriman, United States ambassador to Russia; Dorothy Parker, Humphrey Bogart, and James Cagney. Groucho Marx ad libbed a few quips in behalf of the New Deal. So did Milton Berle. Several comedians recited bits of doggerel about Dewey and Hoover.

Chants of vote, vote, vote were heard at intervals during the program and an overlay of continuous jazz music made the words of some of the speakers almost indistinguishable. Voices came on the air said to represent typical farmers, union members, aircraft workers, and working girls.

DEWEY ASSAILS 'CRISIS' EXCUSE FOR 4TH TERM

Change Needed to Speed Victory, He Says.

"We come tonight to the eve of an election that may be the most fateful in our history. It is a test for each of us of our devotion to the American system of government. The great test is whether, knowing we need a new administration, we will make the change necessary to speed victory and to build the peace to come.

"These years 1945 to 1949 will be important, difficult years. They will require vigorous, hard working, harmonious leadership, with abiding faith in America. But there has arisen in this campaign an argument that the people dare not change administrations because our country is in the midst of a great ordeal.

Argument Used Before.

"Of course, there is nothing new in that argument. It was used four years ago, when we were at peace. In other countries, this same argument has been the pretext upon which men, originally voted into power by the people, have suspended popular government and maintained themselves indefinitely in power.

"Long ago, Thomas Jefferson pointed out that 'there will never be a time when real difficulties will not exist and furnish a plausible pretext' for not making a change.

In our own lives, we have seen a nearly unbroken period of crisis after crisis for 30 years. We have known war and depression and boom and depression and war again. During much of that time, it could have been argued that the state of the nation and the world was so critical that we ought not risk a change in administration. In the last analysis, the whole argument comes down to a bald plea for the reelection—so long as he lives—of whoever happens to be President.

Opposite of Free System.

"But that, we know, is the opposite of a free system of government. So it is clear that if we are going to do our duty tomorrow, we must lay aside every other consideration and decide how best our country can be served these next four years.

"In the course of this campaign, I have honorably and to the best of my capacity presented the reasons why I believe so earnestly that the welfare of our country requires a new administration.

"Now, for a few minutes, I should like to talk to you not as a candidate, but as a fellow citizen who is privileged by your courtesy in listening, to come into your home and talk with you.

Hopes to Shorten War.

"You are concerned, as I am, about the progress of the war. You are thinking day and night of some one who is facing death and hardship on the far-off battle lines of this war. And so, as you prepare to cast your vote tomorrow, the first question you ask yourself is this: What is the best way to make sure of a speedy and victorious end of the war? Will it help to shorten the war and assure quicker return of our fighting men if we have a change of administration?

"I deeply believe that it will. I would have refused the nomination of my party for President if I did not believe so, with all my heart and soul. I have made it altogether clear from the beginning, that a change in our civilian government will mean no change in the military conduct of the war. Our chiefs of staff, Adm. King and Gen. Marshall are doing a magnificent job. They are directing the movement of troops and of supplies and the grand military strategy that will carry our armies and navies to victory. The other commanders — Eisenhower, Nimitz, Arnold, MacArthur, Halsey —and all the others are carrying on to their objectives. Their hands will be strengthened by the end of civilian confusion in Washington.

"Constant Conflicts."

"We all know that the war is being fought, not only on the fighting front, but also on the home front. Every one has had a chance to see the administration's part in the war effort at home—to watch the operation of the scores of agencies that have to do with the daily lives of our people.

"Every one has been sickened by the constant conflicts and shifting policies of these agencies, as well as in the handling of war production, of transportation, the problem of rubber, and of other strategic supplies. Let me ask you one simple question: Do you believe the job at home is being handled as well as possible?

"I think every one, from the housewife who struggles with a new rationing problem every week, to the industrial executive who struggles with priorities and allocations—every one will agree that we need improvement—and need it badly.

"The things we can see and know about are only a fraction of the confusion and contradiction that exist in our whole civilian war effort. Multiply these a million times and it becomes clear why it is that the war is not coming to an end more rapidly.

Need Vigor and Unity.

"Gen. Eisenhower has told us twice that the war in Europe would be ended in 1944 if every one at home would do his part. Gen. Eisenhower has never changed that statement. It is Mr. Roosevelt who now tells us that the war has still a long way to go.

"Plainly things have not been going in Washington as well as Gen. Eisenhower expected and had a right to expect. That is the basic reason why we should install in Washington a vigorous and competent administration that will put into the war effort at home a purpose and unity equal to that of our military leaders on the fighting fronts.

"We want to bring this war to a speedy, victorious conclusion, to save unnecessary loss of life, unneeded hardship, and sorrow. The question is no longer—do we dare to make a change in administrations? The question is: Do we dare not to make a change when our own everyday experience, and the testimony of our eyes and ears cry out that a change is desperately needed.

"Now there is another thing that you and I want. We want to make sure that this war shall be the last war; that this tragedy shall never happen again. Like a great light in a darkened world shines the nearly unanimous determination of our people to join together with the people of other nations in setting up a world organization for peace.

"Much has been done to prepare the general principles that will govern the establishment of such an organization. I have been happy to contribute to our unity for this cause by lifting it above partisan debate. But the hardest part of the task is still ahead. So far as American participation is concerned, the difficult details must be worked out between the congress and the President.

"I have unlimited faith that it can be done by a President and a congress working together, in harmony. It will take hard work, patience, and understanding upon all sides.

"In the name of those who are fighting and dying in the cause of freedom, we dare not risk leaving this vital labor in the hands of those who have grown tired and quarrelsome from 12 years in office. History must not repeat itself.

No More Leaf Raking.

"And history must not repeat the breadlines and soup kitchens to which our soldiers returned after the last war, under another tired, war weary administration. After this war is over, 11 million men in our fighting forces will come home. They are entitled to find here an opportunity to realize in peace the things for which they are fighting.

"How can we best make sure that they will have those opportunities? We cannot—we must not return to leaf raking and doles. We cannot forget that under the New Deal it took a war to get jobs. Here again the question is not whether we dare to make a change. It is clear that we must not risk failing to make a change.

Lists Voting Tests.

"These, then, are the simple tests that must govern the decision of every American tomorrow. When you step into the secrecy of the polling booth, ask yourself these questions:

"How can I help shorten the war?

"How can I help secure lasting peace?

"How can I help give us jobs and opportunity in the years that lie beyond our victory?

"If you will soberly ask yourself these questions and will think the answers thru in the light of your own knowledge, I have no doubt of the outcome.

"And let us agree on one more thing. No matter how you vote—it is the duty of every American to vote tomorrow.

"Let no one say: My vote will never be missed."

Every Vote Counts.

"Your vote does count—it counts mightily in the result—and to you. Your secret ballot is your badge of citizenship. Keep it bright—and secure. If you neglect to vote, you leave your destiny to the decision of others; only you can preserve your own freedom.

"If every one will vote, there can be no danger to our country. Of that I am sure—because I firmly believe in the eternal rightness of the people.

"And now, may I read you a letter I have just received from a brave American woman whose son will never return. It is brief. This is the entire letter:

"Dear Gov. Dewey:

"'I am giving you my support and I hope it will help you to win.

"'You cannot bring back my son, lost in the South Pacific, but you can and will, I think, bring back the kind of America he would have wanted to come home to.'

"'It is to that cause that we are dedicated.'

Dismal Night Over.

"We stand today on one of the strange promotories of human history, with the shadows of a dismal, stormy night behind us and the first gray streaks of dawn in the sky beyond us. For 30 years since 1914—nearly half the span of human life—we have seen a series of wars, revolutions, depressions—communism, fascism, nazism, cruelty and suffering, and finally another conflagration that has engulfed the world. At home we have had 12 unhappy years of turmoil and dissension, of group conflicts and class strife, of divisions and hatreds and antagonisms.

"Half a generation has grown up knowing no other atmosphere. I believe our children—our whole country can again live in a world where peace, friendship, and mutual respect abide. After we're thru with the war and get our boys back home, then we must have a period of peace and calm within our own country. Only in that way can we build the unit and strength to meet our problems at home—to support our labors abroad, for the peace of the world.

People Stir with Faith.

"Let us resolve to put aside these years of cynicism and of conflict. Let us resolve to put aside every antagonism, to throw off the nightmare of past years and breathe once more the atmosphere of courage and good will. Our people then can have a chance once more to build, to create and get ahead.

"Under divine guidance, the people of America are stirring with awakening faith—faith in our country—in our future—in our unity.

"There is awakening a renewed sense of the dignity of the individual, of trust in the moral law. Once again, may we have and always keep that faith in ourselves and in our neighbors—faith of our fathers —living faith in almighty God."

Says It's Dewey

New York, Nov. 6 (AP).—Republican National Chairman Brownell said today his latest information confirmed his belief that Gov. Dewey would be elected President tomorrow.

"I have never seen a more careful canvass than we have had, with reports from county as well as state chairmen," Brownell told a press conference at Republican national headquarters. "We have made rechecks in crucial areas, everything confirms my Sunday statement that we cannot concede a single state outside the solid south.

G.O.P. CAR POOL OF 12,000 TO AID VOTERS IN STATE

Possibility of showers today made clear the need for the 12,000 or more automobiles which Republicans will have ready in the 101 downstate counties to cope with handicaps of weather and distance.

Gov. Green on Saturday telegraphed each county chairman to use every available automobile to aid in getting voters to and from the polls. Secretary of State Rowe, chairman of the organization committee of the G. O. P. state central committee, reiterated that there will be an average of at least three cars for each of the 4,160 downstate precincts.

Rowe said the G. O. P. car pool is more likely to be about 15,000. Rain is not all to the bad in downstate elections, because it keeps farmers from working and gives them time to vote, some observers hold. Whatever precipitation there is today will be nothing in comparison with the severe rain and wind storm that reduced the April 11 primary vote, forecasters said.

DEWEY LISTENS TO REBROADCAST OF OWN SPEECH

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 6 (AP). — An hour before Gov. Dewey was to give his last speech of the campaign he had a chance to listen to himself.

Photographers assembled in a parlor at the governor's mansion here had turned on the radio and were listening to a rebroadcast of Dewey's Madison Square Garden speech of last Saturday night.

Dewey, walking down the corridor, heard the program, swung into the room, sat down, and listened seriously. Five minutes later he jumped up quickly and said "Well, got to go to work."

SECRETARY ROLE MAIN JOB TODAY FOR MRS. DEWEY

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 6 (AP).—Trim Mrs. Thomas E. Dewey cleared her own decks today so as to be free to act as a sort of extra secretary to her husband tomorrow on election day.

She'll assist his secretaries in digesting the papers, watching news tickers, and catching news broadcasts in their New York hotel suite, where they'll await the verdict of the polls. And, of course, she'll vote.

She is free for the main event because she did what many other American mothers do—called in family help.

Take Care of Boys.

Her mother-in-law, Mrs. George E. Dewey, and a cousin of her husband, Miss Katharine Dewey of Boston, an assistant in Harvard university's engineering department, arrived in Albany today to ride herd on the Dewey small fry, Thomas Jr., 11, and John, 8, who will remain here. The parents Dewey have given strict orders that the boys must be in bed at their normal 8 p. m. But they've been bribed with the promise of a phone call from their parents before bedtime.

Mrs. Dewey has played the public role of "decorative background" thruout the campaign. But Dewey assistants say her husband has made no important campaign speech without her final approval, and she has suggested several changes which were "considered valuable" by Dewey's campaign managers.

Avid Newspaper Reader.

She has become an avid newspaper reader in order to make unofficial digests for her husband. She has kept a pokerlike smile, and has declined to comment on the "win, lose, or draw" day ahead, but Dewey aids say she'll stick at the news tickers as long as her husband.

She will leave Albany on election day with her husband and his secretaries. During breakfast on the train they will listen to news broadcasts. In New York City they will check in at the Roosevelt hotel and go directly to the polls at 108 E. 48th st.

The candidate's mother has made an effort to conceal her excitement, but she says she feels like any other mother would in the same circumstances. She is casting her first vote [absentee] for her son. She couldn't vote for him before because his other campaigns were in New York state and her residence is in Owosso, Mich.

VARIED WEATHER FACING VOTERS IN NATION TODAY

Election day weather prospects over the nation are exceedingly spotty, Forecaster H. S. Kenny said yesterday. For the Chicago area, light rains and none too mild temperatures are expected.

Clear and cold for the eastern seaboard, extending into clear and mild for the gulf states; general rains over the upper Mississippi valley, extending eastward and to the western lake regions and reaching upper Michigan and Indiana late in the day; light rains for Tennessee, Kentucky, and Ohio, probably beginning late in the day.

Showers for the lower Mississippi valley and the plains states; snow flurries over the Rockies, but in the far west and the Pacific coast clear weather, except for the western portions of Oregon and Washington, where rain is forecast.

RADIO TO GIVE D-DAY COVERAGE OF THE ELECTION

Networks to Rub Out Regular Schedules.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The most complete coverage ever given a national election since the first one broadcast—the Harding-Cox contest in 1920—is in store for listeners tonight. As on D-day the major networks are rubbing out their entire regular schedules thruout the evening to make way for election reports.

W-G-N will start its election program at 6 p. m. and continue thru the night. If any bulletins are available between 5 and 6 p. m.—the hour after polls close—these will be broadcast during regularly scheduled programs. Then W-G-N will devote itself to the election [and other news] except for interludes of music, "Chicago at Night" at 10:15, and "The Crime Files of Flamond." The latter, at 9:30 p. m., will present "The Case of the Dead Candidate," a thriller with authentic election returns woven into the plot.

F M Will Stay On.

WGNB, W-G-N's sister station, which regularly signs off at 9 p. m., will stay on thru the night, or until all important contests are decided.

Throngs in the loop will hear the election returns as broadcast by W-G-N. The station has made arrangements with the State Street council for exclusive use of its new public address system of 80 horns to broadcast the election news. W-G-N will install loudspeakers at several points west of State st.

To cover the election W-G-N will employ 27 members of its own staff. Supplementing them will be the Mutual network reporters for national coverage, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and its political experts, Arthur Sears Henning and Arthur Evans, and the various news gathering services.

Arranges for Pickups.

W-G-N has arranged for pickups direct from Republican headquarters in the La Salle hotel, and the Democrats' in the Morrison. Mutual has arranged for pickups from many points across the nation. It is expected that major winning and losing candidates will be brought to the microphone. Mutual expects to relay short wave pickups from the Philippines, Rome and Paris, giving the reaction of service men.

W-G-N-Mutual commentators include Fulton Lewis, Jack Brickhouse, Cecil Brown, Archibald Crossley, Gabriel Heatter, and many others.

And the first thing tomorrow, the morning after election, NBC will offer a roundup of expressions abroad to the choice for President. This feature is scheduled at 7 a. m., with Ed Haaker speaking from London, Merrill Mueller from Paris, and Robert Magidoff from Moscow.

Two revolvers valued at $30 were stolen from his home at 6843 East End av., John D. Daily reported yesterday.

Expect Green and Lyons to Lead Dewey.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

A total vote in Illinois that may equal and perhaps exceed the 4,262,196 of 1940 is looked for by Republican and Democratic leaders as the campaign goes to the polls today. Gov. Green, running for a second term, will lead the Republican ticket in the vote. County canvasses and straw votes indicate that both the governor and Richard J. Lyons, candidate for United States senator, will lead Gov. Dewey, head of the ticket.

The ancient lines of battle are tightened between Chicago, home of the Democratic machine, and downstate Illinois, overwhelmingly Republican.

Downstate Estimate Raised.

Republican statisticians, after a final canvass of county chairmen thruout the state as to the indicated size of the majorities in their counties, raised their estimates of downstate strength. They said their calculations indicate that Dewey will come up to the Cook county line 350,000 votes ahead of President Roosevelt. Green and Lyons are given a somewhat higher figure in the estimates.

With the country towns of Chicagoland traditionally Republican, the downstate margins will be increased.

Roosevelt is expected to run ahead of Sen. Lucas, candidate for reëlection. Lucas is opposed by Lyons, his antagonist six years ago. The President also is expected to be ahead of State's Atty. Courtney, opponent of Gov. Green.

What Roosevelt's majority in Chicago will be is the problem. It is accentuated this year by the registration and the shifts in population it involves. Republicans said Roosevelt could carry Chicago by 400,000, which they do not deem likely, and still be overthrown by the net combined Republican majorities in the area outside Chicago, which means the 101 counties downstate and the Cook county suburbs.

Registry List Grows.

Total registration this year is 4,561,410. An increase of 196,033 in Cook county over the 1940 registry lists, largely in war plant areas, now shows the county with 380,350 more registered voters than are on the books in the 101 downstate counties. Cook county has 2,470,880; the remainder of the state, 2,090,530.

Republicans declare the downstate registry will be increased by voters in that area who may vote by affidavit as of old. A large proportion of the Chicago and Cook county increase results from the fact that people from downstate have moved to war plant jobs, but they have not changed their political views.

Four years ago, Roosevelt had a majority of 281,822 in Chicago, which was a drop from his 1936 majority of 555,286. Straw votes this year give him a smaller percentage of the Chicago vote than the 58.3 per cent he had in 1940. Downstate straw votes and county canvasses show Dewey with a percentage notably higher than that of Willkie four years ago, and also with a higher percentage in the Cook county towns.

Soldier Vote to Be Counted.

The soldier vote, one of the imponderables in the election, is to be counted with the civilian vote. When the polls close, it is placed in the ballot boxes and the count starts, with the absentee vote supposed to be indistinguishable from the civilian. Theories on both sides are that the soldier vote will not vary much from the civilian.

It was expected to total about 250,000, but reports last night were that it may not exceed 210,000. Fewer ballots were received downstate, it was said, than were at first estimated.

One matter not to be overlooked is the difference in strength this year between the party organizations. In 1940 the Democrats had the state administration. This year the Republicans have it, while also in a growing majority of the counties, Republicans hold the bulk of the elective offices, and organizations have been built up.

In final forecasts from the rival camps, the Republicans predicted a majority as high as 250,000 for Dewey; the Democrats estimated that President Roosevelt would "materially increase" his plurality of 102,000 out of 4,262,196 votes cast in 1940.

VIGIL PROMISED AGAINST FORCE, FRAUD AT POLLS

Civic Groups to Assist City Police, FBI.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Assurance was given yesterday by Guy E. Reed, chairman of the Joint Civic Committee on Elections and president of the Chicago Crime commission, that voters will have ample protection today as they cast their ballots. Thousands of watchers will be on hand, too, as the ballots are counted, Reed announced, and every precaution will be taken to prevent vote stealing.

Reed's committee will coöperate with the Business Men's committee and the Honest Ballot association, which also will have watchers in wards where they said hoodlumism has been found to prevail.

Extra Police Ordered Out.

Police Commissioner Allman said he would have all his force at the polls and in addition several hundred policemen will be borrowed from the park district. Atty. Gen. George Barrett said he would have watchers and investigators seeking evidence of crooked voting and would be ready to combat it.

"Our organization will have a group of 110 picked men as flying squads which will operate from 18 ward headquarters," Reed said.

Assure Impartiality.

"They will operate in automobiles with the authorization of the OPA and they will maintain alternate shifts similar to those of the volunteer observers who will be responsible to the committee headquarters which will be maintained in the office of County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki.

"To insure the nonpartisan relationship of our army of poll watchers, the flying squads have been given authority to remove any observers who show the slightest leaning toward one party."

Federal bureau of investigation agents also will be on watch in the city, it was announced, against efforts to interfere with votes for President, United States senator, or congressman, or to falsify the returns on those offices.

Rep. Dewey [R., Ill.] said he had reported to the FBI that many of his supporters had been threatened. Such threats constitute a federal offense, he added, and any one who is caught interfering with his workers will be prosecuted.

Detective Richard Martin, who in times past has arrested several gunmen reported to have political influence, was put back in uniform last week, 42d ward Republicans told Dewey. Mayor Kelly and Police Commissioner Allman denied politics had dictated the demotion of Martin but Allman had no explanation for the change.

DEMPSEY FIGHT SPURS COUNTY HOPES OF G. O. P.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

The Democratic machine fought desperately thru election eve to repel the attack of the Republican county ticket headed by John T. Dempsey, nominee for state's attorney. In hostile hands, the prosecutor's office might be able to wreck the Kelly organization.

Republicans, inured to defeat but at last in sight of Cook county victory, kept on battling harder than ever. According to straw votes they were only slightly behind, and felt sure of having a heavy majority of the "free vote"—that not influenced by the tens of thousands of payrollers of city, county, school board, sanitary district, and other local offices.

Machine Turns on Pressure.

The Kelly organization turned on the pressure where Dempsey's blows dented its line. Democratic workers sought straight votes from known Democrats, but in talking to Republican voters they asked ballots split in favor of William J. Tuohy, Democratic nominee for state's attorney.

Hopes of the G. O. P. county ticket lay principally in a rise of Chicago sentiment for Dewey and Bricker. If the vote for the Presidential candidate should be about 2 per cent better for Dewey than the straw vote Dempsey would likely get in, and possibly his county teammates.

Some of the Republican seers profess to see a chance of this. Persons who refuse to vote in the straw polls are sure to vote Republican, they contend, because pressure in the campaign has been one-sidedly Democratic. Also, the migration of factory workers is likely to be reflected in many of the straw voters being unable to cast real ballots, it is said.

Ballot Position Unfavorable.

On the other hand, Dempsey's standout campaign might not pay off its maximum in votes simply because the office of state's attorney is far down on the ballot. Many hurried citizens may not get that far before going on their ways.

Leo Carr, Republican candidate for sheriff, is generally accorded the second strongest position in G. O. P. county ranks. He was defeated for the same office by only 62,000 votes in 1942.

Carr also banged away right up to the last. In a radio broadcast yesterday he assailed "the alliance between the underworld and the city hall political machine." It has made law enforcement a shambles, he said. Sheriff Michael F. Mulcahy, Democratic nominee, is necessarily a tool of the city hall machine, Carr said.

Blow at Kelly Rule Urged.

"Kelly controls the entire county set-up, the majority of county commissioners, the judges, and what-have-you," Carr said. "That is why, if for no other reason, a sheriff from the Republican party should be elected."

Republican County Chairman George M. Fisher predicted victory by an unannounced margin, while Mayor Kelly claimed a sweep that might give the Democrats a 500,000 plurality in Chicago. Fisher said that Democratic tactics showed the fear of defeat.

In addition to racial roorbacks planted in Negro neighborhoods, too late for reply by the G. O. P., Fisher said that falsehoods were being circulated systematically to hold down the Republican upsurge. Voters were being told by Democrats they could not switch parties if they voted in the Democratic primary and that their sons in the armed services might find homecoming or promotions delayed if parents voted Republican, Fisher said.

Insult Negroes' Intelligence.

The Rev. A. L. Shelby of First Timothy Baptist church and Madison C. B. Mason, real estate dealer, brought in examples of the roorbacks in letter form and said they were insults to Negro intelligence. The letters were signed by a nonexistent "White American league." Distributors were careful to avoid use of the mails, which would be a penal offense.

Shifts in sentiment in both directions cannot be measured until the county vote is counted tonight. Votes for state's attorney and sheriff will be counted fairly early. Some counts will be tardy for other offices, including coroner, recorder of deeds, sanitary district trustees, and clerks of the Appellate, Superior, and Circuit courts.

CONFESSED BOBBER BROUGHT BACK.

Walter Spath, 34, who confessed after his arrest in New York that he robbed the apartment of Mrs. Edna Schirr, 607 N. Wells st. on Oct. 18 of $1,800 and $1,300 in jewelry, was returned to Chicago yesterday for trial.

G.O.P. CONFIDENT IT CAN SECURE HOUSE CONTROL

Republicans Need Only Six More Seats There.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

Close behind the Presidential race in national interest is the heated battle for control of congress. Thirty-five senators and 432 members of the house are to be named as American voters decide the fourth term issue.

Republicans are confident of carrying the house to secure control for the first time since 1928. They also scent the possibility of control in the senate.

Virtual Tie in House Now.

In the house Republicans now have surged from a low of 89 seats in 1936 to 212 seats and a virtual tie with the Democrats at 214 seats. There are four minor party seats and five vacancies.

Six seats will give Republicans control of the house with Rep. Martin [R., Mass.], house minority leader, certain of the speakership. Republicans predict gains of as many as 50 to 60 seats. However, the most optimistic Democrats are also talking about gaining 25 to 40 seats.

Political observers liken the current house race to that of 1918, when the Republicans wrested control of that body from the Democrats. In that contest the presidency was not an issue as Woodrow Wilson still had two years to serve.

Democrats Rely on Roosevelt.

Democrats stake their hope of holding the house on the Presidential race. Speaker Rayburn recently expressed confidence that the house would remain Democratic because the number of Democratic seats has gone up each time Mr. Roosevelt was a candidate and has gone down only in off-years.

In the senate where the peace treaty of the present conflict is to be submitted for ratification, there are 58 Democrats, 37 Republicans, and one Progressive. Out of the 35 senate contests, the Republicans must make a net gain of 11 seats to win control of that body.

Republicans are confident of gaining eight seats—in Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, and Oklahoma. Four contests are doubtful, but leaning Democratic. These are in California, Maryland, Kentucky, and Washington. Republicans must capture three of these to win the senate. Democratic prognosticators say this cannot be done.

Wagner Seen Facing Defeat.

High in interest in the senatorial contests is the fight Thomas J. Curran, New York secretary of state and long time associate of Gov. Dewey, is making against veteran Sen. Wagner [D., N. Y.], long time friend of Mr. Roosevelt. Curran is regarded as a certain winner.

The closest senate races are those of Senate Majority Leader Barkley [D., Ky.] against James Park, Republican; Sen. Downey [D., Cal.] against Frederick F. Houser, Republican; Sen. Thomas [D., Okla.] against William J. Otjen, Republican, and Warren G., Magnuson, Democratic congressman, against Harry P. Cain, Republican, in Washington.

Some house races involve nationally known figures. In New York's 29th district Rep. Fish [R., N. Y.] is regarded as a certain winner over Augustus W. Bennett, Democrat. In Connecticutt's 4th district the colorful Rep. Clare Boothe Luce is expected to win over Atty. Margaret E. Connors, Democrat.

In California Mrs. Helen Gahagan Douglas, Democratic wife of movie actor Melvyn Douglas, is expected to lead William D. Campbell, Republican business man. And in Massachusetts, Rep. Martin, confident of being the next speaker, is regarded as an easy winner over Edwin P. Talbot, Democrat, in the 14th district.

Sermon on Prohibition; Anthem: Taste and See

Jamestown, N. D., Nov. 6 (AP).—Prohibition was the sermon topic of a Jamestown minister at the Sunday service here. Inadvertently the choir anthem for the morning was "Taste and See."

5 REPUBLICANS CONFIDENT IN CONGRESS RACE

Church Facing Hard Coalition Fight.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

With the political complexion of congress looked upon as hardly less important this year than the Presidency itself, Republican nominees for representative in five closely fought Cook county districts were confident last night of victory.

These districts are the 1st, 2d, and 3d on the south and southwest sides; the big 7th on the northwest, and the 9th, just north of the loop. In all of them the G. O. P. nominees have the massed opposition of the regular Democratic organization and of the CIO political action committee.

Church Fights Combination.

In one other district—the 10th, which includes the whole of Lake county, the north shore suburbs, and a large territory in Chicago—a warm campaign has been waged against the Republican incumbent, Ralph E. Church. His opponent, Curtis D. MacDougall, a Northwestern university professor, has assailed the congressman as an "isolationist and obstructionist."

Church is running on his record of solid Americanism. To combat the isolationism charge, he recalled that he had voted for lend-lease, for funds for the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration, for reciprocal trade agreements, and for the Fulbright resolution on international peace organization.

Church Policies Told.

As a member of the house committee on naval affairs Church was responsible in 1935 for reopening Great Lakes Naval Training center and also campaigned for the navy's purchase of the Glenview air field.

Church has charged that MacDougall is the Hillman-Browder candidate and that the PAC is financing his campaign.

In the 1st district, including the loop and territory as far south as 43d street, the incumbent Democrat, William L. Dawson, is opposed by William E. King [R.], well known as a leader among the city's Negroes.

Machine Favors Busbey's Foe.

The 2d finds Thomas J. Downs [R.] battling the incumbent congressman, William A. Rowan. In 1942 Rowan won over Downs by only 3,500 votes out of 216,000 cast.

Fred E. Busbey [R.], now in congress and a member of the Dies committee, is opposed by Edward A. Kelly, whom he defeated by 6,000 votes in 1942. Kelly is the city hall choice.

In the 7th district the G. O. P. candidate is Charles H. Garland, mayor of Des Plaines and former radio executive. His opponent is William W. Link, member of the county civil service commission and the machine pick. The district is the most populous in the United States, with more than a million inhabitants.

Dewey Financial Expert.

The 9th district has as candidates the G. O. P. incumbent, Charles S. Dewey, one of the ablest financial experts in congress, and Alexander J. Resa, the city hall choice. Dewey served in World War I. and has two sons and two sons-in-law in service.

In the 6th district, the Democratic nominee, Thomas J. O'Brien, has two opponents. The G. O. P. is backing an independent, Iva J. Henderson, rather than the regular nominee, Charles J. Anderson Jr., whose anti-Semitic views were disclosed after his nomination.

115,164 VOTES COME FROM ABSENTEES TO BOARD OF ELECTION

The board of election commissioners, having jurisdiction over the voting machinery of Chicago and nine Cook county towns, disclosed that until late last night it had received 115,164 absentee ballots previously mailed out to members of the army and navy and to civilians. Of the total, 110,011 were for Chicagoans. Of this number, 3,630 came in the mails yesterday and were dispatched by special delivery to the various polling places at a cost of 19 cents each. The remainder, 111,534 ballots, previously had been distributed among 4,025 polling places, along with election supplies last Sunday.

There still remain to be counted a total of 22,170 absentee ballots, for which Carl Schroeder of the board's clerical staff said he has arranged a special pickup service at the main postoffice if they are received before the polls close this evening.

In all, the board received 151,357 applications for absentee ballots. It mailed out 137,334 and disqualified 14,023 duplicates.

GREEN MAKES FINAL APPEAL: 'WEIGH ISSUES'

The fundamental issues of the national and state campaigns were carefully outlined by Gov. Green in a final appeal last night for Illinois to turn in the largest vote in the state's history.

"I appeal to every man and woman eligible to vote in this election to exercise his right of suffrage," Gov. Green said. "The size of the vote tomorrow thruout the nation will measure our appreciation of the freedoms which our fighting men are bravely defending on the battle fronts of the world, and for which other generations of Americans have fought and died since the American revolution."

Asked to Weigh Issues.

In this election particularly, the governor said, the voters should consider carefully the issues outlined by the various candidates and cast their votes accordingly.

"When you take your ballot into the polling booth tomorrow," Gov. Green said, "you will be confronted with the choice between two old familiar party labels: the Republican and the Democratic. For almost a century these labels have stood for divergent views of government, for conflicting programs for America.

"The Republican party and its national candidates, Thomas E. Dewey and John W. Bricker, stand firm where Republicans have stood since Abraham Lincoln—for the Constitution, for liberty, for honesty in government, and for full consultation with all the people on every national question."

Takes a New Meaning.

All voters should realize, Green declared, that the Democratic party label has taken on a new meaning. The Democratic party, he said, is no longer governed by the fundamental principles accepted by both political parties in the past.

"In presenting a fourth term candidate the Democratic party repudiates one of the oldest traditions of this Republic—the tradition against one man rule," Gov. Green said. "The party has surrendered its leadership and has promised control of our government to forces in American life who look upon Constitutional limitations, upon the national executive with contempt, and who are committed to radical and dangerous experiments without political, economic, and social order."

DEMPSEY ENDS CAMPAIGN WITH BLAST AT TUOHY

John T. Dempsey, Republican nominee for state's attorney, ended his campaign last night with a statement of reproof against his opponent, William J. Tuohy, whom he accused of making a campaign of falsehoods. It was the first time Dempsey had discussed Tuohy.

"My opponent, the candidate of the Kelly machine, has made so many untruthful statements in this campaign that it is evident he has no regard for the truth," said Dempsey. "If he had any reputation for veracity, he has certainly lost it in the last two weeks.

"He will be defeated tomorrow, and one of the reasons for his defeat is that he has shown himself unfit for the high office of state's attorney. He is either so weak he says everything he is told to say, and hence would be a tool in the hands of those who boss him, or he is so without character that he tells falsehoods, garbles the truth, and defames his fellow man in order to satisfy his ambition."

ACCUSE INDIANA DEMOCRATS OF ELECTION 'STEAL'

Registration Ruling Is Called Illegal.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 6 [Special].—In a move described by Atty. Gen. James A. Emmert as an attempt to "steal the election," Democratic majority members of the state election board today voted to inform Indiana county clerks to accept affidavits of voters having registration receipts even tho their names do not appear in precinct registration lists.

A motion to send telegrams to the clerks, instructing them to take such action in their capacity as vote registration officers, was adopted on the vote of Gov. Henry F. Schricker and David M. Lewis, Democratic members of the election board, over the protest of Edwin H. Steers, Republican member.

Immediately after the decision, however, Emmert, a Republican, telegraphed clerks in Indiana's 92 counties to disregard the last minute regulation of the election board.

Asks Lake County Watch.

Claude Billings, secretary of the state Republican committee, in Indianapolis tonight called upon Lt. Gov. Charles M. Dawson to send as many persons as necessary to Lake county tomorrow to represent the legislature's special vote fraud committee in preventing misuse of voters' affidavits.

Plans were announced for a mobile squad of authorized committee representatives to be in readiness to fly to any section of the state where attempts to vote on affidavit may be made.

In an opinion Saturday, Emmert had ruled that voters whose names do not appear on precinct registration lists must obtain a certificate of error from their county clerks to be able to vote.

Investigation Promised.

In his telegram to the clerks, Emmert declared the election commissioners' 11th hour regulation violates the law and warned that instances of "such illegal voting" that may occur under the regulation will be investigated by the five member election fraud commission authorized Saturday at the special session of the legislature.

"This ruling is a clear violation of the law and nullifies our registration laws," Emmert declared. "It opens the door to the grossest kind of election frauds.

Says Opinion Violated.

"It violates the opinion of the attorney general, given Nov. 4 to the state board of election commissioners. It violates the practice established by the Democrats when they were in control. Nor is the state board of election commissioners authorized to give binding official opinions to county boards.

"Earlier today the governor had said he had never 'gone behind an official opinion of the attorney general.' Now they are willing to steal this election any way they can. The new senatorial election commission should begin its investigation by investigating the governor and his stooge, David M. Lewis."

Report Archduke Awaits Vienna's Fall to Return

LONDON, Nov. 7 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Archduke Otto, pretender to the Austrian throne, is in Lisbon, Portugal, ready to return to Vienna as soon as the Austrian capital is captured, the Daily Express said today. The Express' foreign editor said Prime Minister Churchill on his recent visit to Moscow is reported to have raised the question of Austria's future and Marshal Stalin indicated that he held no objection to a monarchy if it was the general desire of the Austrian people.

LUCAS CHARGES G. O. P. SLUR ON STALIN REGIME

Gov. Dewey's warnings against the spread of communism in America have insulted the Russian government, Sen. Lucas said last night in the last speech of his campaign for reëlection. Lucas and other Democratic nomineees espoused internationalist doctrines and praised President Roosevelt.

Lucas told a W-G-N audience that he favors a strong post-war global organization, adding, "If my opponent were elected he would join that little band of senators who plot to scuttle another league of nations or its counterpart."

"Remember," Lucas said, "it was Dewey who objected to our recognition of Russia. Dewey's insinuations against Russia in this campaign are known to all.

Decries "Insult" to Ally.

"I say to you that as long as Russians over there are crushing Nazis and thus saving the lives of our sons, no Presidential candidate should be insulting the Russian government. If we get help from Russia against Japan, it would mean a speedier victory and fewer American lives lost."

State's Atty. Courtney, who is completing 12 years in office and who made the Democratic race for governor, also lauded President Roosevelt in a final statement.

The commander in chief issue was stressed in the final speech of William J. Tuohy, nominee for state's attorney, who also predicted victory for Lucas and Courtney and said that Mayor Kelly, who is Democratic county chairman and national committeeman, has created party harmony in Chicago.

Tuohy Accuses G. O. P.

Tuohy charged that Republican nominees have furthered anti-Negro and anti-Semitic propaganda, adding:

"They have been seeing 'Reds' under the bed in every American home. They have even attempted to tell the American people that Communists are plotting to take over the government of the United States after President Roosevelt's reëlection."

Democratic nominees wound up their campaign in Henry Sonnenschein's 22d ward last night at 2345 S. Kedzie av. Sonnenschein, the Democratic ward committeeman and nominee for reëlection as Superior court clerk, presented a rabbit's foot to each nominee who spoke, and gave one to Mayor Kelly for President Rodsevelt. The mayor said the President will be glad to receive it because "he is a superstitious man." Approximately 2,000 persons attended the meeting.

MISS KELLEMS FILES $1,000,000 CIO LIBEL SUIT

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 6 [Special].—Vivian Kellems, head of a manufacturing plant in Connecticut, filed a new libel suit for $1,000,000 in federal court here today against the Labor Herald, organ of the California Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Several weeks ago Miss Kellems sued the Labor Herald for $500,000 damages because it referred to her as a "Fascist." Today's suit was her answer to comment by the Labor Herald on her previous suit that it would "continue to call a spade a spade and Miss Kellems a Fascist."

As in the case of her first action, Miss Kellems named several CIO officials and the California CIO as co-defendants. Miss Kellems was a Republican candidate for congress in Connecticut in 1942.

PLANS TO RETAIN 2 MILLION YANKS IN EUROPE TOLD

Troops to Get Police Duty in Germany.

In his campaign speeches, Gov. Dewey charged that the Roosevelt administration, with a peace time record of 10 million still unemployed after eight years of the New Deal, plans to "keep men in the army because it is afraid of a resumption of its own depression."

Draft Director Quoted.

He quoted Draft Director Hershey's statement, "We can keep people in the army about as cheaply as we could create an agency for them when they are out."

President Roosevelt retorted, "A formal plan for the method of speedy discharge from the army already had been announced by the war department."

Gov. Dewey rejoined: "You can read that plan from now till doomsday and you cannot find one word about 'speedy discharge.' It is, in fact, a statement of the priority in which men will be discharged after the war. It does not say whether or not they are to be retained in service a month or years after victory."

Mr. Roosevelt, repudiating Hershey, called Gov. Dewey's charge a "callous and brazen falsehood" when he spoke at the teamster's dinner, seated beside the union's president, Dan Tobin, who had just stated in the union publication, "At the end of this war it may be necessary to hold thousands of American soldiers in the army until there are peace time jobs to employ them."

Now it is divulged that the war department has been planning all along to keep not fewer than 2 million soldiers in Europe after hostilities cease. In order to occupy those troops not actively engaged in policing activities, the department has mapped out "a large scale educational program" to be "supplemented by organized travel tours to places of historic interest," according to Col. Lawrence Westbrook, who unfolded the plan on behalf of the planning division at a conference on industrial relations arranged by the American Management association.

Col. Westbrook said the reason for keeping so large a number of troops in Europe is that it will be "necessary to use most of our shipping for a considerable time to get troops and supplies to the Pacific-Asiatic theater."

"It should not be expected," said Col. Westbrook, "that those in Europe who can be spared from the war with Japan or from the policing job abroad will be able to get home in any large numbers."

Ships Termed Unsuitable.

The department conceded that a vast number of ships would be required to supply our troops in Europe, but asserted these bottoms would not be suitable for use as transports to bring troops home. The rejoinder offered to this argument was that American soldiers, eager to get home to their families and to their jobs, will not be squeamish about the sort of ships available. Moreover, there was cited the British decision not to use any large numbers of troops against Japan, thereby releasing several hundred transports that would be available to bring soldiers home.

Gov. Dewey promises to provide the ships to bring our troops home if the people vote him into power today.

About 45 million voters will decide whether 62 year old President Roosevelt or 42 year old Gov. Dewey of New York is to be President of the United States for the next four years.

From 6 o'clock this morning until 5 o'clock tonight in Illinois and 9 o'clock in New York and a few other states a mighty battle of the ballots will be waged between the workers in the cities preponderantly favoring Mr. Roosevelt and the farmers and small business of the rural regions overwhelmingly supporting Mr. Dewey.

Bosses Want Roosevelt.

Waging the battle for Mr. Roosevelt will be the great metropolitan Democratic machines — Mayor Kelly's in Chicago, Boss Frank [I Am the Law] Hague's in New Jersey, that of Tammany and Bosses Edward J. [Paving Blocks] Flynn and Frank Kelly in New York City, and the Democratic organizations in Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Kansas City, Cleveland, Detroit, San Francisco, and Los Angeles, all reenforced by the battalions of Sidney Hillman's communist controled CIO political action committee.

Marshaling the armies of Dewey voters will be the Republican organizations in Illinois, New York, Pennsylvania, and 23 other states which have Republican governors. Their field of operations will be chiefly the farms, villages, and small cities, strongholds of the Dewey hosts, but also reaching into the metropolitan centers where the fourth term and the ascendency of Browder's Communists and Hillman's communist PAC in the Roosevelt regime have split the American Federation of Labor and even some CIO units and allenated conservative Democrats and important religious and racial groups from Mr. Roosevelt's support.

In Illinois, Pennsylvania, New York, Massachusetts, and other big states these opposing city forces for Roosevelt and country forces for Dewey appear to be about even in numbers. The result will depend on which side gets out the more votes: the Democratic organizations and the PAC in the cities for Roosevelt or the Republican organizations in the rural districts for Dewey.

3½ Million Service Votes.

Of the 45 million voters about 3½ million will be members of the army and navy who have mailed their ballots from the European and Asiatic battle fronts, from war ships at sea, from far flung army and navy bases in two hemispheres and from training camps in this country.

There are more than 88 million persons of voting age, including about 8 million in the army and navy—an increase of 8 million in the last four years. The voting population divides into 44 million men and 44,600,000 women.

There not only are more adult women than men in the country, but, because there are nearly 5 million service men who will not vote, the women are expected to exercise a predominant influence in this selection. Voter canvasses conducted by the party organizations in numerous states and polls, such as that of the New York Daily News, have disclosed that women are preponderantly favoring Dewey. One of the principal reasons for their attitude reported by canvassers is Mr. Roosevelt's failure to keep his "again and again and again" 1940 pledge at Boston that "your boys are not going to be sent into any foreign wars."

Registry Under 61 Million.

Of the 88 million of voting age, fewer than 61 million are registered and eligible to vote. Nearly 50 million voted in the 1940 election, but because of migrations of war workers who have failed to qualify in new places of residence, because men dodging bullets are likely to be forgetful of ballots, and because of apathy in some groups of the population a much smaller turnout of voters is expected this time.

Of the big states, registration records have been broken in only two —Illinois and California. In Illinois nearly 2½ million have been registered in Cook county and a little more than 2 million downstate. The California registration is more than 4 million, about 89,000 more than four years ago.

Of the unknown quantities in this election, the greatest and most interesting is whether the soldier vote will decide the contest. The indications are that while Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Dewey may win by a substantial or even large majority of the electoral college, the popular plurality is likely to be considerbly less than the 5 million by which the President won in 1940.

Factor in Several States.

In New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Massachusetts, and a number of other states the division of the civilian vote may be so close that the service ballots will determine who gets the electoral votes. There are 16 states in which the estimated soldier vote is larger than the popular plurality of the candidate who won the state in 1940. Among them are Illinois with an estimated soldier vote of 300,000, Indiana 125,000, Iowa 65,000, Wisconsin 100,000, Michigan 165,000, Minnesota 140,000, Missouri 100,000, New York 400,000, Ohio 150,000, Massachusetts 150,000, and New Jersey 285,000.

The soldier votes will be counted tonight in most states. In Illinois they will be counted along with the civilian ballots. In New York they will be counted afterward. How rapidly the soldier ballots can be counted is problematical. All kinds of questions of regularity of ballots may arise.

In the Philadelphia mayoral election last year there were so many challenges of soldier ballots on the grounds of irregularity of oath, etc., that it took three weeks to complete the canvass.

Count Delayed in 11 States.

Then there are 11 states in which soldier ballots will not be counted for several days or several weeks after the polls close today. If the election should be so close that the result would hinge upon the soldier vote in one or more of these states it might be weeks before the country knew whether it had elected Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Dewey.

There is Pennsylvania, with 35 electoral votes, which may be the pivotal state in the election. It will not start counting its soldier ballots, estimated at 250,000, until Nov. 22. Missouri will tabulate its soldier ballots Nov. 10; California, with 240,000 soldier votes, Nov. 24; Colorado, with 30,000, Nov. 22; Nebraska, with 25,000, Dec. 1; Delaware, with 4,000, Nov. 9; Florida, with 35,000, Nov. 17; North Dakota, with 8,000, Dec. 5; Rhode Island, with 16,500, Dec. 4; Utah, with 15,000, Nov. 27; Washington, with 50,000, Nov. 27.

Young Travelers

Richard Roberts, 13, and his nephew, Lloyd Hobel, 2, with Fireman Edward Flanagan, who found them wandering in search of Lloyd's mother yesterday.

Richard Roberts, 13, and his nephew, Lloyd Hobel, 2, arrived in Chicago by bus yesterday from Orient, Franklin county, with an outsize suitcase, $1.60, and a serene confidence they could find Richard's sister and Lloyd's mother, Mrs. Helen Roberts, 21, a divorcee.

Richard, lugging the heavy suitcase in one hand and tugging the sleepy child with the other, was found wandering around 14th st. and Michigan av. yesterday by Fireman Edward Flanagan. He bought them breakfast and turned them over to Central police.

There Richard explained that his mother, Myrtle, had left home and that his father, Clate, a miner, was drunk, and that he figured his home was a poor place to try and bring up Lloyd, who had been left there last Thursday by Mrs. Roberts.

Richard confessed Chicago was a bigger place than he had anticipated, and that finding Mrs. Roberts would probably be a little harder than he'd expected. He said he'd asked a half dozen people already if they knew her, and nobody did.

Farmers' Ad Lures Crowd of Volunteer Harvesters

Mesquite, Tex., Nov. 6 (AP).—A little psychology of the Tom Sawyer variety has paid off for two Texas farmers. Because of the labor shortage, they believed their crops doomed, but remembering Tom's success in getting a fence whitewashed by selling friends on the idea it was fun, they ran a newspaper ad in the joys of gathering vegetables. The response from nearby Dallas was so great that the farmers expect to clear $100 an acre.

57,000 Yank Prisoners Abroad Will Not Vote

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6 (AP).—The more than 57,000 United States service men and women who are prisoners of war have not been permitted to cast absentee ballots for tomorrow's election the war department said today.

BRICKER URGES A CONTINUATION OF HIS SYSTEM

Columbus, O., Nov. 6 (AP).—Gov. Bricker, on the eve of an election which he hopes will lift him to the Vice Presidency, appealed to Ohioans tonight to order a continuation of "the kind of government" he has given during six years as their governor.

The Republican nominee for the No. 2 office in the land spoke over a state-wide radio network after a day's rest from an eight week campaign that carried him 16,000 miles thru 31 states.

Reviewing his three terms in office, Gov. Bricker said in a prepared speech:

"Ohio has approved the organization and service it has had for six years. I believe we want that kind of government continued."

F. D. R. STRESSES CHOICE FREEDOM IN CLOSING PLEA

Ends His Campaign in Hyde Park Talk.

"As we sit quietly this evening in our home at Hyde Park our thoughts, like those of millions of other Americans, are most deeply concerned with the well being of all our American fighting men. We are thinking of our own sons—all of them far away from home—and of our neighbors' sons and the sons of our friends.

"In great contrast to the quiet which is ours here in America in our own secure homes is the knowledge that most of those fighting men of ours have no quiet times, and little leisure at this hour to reflect on the significance of our American election day, tomorrow.

Some in Wet Foxholes.

"Some are standing at battle stations on shipboard, tense in the excitement of action; some lie in wet foxholes or trudge doggedly thru the sticky mud, firing as they go. Still others are high above the earth, fighting Messerschmits or Zeros.

"All of them are giving everything they have got to defeat our enemies, and uppermost in all their minds is the one thought: To win the war as soon as possible, so that they may return to the quiet and peace of their homes.

"But—in the midst of fighting—in the presence of our brutal enemies—our soldiers and sailors and airmen will not forget election day back home.

"Millions of these men have already cast their own ballots, and they will be wondering about the outcome of the election, and what it will mean to them in their future lives. And sooner or later all of them will be asking questions as to whether the folks back home looked after their interests, their liberties, their government, their country—while they themselves were off at war.

Hopes for Big Vote.

"Our boys are counting on us to show the rest of the world that our kind of government is the best in the world—and the kind we propose to keep. And so, when our people turn out at the polls tomorrow—and I sincerely hope that it will be fifty million strong—the world will respect our democracy, and the grand old Stars and Stripes will wave more proudly than ever before.

"These brave fighters of ours have taken on enemies on both sides of our world, enemies who were nurtured since childhood in militarism. These boys of ours, wisely led, and using the matchless weapons which you here at home have sent to them, have outfought those ruthless enemies, outfought them on the land, outfought them on the sea, outfought them in the skies. They are winning the victory for all of us. Many are giving life itself. And it is for us to make certain that we win for them—the living and the dead—a lasting peace.

"There is nothing adequate which any one in any place can say to those who are entitled to display the gold star in their windows. But each night as the people of the United States rest in their homes which have been safe from violence during all these years of the most violent war in all history—I am sure that all of them silently give thought to their feelings of deep gratitude to the brave departed and to their families for the immeasurable sacrifice that they have made for the cause of decency and freedom and civilization.

Shuns Partisan Politics.

"I do not want to talk to you tonight of partisan politics. The political battle is finished. Our task is to face the future as a militant and a united people—united here at home as well as on the battle fronts.

"Twice in twenty-five years our people have had to put on a brave, smiling front as they have suffered the anxiety and the agony of war. No one wants to endure that suffering again.

"When we think of the speed and long distance possibilities of air travel to the remotest corners of the earth, we must consider the devastation wrought on the people of England by the new long-range bombs. Another war would be bound to bring even more devilish and powerful instruments of destruction to wipe out civilian populations. No coastal defenses, however strong, could prevent these silent missiles of death, fired perhaps from planes or ships at sea, from crashing deep within the United States.

World Must Unite.

"This time, this time, we must be certain that the peace-loving nations of the world band together in determination to outlaw and prevent war.

"Tomorrow, you, the people of the United States, again vote as free men and women, with full freedom of choice—with no secret police watching over your shoulders. And for generations to come Americans will continue to prove their faith in free elections.

"But when the ballots are cast your responsibilities do not cease. The public servants you elect cannot fulfill their trust unless you, the people, watch and advise them, raise your voices in protest when you believe your public servants to be wrong, back them up when you believe them to be right.

Can't Forget Big Goal.

"But not for one single moment can you now or later forget the all important goals for which we are aiming—to win the war and unite our fighting men with their families at the earliest moment; to see that all have honorable jobs; and to create a world peace organization which will prevent this disaster from ever coming upon us again.

"To achieve these goals we need strength and wisdom which is greater than is bequeathed to mere mortals. We need divine help and guidance. We people of America have ever had a deep well of religious strength, far back to the days of the Pilgrim fathers.

Reads a Prayer.

"And so, on this thoughtful eve, I believe that you will find it fitting that I read a prayer sent to me not long ago.

"'Almighty God, of whose righteous will all things are and were created, Thou hast gathered our people out of many lands and races into a great nation.

"'We commend to Thy overruling providence the men and women of our forces by sea, by land, and in the air; beseeching Thee to take into Thine own hands both them and the cause they serve.

"'Be Thou their strength when they are set in the midst of so many and great dangers. And grant that, whether by life or by death, they may win for the whole world the fruits of their sacrifice and a just peace.

"'Guide, we beseech Thee, the nations of the world into the way of justice and truth, and establish among them that peace which is the reward of righteousness.

"'Make the whole people of this land equal to our high trust, reverent in the use of freedom, just in the exercise of power, generous in the protection of weakness.

"'Enable us to guard for the least among us the freedom we covet for ourselves; make us ill content with the inequalities of opportunity which still prevail among us. Preserve our Union against all the divisions of race and class which threaten it.

"'And now may the blessing of God Almighty rest upon this whole land; may He give us light to guide us, courage to support us, charity to unite us, now and forevermore. Amen.'"

Pleads Guilty

Mrs. Ruth Hodgson being taken to the county jail from the U. S. marshal's lockup yesterday.

Mrs. Ruth Hodgson, 18, of 3429 Union av., was arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker yesterday on charges of cashing and forging war bonds. She pleaded guilty.

She was arrested Friday by secret service agents under Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan in the La Salle National bank where, Callaghan said, she was attempting to cash war bonds stolen from Mrs. Anna Stulz of 3400 Lowe av.

Mrs. Hodgson admitted stealing 14 bonds valued at $500, Callaghan said. She had cashed $425 worth of them in company with an unidentified soldier who vouched for her at the banks.

After her arrest agents found her 14 month old son, Conrad, in her room in the Crillon hotel, 13th st. and Michigan av. The baby, alone, was lying on one of twin beds. The woman's husband, Edward, is a private in the army stationed in Texas.

VANDALS SMASH 5 WINDOWS IN WAR ON DEWEY

Political terrorists continued their efforts to intimidate voters last night by smashing five windows containing posters of Gov. Dewey and other Republican nominees.

Four children in the home of Mrs. Clyde Cole, a Republican election judge, 919 Milwaukee av., were showered with glass. A window also was broken in the home of Mrs. S .B. Zuber, a Republican clerk, in the same building.

The other homes assaulted were those of John McManus, 1140 N. La Salle st., whose daughter, Mrs. Martha Houghtaling, a sailor's wife, was imperiled, and of Walter Krueger, 2991 N. Lawndale av., a Republican precinct captain. Krueger's home also was egged.

Windows of a motor service company owned by Daniel Catena and his son, Anthony, at 1143 S. Western av., were broken. Two strangers threatened them a week ago.

MRS. ROOSEVELT TOURS COUNTY; GOES TO N. Y.

Hyde Park, N. Y., Nov. 6 (AP).—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt stayed at home and wrote letters today while her husband made his final fourth term campaign trip.

Fala stayed home, too, members of the party saying it was too cold for the little black Scottie to take the ride.

Late in the afternoon Mrs. Roosevelt drove to Poughkeepsie to join the President at the conclusion of his journey thru neighboring counties. As the President's car pulled up in front of the postoffice she stepped into the seat beside him.

She left for New York shortly thereafter to attend a party at the Biltmore hotel given by the New York Democratic state committee for volunteer workers and staff members. She will return to Hyde Park tomorrow to vote along with her husband at the Hyde Park town hall.

TRUMAN VISITS WITH FRIENDS IN COURTHOUSE

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 6 (AP).—Sen. Truman, Democratic Vice Presidential nominee, his campaign concluded, visited with friends today at the United States courthouse.

"My talks are all thru," he commented. "I've made my campaign. All I'm waiting for now is the opportunity to vote."

The senator said he would vote in his home precinct at Independence at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. Mrs. Truman also will vote at the same time.

WE CAN'T TRUST SEN. LUCAS, WAR VETERANS WARN

Resolutions holding Sen. Scott W. Lucas "as one utterly unworthy of the trust or confidence of even the slimy, slithery machine politicians he now pays homage to" were made public yesterday by the Sangamon county division of the Illinois Republican Service Men's league at Springfield.

The resolutions were one of a set of three disclosed by members of the veterans' organization in connection with the transfer of Lt. Comdr. Edward F. McGinnis as navy voting officer in the Pacific at the demand of Mayor Kelly and Sen. Lucas, Democratic candidate to succeed himself.

Similar documents were adopted in Virginia, seat of Cass county, and in Jerseyville, Jersey county.

Feud in 1938 Recalled.

The resolution adopted at the state capital, most bitter in its denunciation of Kelly and Lucas, stated that "whereas the proof is now positive that" the McGinnis transfer "was brought about by the demand of Lucas . . . acting as the office boy and mouthpiece of Kelly," the senator and "Chicago's Boss Kelly" were not always so close together politically. It states that "this same Scott W. Lucas in his primary campaign in 1938 did publicly on many occasions demand that the voters of Cook county rebuke Kelly, charging repeatedly that Kelly's boss rule threatened the sanctity of the ballot."

Lucas in the resolutions also is asked questions concerning his record in World War I.:

1. "How many times did you claim exemption in 1918 before you entered military service?"

2. "Please state how many times you claimed exemption in 1917."

3. "How many days did you serve in the armed forces prior to Nov. 11, 1918, the end of World War I.?"

Bobtailed Ballot Hit.

4. "Why did you try to hand to the service men and women of Illinois that fake, fraudulent 'bobtailed' ballot which violated every protection of the 'secrecy and sanctity' of the Australian ballot, when you knew that such a ballot could not be voted without one of your dictated henchmen in the armed forces knowing how each and every service man voted?"

The resolution says the transfer of McGinnis will "not go unchallenged."

The resolution adopted in Jerseyville, demanding inquiry by the election committee of the United States senate, asks not only that all the facts surrounding McGinnis' removal as voting officer be bared but that "those found guilty of wrongdoing be immediately punished."

"Shameful Interference."

This petition was signed by John Reddish, John Ritter, and John F. Gibbons, executive committee of the county service men's league. It states that the "acts of Mayor Kelly and Sen. Lucas not only constitute a violation of Comdr. McGinnis' rights as a naval officer and citizen, but show partisan interference with the rights of franchise of our fighting men overseas and a shameful interference with the assignment to duty of an officer in the navy."

The Cass county resolution points out that Lucas at Kelly's instigation "demanded the removal of McGinnis altho Adm. Nimitz' investigation had disclosed the officer to be an impartial person."

CHICAGO AND ILLINOIS YANKS SURVIVE FIGHT FOR LEYTE AIR STRIP

BY HAROLD SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE 7TH DIVISION ON LEYTE, P. I., Nov. 6.—Pvt. Walter M. Kroll, 1455 W. Cortes st., Chicago, and Pvt. Homer E. Alexander, Oakley, Ill., were among the infantrymen who survived one of the most determined enemy counter-attacks in the battle for San Pablo air strip a few days ago.

They said the Japs infiltrated in the darkness from a row of pillboxes on the edge of a corn field near our advanced position. Some of the leading enemy troops wore uniforms similar to our own and advanced shouting, "Hold your fire," the men said. Not until these Nips were about 30 feet away was the ruse discovered. Then a hot battle ensued in which both sides took heavy casualties. Kroll's and Alexander's company reformed and later drove the Japs back.

Pvt. John A. Fowler, Golconda, Ill., was one of the litter bearers who went into the thick of the fight time and again to evacuate our wounded, his comrades said. In one case he and his team, headed by Sgt. Dale R. Johnson, Biggsville, Ill., carried one lieutenant and seven enlisted men back to the aid station from a trench near the center of the fighting, risking their own lives.

ORDER FBI PROBE OF WHEATON G. I. VOTE TAMPERING

United States Atty. Woll said yesterday he had authorized the federal bureau of investigation to investigate irregularities discovered in Wheaton by Ralph Manuel, special investigator for the senate committee on campaign expenditures, who said 30 envelopes containing overseas ballots had been opened and resealed with Scotch tape. Woll said he had been instructed by Atty. Gen. Biddle to investigate possibility of fraud and to determine where the envelopes had been opened and for what reason. Woll said his office, with a full staff, will be open from 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. today to handle any violation of federal voting statutes.

RADIO GAG BANS ATTACK ON REDS AND NEW DEAL

New York, Nov. 6 [Special].—John J. O'Connor, former New York congressman and chairman of the executive committee of the American Democratic national committee, which is opposing a fourth term, canceled a scheduled radio talk over New York radio station WMCA tonight in protest against the station's censorship of his speech.

Straus bought the station in September, 1943, for a reported $1,250,000 from Edward J. Noble, former undersecretary of commerce under Harry Hopkins. Noble had bought it for $850,000 in 1941 from Donald Flamm, who subsequently testified before a house committee that he had been forced to sell in a deal that was "greased from the White House down."

Second Censorship Case.

O'Connor's case was the second time that WMCA censorship had brought it into the news. In July the station censored a speech by New York State Sen. Frederic R. Coudert to remove criticism of the New Deal and Communists.

In announcing his refusal to deliver his censored speech O'Connor charges that Straus is a member of Sidney Hillman's political action committee.

O'Connor said the text of his speech was delivered to the station at 9 a. m. today, and that he was advised by telephone at 6:30 p. m. by Leon Goldstein, a station executive, that parts of it would have to be eliminated.

"I believe the entire speech was submitted to Hillman for his approval," O'Connor said.

Rap at F. D. R. Deleted.

Among the portions ordered stricken was a passage stating that "we shall win on the far flung battlefronts of this world-wide war from the horrors of which our President made no honest or honorable effort to spare us."

Another deletion:

"The other great issue is Pearl Harbor and the disgraceful debacle that was permitted by our President to happen there has not been answered by those charged with offenses that are only paralleled by what happened at West Point during the Revolutionary war, while they have continued to muzzle Gen. Short and Adm. Kimmel, whose disclosures would rock the world."

Democrat Label Shunned.

Another stricken paragraph told of the avoidance of the word Democrat by Mr. Roosevelt. It said:

"On every occasion when he has run for office in New York he has specifically directed Democratic headquarters not to use the word 'Democrat' on any of his posters, pictures or literature.

The station also struck out a charge that Mr. Roosevelt is the creator of the American Labor party. Another deleted part charged that the Ku Klux Klan was one of the principal Roosevelt supporters in 1932 and that Hugo Black was named to the Supreme court by Roosevelt as a reward for this support.

Another deletion ordered was an assertion that Sidney Hillman is head of the National Religious and Labor foundation, "an atheist and communist group that has issued blasphemous cartoons of Jesus Christ. I hope you have been spared from reading the foul, bestial poems that organization of Hillman's has sponsored and published."

O'Connor said he will file a protest with the federal communications commission and the appropriate committees of both houses of congress against the station's censoring of his speech.

Station WMCA announced the cancelation of the speech in a statement that said certain charges in it might be deemed libelous in the absence of proof.

"In the absence of proof," the statement said, "WMCA was nonetheless willing to broadcast the speech of Mr. O'Connor with a statement on its own behalf to follow immediately to the effect that no proof had been submitted. Mr. O'Connor elected, however, to cancel his speech."

O'Connor retorted that no such proposal was made.

MORE WISCONSIN VOTERS ELIGIBLE THAN IN '40 RACE

60% of State's 170,000 War Ballots Expected.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 6 (Special). —Approximately 1,500,000 ballots are expected to be cast tomorrow as Wisconsin votes for President and Vice President and for congressional, state, legislative, and county offices. This year's registration exceeds that of 1940 by 94,478. In the city of Milwaukee registration increased from 306,937 to 323,907.

Ballots have been sent to 170,600 Wisconsinites serving their country on global battlefields and, of these, it is estimated by election officials that 60 per cent will have been returned in time to be counted.

G. O. P. Congressmen Up.

Rep. Lawrence H. Smith, 1st district, is opposed by Jack Kyle [P.]; Rep. William H. Stevenson, 3d district, by William H. Carroll [D.]; Rep. Frank B. Keefe, 6th district, by Harry Danes [D.]; Rep. Reid F. Murray, 7th district, by W. H. Ludwig [D.], and Rep. Alvin E. O'Konski, 10th district, by Elizabeth Hawks [D.] Rep. Merlin Hill [P.], 9th district, has no opposition.

John Byrnes is the Republican candidate running against Rep. La Verne Dilweg [D.] in the 8th district. Robert K. Henry, Republican candidate in the 2d district, is opposed by John W. Nash [D.]. Robert Blackwood is the Republican candidate against Rep. Thad F. B. Wasielewski [D.] in Milwaukee's 4th district.

Thill Opposes Biemiller.

In the 5th Milwaukee district, former Rep. Lewis D. Thill [R.] is opposed by Andrew J. Biemiller, former Socialist and Progressive, running on the Democratic ticket.

Daniel W. Hoan, former Socialist mayor of Milwaukee, is the Democratic candidate against Gov. Goodland [R.]. Alexander O. Benz, Appleton fraternal insurance executive, is the Progressive candidate for governor. George A. Nelson, Milltown farmer, is the Socialist candidate, and Mrs. Georgia Cozzini, Milwaukee, the Socialist Labor candidate.

On the Democratic ticket Hoan and Marshall Whaling, Milwaukee, candidate for lieutenant governor, have the indorsement of the United Labor committee.

Four Oppose Sen. Wiley.

The other Democratic candidates for state office are Jack E. Joyce Jr., Menomonie, secretary of state; Thomas R. King, Oconomowoc, state treasurer, and Gustave J. Keller, Appleton, attorney general.

In the senatorial election the Democrats are opposing United States Sen. Wiley with Rep. Howard J. McMurray. Rep. Harry Sauthoff, 2d district, is the Progressive candidate; Walter H. Uphoff, Oregon, the Socialist, and Adolph Wiggert, Milwaukee, the Socialist Labor. Oscar R. Rennebohm, Madison drug store operator, is the Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, and the other Republicans are all incumbents—Secretary of State Zimmerman, State Treasurer Smith, and Atty. Gen. Martin.

Progressives Aid Independent.

Progressive candidates for state offices are Clough Gates, Superior, lieutenant governor; Albert C. Johnson, Windsor, state treasurer; William Dietrich, Hartland, attorney general, and Adelaide Woelfel, Chilton, secretary of state. Miss Woelfel did not obtain enough votes to get on the ballot at the Aug. 15 primary so she is running with Progressive support as an independent.

In the Milwaukee county election, greatest interest is aroused by the races for district attorney and sheriff. Former Dist. Atty. George A. Bowman, who wrested the G. O. P. nomination from the incumbent, James J. Kerwin in the primary has William J. McCauley, former assistant district attorney, as his Democratic opponent.

Markey, Hanley Vie.

There are campaigns in all of the 100 assembly districts of the state and in the even numbered senatorial districts of the state's 33 senatorial constituencies.

Thomas E. Coleman, state chairman of the Republican party, said today he is confidfient the G. O. P. will not only carry the state for the Presidential and state ticket and Sen. Wiley, but that it will also obtain 8 of 10 congressmen. It is expected, he said, that President Roosevelt's 1940 lead in Milwaukee county, 78,741 votes, will be cut to around 25,000. Four years ago the President carried Wisconsin by only 25,615.

RIP 191 PLANES IN SURPRISE RAID ON MANILA AREA

The Nipponese held back their fresh troops, throwing defensive forces into "piecemeal" counter-attacks against the Yank perimeter, four miles south of Carigara bay.

Chanting, shrieking, banzai yelling Nipponese charged the Americans in three assaults, but failed to pierce the line of veteran Yank infantry men. Japanese losses were heavy.

Enemy forces were installed in what the bulletin called "favorable defensive terrain," apparently in hills dominating the highway.

Long Toms Strike.

But on one side of the advancing Americans 155 mm. Long Tom field guns blasted defensive positions with a thunderous barrage that reached into Ormoc town itself.

Simultaneously, other Yank artillery units blasted bivouacs, gun positions, and lines of communication thruout the valley.

The anticipated clash between the 24th and the mechanized Japanese reenforcements has not developed yet, but patrols of the two forces have made contact.

The bulletin said: "Our heavy bombing attacks on enemy airdromes in the Visayas has sharply reduced the scale of enemy air activity" over the Leyte area.

Sharp fighting flared again in the Leyte valley west of Dagami, where Japanese estimated at from 600 to 2,000 were repulsed in a typical "Banzai" attack. The battle occurred at the eastern base of the island's hilly backbone, 18 miles east of Ormoc.

Jap Climbs on Tank.

Sword-waving enemy officers led the assault, reported war correspondent Spencer Davis, on units of the American 96th division who had been pinned down for two days by mortar and machine gun fire. They broke up the reformed enemy position with light tanks and flame throwers and then smashed the enemy counter-attack.

It was estimated that at least 500 Nipponese were killed in the assault. Among them were troops of an armored force recently landed at Ormoc.

Elmont Waite, Associated Press correspondent, reported that the Japanese made pathetic efforts to stop the Americans. One Nipponese lieutenant climbed atop a tank and hacked at the muzzle of a machine gun with his saber before being picked off.

Hasn't the Code Word.

Second Lt. David Rafferty, Spring Valley, Minn., said another Japanese clambered atop a tank driven by Staff Sgt. Arthur Reber. The Japanese instructed Reber, over the tank's telephone, to move up 50 yards. Its fire then was protecting a disabled flame thrower.

"The voice sounded odd." Rafferty related "and Reber asked for a code word."

"Why, you're a damn Jap," Reber yelled, when the Japanese gave an incorrect answer, Rafferty said.

It was estimated that at least 500 Nipponese were killed in the assault. Among them were troops of an armored force recently landed at Ormoc.

Col. Macey L. Dill, commanding a 96th division regiment, said:

"I think we've broken their back. We heard 'em groaning and grunting and squealing, dragging back their wounded and dead until 5 a. m."

Pvt. Roland W. Bauer of Edwardsville, Ill., killed three Japanese soldiers in hand to hand combat in a battle for a tiny hill in a valley flanking the Carigara-Pinamopoan road yesterday. A small force of Americans, including Bauer, managed to disperse about 100 of the enemy to take the hill.

2 U. S. CARRIERS SUNK BY PLANES AND SUBS: TOKYO

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Submarines, planes and suicide flyers have sunk two American aircraft carriers in Philippine waters, Tokyo radio claimed yesterday, adding that a Japanese sub had sunk "several" oil tankers and transports off the coast of the United States.

The broadcasts were totaled without allied confirmation.

Another Carrier 'Damaged.'

In a two-hour running battle, the broadcast added, other imperial aircraft badly damaged another carrier in a task force of eight to 10 carriers and battleships northeast of Lamon bay.

On Friday, the Japanese propagandists related, Jap submarines attacked three carriers and eight destroyers near Suluan Island and sent two torpedoes into one carrier of the Essex class.

"Terrific explosions were heard," the broadcast said, and "it may be assumed this carrier sank subsequently."

Tokyo radio said a "submarine unit" had penetrated to the U. S. Pacific coast and had sunk American shipping there.

Claim B-29 Shot Down.

In the first Japanese mention of Sunday's Super Fortress raid on the Pangkalan-Brandon oil refinery on Sumatra, Tokyo radio said one of the B-29s was shot down and another damaged, and added the usual "no damage was incurred on our side."

The Manila radio said 150 planes were over the Manila and Clark field areas early today [Philippine time].

Domei reported 13 Aleutian based Liberators twice raided the Kurile Islands yesterday. It asserted two raiders were shot down.

GERMANS BATTLE GRIMLY FOR TINY TOWNS IN FOREST

Yank Planes Set Fires Among Enemy Troops.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. 1ST ARMY IN HURTGEN FOREST, Germany, Nov. 6.—Fighting thru this area reached a new intensity today as the Germans held grimly to Schmidt, launched a determined counter-attack to retake the town of Vossenack, 13 miles southeast of Aachen, and gave their troops air and artillery support on a scale unseen since the early days of the Normandy campaign.

The opposing armies fought over pinpoint locations on the eastern edge of the pine and fir woodlands, glistening in today's brilliant sunshine after all-night rains.

There was heavy fire of German artillery this morning north of Stolberg, but the main engagements were fought around the Hurtgen forest settlements.

The Germans drove forward into Vossenack and forced the American garrison to withdraw from half of the little town astride a narrow country road in a valley north of Schmidt.

Held by Both Sides.

The noise of our guns reached a mighty crescendo as we counter-attacked and succeeded in retaking part of the hamlet in close quarter fighting. Tonight the town remained held partly by both armies.

American dive bombers smashed at German troop concentrations and enemy armored columns gathering east of Schmidt. Smoke shells marked the target areas, then great clouds of smoke from burning trees reared high against the sky as the planes dived, attacking troop concentrations within the woods, using incendiaries.

Lightnings and Thunderbolts, attacking a group of armored vehicles east of Schmidt, scored 13 hits within the area laid down by artillery smoke shells. Northeast of Schmidt they dive bombed and strafed tanks in another area marked from the ground.

German planes made hit and run attacks southwest of Duren, near the Schmidt area. Approaching the front, they were visible in the sky with black puffs of American anti-aircraft shells bursting around them.

There were times when it was difficult to distinguish between American and German planes and anti-aircraft bursts, but few clashes between the rival air forces were reported.

Blow Up Moerdijk Bridge.

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, PARIS, Nov. 6 (AP).—In southwestern Holland Canadian forces fought up to Willemstad, site of an escape ferry, after the Germans nine miles to the east blew up the road and rail bridges across the Maas [Meuse] river at Moerdijk to head off pursuit.

Reconnaissance pilots disclosed that two spans of the railway bridge and one span of the parallel highway bridge, one of Europe's longest, were under water.

[An Associated Press dispatch from the front said Poles of the Canadian 1st army had driven to within a quarter of a mile of Moerdijk's highway bridge.]

Isolated in Two Pockets.

Another force coming from the west severed the road leading north from Middelburg to Veere, on Walcheren's north coast, but the Germans inside Veere still held out. Thus the remnants of the enemy garrison on the island were isolated into two pockets.

[Allied dredges and minesweepers, now that enemy guns no longer can fire on them, were reported clearing the Scheldt estuary so that reenforcements can be unloaded in Antwerp for a big offensive.]

To the south in the Vosges mountains, German broadcasts said the American and French armies broke thru at several points, but they apparently were fishing for information.

The 6th army group did register slight gains around Baccarat and in the wooded area west of St. Die, a town which controls the entrance to one of the passes thru the Vosges to the Rhineland.

[The British radio said the French 1st army was reported within two miles of St. Die, NBS monitors said.]

Full Back Across Maas.

LONDON, Nov. 6 (AP).—In the battle for southwestern Holland the 15th German army was pulling its last rearguards across the Maas [Meuse] river after blowing up half the bridge at Moerdijk.

Canadians, British, Americans, and Poles swarmed up to the Maas and its seaward arms along a 50 mile front.

One DNB commentator asserted that all the present allied attacks, in Holland, in Germany, and in eastern France, were to secure good platforms for an offensive and the allies now were using no more than 25 per cent of their invasion force.

The Paris radio said the United Field Marshal Montgomery's successes along the Maas put him in position to fight across the water barriers toward Rotterdam, 16 miles to the north, or to turn east for a drive into the Ruhr valley, teeming with war plants of the German military machine.

British field officers estimated that in the battle of southwestern Holland, the German 15th army, which after being rebuilt was some 110,000 strong, lost 65,000, 25,000 of them captured.

The 15th, once a powerful force that guarded the flying bomb coast in France, previously was badly mauled in the battle of France.

An announcement disclosed that prisoners captured from D-day totaled 302,661 for the 12th army group [American] and 198,574 for the 21st [British].

U. S. JAPS RESCUE 'LOST BATTALION' OF TEXAS' 36TH

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 7TH ARMY IN FRANCE, Nov. 6.—It was disclosed today that the American "lost battalion" cut off on a Vosges hill from noon Monday, Oct. 23, until late in the afternoon of Monday, Oct. 30, was the 1st battalion of the veteran 141st regiment of the 36th "Texas" infantry division. And the men who crashed thru a German road block were members of the equally noted 442d regiment composed of Americans of Japanese descent, and known as good hill fighters.

The 36th has been commanded by Maj. Gen. Fred Walker and was the first division to go ashore at Salerno in Italy in September, 1943. The division was involved in fighting in front of Cassino and attempting the ill-fated Rapido river crossing, where its casualties were heavy. It later was at the Anzio beachhead and it was Gen. Walker's brilliant encircling maneuver around Velletri which opened the door to Rome.

First Across Moselle.

The division, now under the command of Maj. Gen. John W. Dahlquist, landed on the Riviera on the southern France D-day, Aug. 15, and with the 3d division trapped a large portion of the German 19th army at Montelimar and on the Rhone valley road to the north. The 141st regiment [additional regiments which comprise the 36th division, are the 142d and 143d] was the first to cross the Moselle river in the 7th army sector.

The 36th division originally was mostly from the Texas national guard but has had a big personnel turnover due mainly to battle casualties and now is representative of nearly every state in the union. It still has considerable of the Texas officer cadre.

The 442d regiment is attached to the 36th for this campaign. It was first placed in the line here several weeks ago and took part in capturing Bruyeres, an important outpost of the enemy's main Vosges defense line. All the men and non-commissioned officers of the regiment and some of the commissioned officers are Americans of Japanese extraction.

From Hawaiian Guard.

The first battalion of the 442d, designated the "100th" battalion which formed the old Hawaiian national guard, had its combat debut just after Salerno. Later it was incorporated into a regiment with two other Japanese-American battalions.

The regiment is commanded by Col. Charles W. Pence, Attica, Ind., and the 100th battalion by Lt. Col. Gordon Singles, Denver, Colo.

The regiment has two slogans. One is "Remember Pearl Harbor" and the other is "Go Gor Broke," an equivalent expression in gambling to "Shoot the works," the Japanese being very fond of dice.

On Oct. 29, the seventh day the lost battalion was on the hill, 2d Lt. Erwin Blonder, Cleveland, O., an artillery observer, had remarked, "I'll bet the 442d is the first to reach us. I'd give $1,000 to see a Jap come thru these woods now."

And Lt. Gordon Nelson, Dedham, Mass., a company commander, had joshed back, "Yes, and I'll bet you're the first man in the American army who ever said he wanted to see that."

Sure enough, the 442d was the first to break thru the encirclement and the first of that outfit to reach the beleaguered men was a private first class with the colorful name of Mutt Sakumoto. Mutt, who comes from Oahu, Hawaii, had a lump in his throat at the tremendous thumping welcome he got and all he could say was, "Do you guys need any cigarets?" Leader of the first platoon to reach the besieged men was Staff Sgt. Pak Senvaki, Los Angeles, Cal.

You'll have to get rid of these flying fishes, dear.

R. A. F. RAIDS COBLENZ; 4,000 PLANES ATTACK NAZI CITIES AND RAILS

LONDON, Nov. 7 [Tuesday]—(AP)—A fleet of R. A. F. heavy bombers raided Coblenz, German traffic center behind the western front, last night after 4,000 allied warplanes in daylight carried a great aerial blitz thru its third straight day by blasting four German cities and attacking communications from Heligoland to the Brenner pass.

The daylong strikes were carried out by 2,500 heavy bombers which dumped 8,000 tons of explosives on four large cities—Hamburg, Harburg, Gelsenkirchen, and Vienna—and 1,500 fighters and fighter bombers hit enemy communications lines. Seven bombers and 10 fighters were missing, but some of the fighters were believed to be safe in friendly territory. Bombers from Italy hit the Vienna area, the Brenner pass and a power plant at Bolzano.

United States 8th air force formations hit targets in western Germany, including Duisberg and railway yards at Neunmunster. Polish, Norwegian, French, and British Spitfire squadrons went after rail lines in Holland at Utrecht, Zutphen, The Hague, Swelle, and Gouda.

NEW AIR FORCE FORMED TO AID DEVERS' GROUP

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Nov. 6 (AP).—A new 1st tactical air force will support Lt. Gen. Devers' 6th army group in eastern France in the same manner that the 9th air force aids Lt. Gen. Bradley's 12th army group.

Supreme headquarters announced today Maj. Gen. Ralph Royce will command its two sections—a French section under Brig. Gen. Paul Gerardot and the United States 12th tactical air force under Brig. Gen. Gordon Saville of Winter Park, Fla.

The French unit, with American and British planes, will fly in direct support of the French 1st army, while Saville's command will support Lt. Gen. Patch's 7th army. The nucleus of the new force came from the Mediterranean and later was reenforced from the 9th air force.

MATTEOTTI CASE IS REOPENED BY ITALIAN COURT

ROME, Italy, Nov. 6 (AP).—The court of cassation [appeals] today ordered reopening of the Giacomo Matteotti case, annulling the sentences imposed by fascist courts on persons convicted of slaying the famed socialist deputy in 1926. All were pardoned under Benito Mussolini after serving brief terms. The motion to reopen the case was made by Mario Berlinguer, high commissioner for punishment of Fascist crimes, who said fascist pressure prevented a fair trial at the time. Anti-Fascists have contended for a generation that Mussolini was directly involved in the slaying. It is uncertain when the retrial will be held.

"THE INSIDE STORY OF A BUREAUCRAT"

Sarah Jackson Doyle is not a Republican on the campaign warpath. She was born a Democrat and still is one. Her father and her husband were both secretaries of the Democratic National Committee. But the big, bungling, inconsistent bureaucracy which is the O.P.A. was more than she could swallow, hence this important article. Typical highlight: Mrs. Doyle's appointment as "specialist in watches"—when her only experience with a watch was as the owner of one! Page 58.

POLES REPORTED READY TO CEDE LAND TO RUSSIA

Agree to Accept Grant of German Territory.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 6. — The exiled Polish government in London was reported prepared tonight to bow to the Russian demand for a large slice of eastern Poland and the establishment of a new Russo-Polish border along the Curzon line.

[The Curzon line would push Poland's east border approximately 160 miles westward. It extends generally from Grodno thru Bialystok south to the Bug river at Brest Litovsk, thence to the Carpathians.]

It was said to have agreed also to incorporation within Poland's new boundaries of part of German territory up to the Oder river, but demands complete and undisputed control of home and foreign policy in the new territory and insists on certain guarantees from allied powers regarding the reconstruction of Poland as a whole.

Follows Moscow Trip.

These decisions, diplomatic observers here said, were taken after Polish Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk reported to his cabinet and the Polish national council regarding his recent discussions in Moscow. Today the premier, with Foreign Minister Tadeusz Romer and Ambassador Count Edward Raczynski, visited British Foreign Secretary Eden, presumably to inform him of the latest turn of events. Later Eden saw Ambassador Feodor T. Gousev of Moscow.

Whether the Polish decision to cede territory east of the Curzon line to Russia will solve the Russo-Polish dispute still was uncertain tonight. Doubts were expressed by diplomatic writers whether the Poles will modify their stand taken in a memorandum to Premier Stalin a few months ago that the future government of Poland should be formed from five great political parties of the country, including the Communists.

Hint Plea for Aid.

The Polish government still refuses to regard the soviet sponsored council of national liberation in Lublin, Poland, as sufficiently representative of Polish opinion to form the nucleus of a new government. There were reports that the Poles not only are seeking a frontier guarantee from the allies if they accept the Curzon line but also financial aid to restore Poland.

Eden, just returned from a trip to Moscow and a tour of the near east, had a busy day renewing diplomatic contacts. In addition to the Poles and the soviet ambassador, he saw Belgian Foreign Minister Paul Spaak to discuss allied help to Belgium.

THE QUESTION.
When and upon what occasion did your receive your first wristwatch?

WHERE ASKED.
Pittsfield building, 55 E. Washington st.

THE ANSWERS.

Sara Holtzman, manager of specialty shop, 425 Surf st.—When I was graduated from grammar school my brother gave me a big watch. My arm turned green from wearing it and it ran for only 15 minutes the first day. As time went by its service became worse and I just wore it to show I owned a wristwatch.

Carole Remer, nurse, 5710 N. Maplewood av.—I always wanted a watch so my parents gave me one on the night of my graduation from the 8th grade. I was more interested in my watch than I was in the graduation exercises and kept looking at it all thru the program. It was a good watch and I was proud of it.

Sarah Baratta, photostatic operator, 3543 Flournoy st. — On my birthday, Feb. 24, 1943, my folks bought me a wristwatch. On the back of it they had my initials SRB and the date engraved. I was surprised and happy to have it. It was a wonderful feeling when it was new always to know what time it was.

Mrs. E. F. Mullally, stenographer, 8014 Perry av.—When I was 13 I begged my dad to get me a watch. He said I was too young but one day he surprised me with one. It wasn't a very good watch and it wasn't tiny or neat looking. But at the time I wasn't old enough to care whether it looked good or not.

Lois Eggers, student nurse, 8651 N. St. Louis av., Skokie—My first watch was a Mickey Mouse. I was about 7 years old and I wanted it so much. It was so big that it stuck over the sides of my wrist. My parents told me before Christmas that I wasn't going to get a watch but on Christmas there it was. I was so happy I cried.

Jean Sundem, 4554 N. Winchester av.—After two or three weeks of nurses' training I needed a watch with a second hand, so I bought one. It's the first watch I've ever owned and it doesn't keep good time at all. It's only redeeming feature is that whenever I need it the second hand marks off time for me.

SHOCK TROOPS STOP RUSSIANS AT BUDAPEST

LONDON, Nov. 6 (AP).—Heavily reenforced German shock troops held the Russian besiegers at the gates of Budapest today as soviet bombers made a dawn-to-dusk attack on enemy strongholds and communications at the rear of the Hungarian capital.

A two-sentence Moscow bulletin said, "There were no essential changes on the fronts. During Nov. 5 our troops on all fronts disabled or destroyed 16 German tanks."

Premier Stalin, in two communications to the Red arm, said Hungary's fall was near and that the allies were in jumping-off positions for a decisive offensive against Germany.

Berlin said the fighting had slackened at the southern entrances of Budapest, with the Russians regrouping for another onslaught.

Refugees Clog Roads.

Conditions inside the capital were chaotic, with the number of refugees fleeing the city increasing and seriously hampering military traffic, Berlin said.

The Rome, Italy, radio reported reception of a Free Hungarian broadcast calling for a general strike in Budapest and urging the populace to protect the five main bridges still remaining across the Danube.

French and Turkish radio reports—all without soviet confirmation—said the Russians had broken into the southern side of Budapest, that members of Prime Minister Ferenc Szalasi's government had fled, and that the Germans had dynamited all the bridges connecting Buda, the west part of the city, to Pest, the east section.

On Sunday, the Berlin radio said Russian tank spearheads had reached Budapest's city limits, but the Nazi high command said today that soviet attacks had miscarried, and that Nazi tank formations penetrated to the enemy's rear and destroyed numerous supply columns.

Revolt Crushed, Turks Hear.

The Ankara radio said Hungarian leftist elements began a revolt on Friday in Budapest but were crushed. It added that three Hungarian generals on the former Transylvanian front had been shot and an administrator executed, apparently for failure to hold that territory.

Fighting still raged between Cegled and Szolnok at the middle and eastern ends of the 60 mile front between the Danube and Tisza rivers, Berlin's bulletin said.

Goldap Taken, Nazis Claim.

In German East Prussia, the Berlin high command said, German troops recaptured the road junction town of Goldap, 19 miles inside the reich.

In Yugoslavia, Marshal Tito's headquarters said his Yugoslav army controled the entire Yugoslav-Greek frontier after capturing Bitolj [Monastir] eight miles north of the Greek border. The Yugoslav bulletin said Albanian patriots had seized the greater part of Tirana, Albanian capital.

that there were so few. Those that do exist, he asserted, do not go beyond the framework of unity.

There were serious differences, he said, over the opening of the second front, but this was settled.

He gave high praise to the allied landings in Normandy and the decisions of the Teheran, Iran, conference.

Stalin said there could be few examples in history of so brilliant a realization of agreement between great powers as at Teheran.

In a review of the war, which occupied the first part of his speech, he said the soviet offensive had knocked out 120 German divisions this year.

Stalin declared that instead of 257 divisions on the eastern front — of which 207 were German — the Hitlerites have only 204 [possibly 2,040,000 men], of which 180 are German.

The premier said that without the western front, which had tied up 75 German divisions, the Red army could not so quickly have defeated the Germans in the east, just as the allies could not have had success in such a short time if 200 Nazi divisions had not been tied up on the eastern front.

He said 30 German divisions were cut off in the Baltic states and were being hammered to pieces.

The key to victory, Stalin said, was the continued holding of Germany between two fronts.

REPORT 'BIG THREE' AND TURKS DISCUSS DARDANELLES PLAN

LONDON, Nov. 6 (AP).—Britain, Russia, and the United States have opened conversations with Turkey on the future of the Dardanelles, straits linking the Black and Mediterranean seas, it was reported today. Altho a British foreign office spokesman disclaimed knowledge of the development, it was understood the Turks faced a minimum soviet demand for demilitarization of the straits, which they fortified in 1936. There has been some speculation on the possibility of dealing with the Dardanelles thru creation of a small state under international control.

YANKS IN FRANCE GIVE FOE DOSE OF HIS AMMUNITION

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 3D ARMY ON THE MOSELLE RIVER, France, Nov. 6.—Lt. Col. E. A. Peach, 7650 Saginaw av., Chicago, commands a 90th division artillery battalion which is engaged in the task of helping use up some 14,000 rounds of captured German ammunition with the aid of captured German 76 millimeter guns.

His battalion is sending about 800 rounds back to their rightful owners daily. He expects to continue shooting until the whole pile is returned. Warrant Officer Francis Street of Blue Island, Ill., also is involved in captured ammunition. He procured Czech-made mortar ammunition which also is being handed back to the Germans.

Peach's battalion has gone underground for the winter. It has built subterranean living quarters furnished with electric lights, double bunks, homemade stoves, and captured German radios.

FRENCHMAN WHO SERVED HITLER GETS LIFE TERM

PARIS, Nov. 6 (AP).—Brig. Gen. Armand Pinsard, 57, retired French air force officer and a veteran of World War I., was sentenced today to military degradation and life imprisonment. He was found guilty of serving under an oath of allegiance to Adolf Hitler as a civilian official of the French volunteer legion, which fought against the Russians.

The soldier, who appeared before a jury of three men and one woman in the Paris "collaboration" court, took the verdict calmly. But as he removed an array of medals and decorations from his blue uniform he commented:

"If this is justice, France is lost."

DANISH FERRY FLEES NAZIS TO SWEDISH PORT

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 6 (AP).—A Danish ferry essential to the Germans escaped today to the Swedish port of Halsingborg instead of going to a Danish port just across the channel between Denmark and Sweden, for repairs, as had been scheduled. The ferry carries 1,500 passengers.

The office of war information reported that a Swedish radio broadcast said five Danish patriots had taken the ferry to Sweden after overwhelming its unarmed captain, officers and 27 crew members and escaping from a German minesweeper which had been escorting it to the repair yard.

MANY FOXHOLE YANKS TOO BUSY TO STOP TO VOTE

War First, Chicagoans in Germany Say.

WITH U. S. TROOPS IN GERMANY, Nov. 6 [Reuter].—American troops waging a desperate battle in the Hurtgen forest which has sent their salient more than 16 miles into German soil, are keenly interested in Tuesday's Presidential election. A last minute foxhole survey disclosed, however, that a surprisingly large number did not cast ballots.

In one front line infantry and tank unit 12 successive enlisted men said they had not voted, generally "because we were too busy."

Fighting First, Say 2 Officers.

Two officers said they believed fighting to win the war was so much more important than any election that they could not bring themselves to bother with voting. A third officer said he had written for a ballot, received it, and mailed it back.

"Wait till we get the war over and then let's worry about the election," said Corp. Ephraim Bartelson of Paxton, Ill. "I didn't vote and I had the chance, too. What's the use of voting if you don't know much about some of the candidates?"

He Wants to Win the War.

Pvt. Ernest J. Schmidt, 1433 N. Ada st., Chicago, who had been all night on reconnaissance patrols, was just waking up in a tiny log cabin built in the forest to prevent tree bursts from sending shell fragments into his foxhole. "No; I didn't vote," said Pvt. Schmidt. "I figured that the outcome of this election won't have much to do with the outcome of this war, and that is all I am interested in right now. Tell your readers we are spending all our time fighting."

660,000 GERMANS TAKEN BY ALLIES SINCE INVASION

SUPREME ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, Nov. 6 (AP).—Seven allied armies have seized more than 660,000 German prisoners since D-day, a recapitulation showed tonight.

The breakdown by groups and armies is based on figures for the 12th and 21st army groups up to midnight, Nov. 5-6, and for the 6th army group and the 9th United States army up to Oct. 27. The breakdown:

12th army group—United States 1st army, 200,138; United States 3d army, 102,523.

21st army group—Canadian 1st army, 92,305; British 2d army, 86,269; not credited to either army but in army group pens, 20,000.

6th army group—French 1st army, 87,939; United States 7th army, 80,916.

IT'S TOUGH, KIDS, BUT NATION HAS LOTS OF SPINACH

Sad news from Washington, D. C., children's division, disclosed that there is a glut in the spinach market. The war food administration has announced that military and civilian requirements for the muscle building fodder in 1945 will take up only 7½ million cases out of the 9 million in the 1944 pack. With only 80 per cent of this year's output tabbed for consumption there will be plenty left for second helpings on the civilian table—providing the parents can coax down the first one.

Gun Business

Clifford Canada, Detective William Ewing, Capt. Harry B. Deas, and Detective Joseph Geeten (left to right) view array of pistols and parts found in Canada's shop after he admitted selling guns to boys.

Clifford Canada, 76, of 3616 Dearborn st., was arrested yesterday by Detectives Joseph Geeter and William Ewing of the Stanton av. police station, who said he had admitted selling guns to teen-age boys in his shop at the rear of 3613 Federal st.

Police heard of Canada's business thru three Negro boys, Robert Jones, 14, of 3827 Wabash av.; Bobby Putman, 14, of 3831 Wabash av., and Leon Stewart, 13, of 3523 South Park way, who were seized for questioning at 35th and State sts. Jones ran into a building and threw a .38 caliber revolver under a radiator, the detectives said, before they caught him.

Police said Canada told them he sold the guns for down payments. Fifty revolvers and automatics were found in the shed he uses as a shop. Boys have committed 20 robberies with guns this month, preying particularly on drivers of milk trucks, delivery trucks, and street cars, police said. Nine guns were taken from boys last month.

CHINESE SLOW UP JAP DRIVE UPON LAST U. S. BASE

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 6 (AP).—Chinese troops have halted a Japanese drive 45 miles north of Liuchow, Kwangsi province rail center and site of the last United States air base in eastern China, the high command announced tonight.

The Japanese column, one of three closing in on Liuchow, bypassed Yungfu on the Hunan-Kwangsi railroad in a swift drive toward Liuchow. The high command said the enemy was checked in fierce fighting.

Yungfu was cut off completely. It is 33 miles south of Kweilin, one time site of a United States air field, where bitter fighting is raging.

Launching Plane Downed in Flying Bomb Attack

LONDON, Nov. 6 (AP).—Robots launched from German planes over the North sea were directed at southern England and the London area last night but apparently only a few got thru defenses. Several flying bombs were shot down off East Anglia and a launching plane was destroyed. London had a brief alert.

YANKS IN ITALY SEE SUN FIRST TIME FOR DAYS

ROME, Nov. 6 (AP).—German patrols jabbed hard at allied positions in Italy today and enemy artillery laid down heavy fire as a long spell of bad weather broke and gave front line troops their first view of the sun in days. American patrols also were active in testing defenses the Nazis have constructed around the southern aproaches to Bologna. The Americans used the sunshine to repair supply roads and dry out their sodden equipment.

German troops opposing the British advance up Highway 9 from Rimini to Bologna clung both to the village of Ronco, two miles southeast of Forli, and to the northeast corner of Forli air field. British artillery fire drove back German tanks at Forli yesterday.

An allied announcement disclosed that allied warships for the last five days had been bombarding German positions near the French-Italian border.

QUISLING GIVES UP AS DICTATOR; SECLUDES SELF

LONDON, Nov. 6 (AP).—Maj. Vidkun Quisling has relegated full dictatorial powers to Jonas Lie, Norwegian puppet minister of police, and secluded himself in his $360,000 "Berchtesgaden" retreat near Oslo.

A Norwegian government spokesman today disclosed that Quisling had signed a decree giving Lie unlimited power to maintain public order. Lie's new position is similar to that held by Heinrich Himmler in Germany.

"It appears," the spokesman said, "that Quisling is voluntarily out of the picture in an attempt to persuade the allies by shifting all responsibility for future conditions in Norway on the plea that he was merely a figure-head."

BULLET HELPS YANK FIND SPOT ON LEYTE MAP

WITH THE 24TH DIVISION, Leyte, Nov. 3 [Delayed]—(AP).—A Japanese sniper solved a problem in geography for Sgt. Ernest Martin of Terre Haute, Ind., assigned to the map section of this division.

Sgt. Martin was seated before a large map tacked to an upright board propped against a palm tree, trying to locate the Leyte valley town of Alangalang on the map.

Suddenly there was the report of a sniper's gun and the zing of a bullet. It struck the map board and knocked it down. Martin hit the dirt while a patrol hunted down the sniper. Then he examined the map. The bullet had gone thru the town of Alangalang.

Editorially it praises Roosevelt for having led the Americans to a new understanding of "their collective responsibility to other nations."

DRIVE ON BRITISH SNOOPERS TO BE OPENED TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 6.—A campaign against official snooping will be opened in the house of commons tomorrow. Leonard Lyle, Conservative, will ask Prime Minister Churchill how many government departments have appointed inspectors who quiz the public on aspects of department work or individual methods of life and trading. He also will demand to know the extent of authority exercised in each case and what rights these inspectors possess.

In addition to control of the police force, the home office, for example, is said to have a squad of inspectors who examine factories. Board of trade inspectors visit shops and warehouses. They check stocks, probe accounts and transactions, measure floor space, and keep an eye on black market racketeers.

There are food ministry enforcement officials who keep a close watch on transactions. They are empowered to compel persons to disclose their books. Ministry of agriculture inspectors investigate farms. They examine and analyze the soil, inspect ditches, and test cattle and milk.

Prime Minister Curtin Ill; Cabinet Meeting Off

RUSSIA TO WANT LENGTHY PEACE, LANGE ASSERTS

Russia wants 20 to 40 years of peace at almost any price and her post-war policy includes establishments of a collective international security organization in which the soviet union, the United States and Great Britain will dominate on a "regional basis," Prof. Oscar Richard Lange of the University of Chicago yesterday told members of the City club.

He said he believed the soviet union's aims are based on the conviction of President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull that such a policy must be supported.

The economics professor, who visited Russia last summer said, however, he is not an expert on Russia. "I am giving you the picture as I got it," he asserted. "I may be basing my belief on some erroneous conclusions."

Prof. Lange said he did not believe the soviet union wishes to interfere in the inner economic and political forms in the countries with which it must collaborate on the regional plan. He cited the fact that Russia has armed a million soldiers in Poland and said Russia would "hardly do that" if she intended to make Poland an integral part of the soviet union.

LONDON GETS TOUCH OF FEVER OVER ELECTION

LONDON, Nov. 7 [Tuesday]—(AP).—There was a touch of the American election fever in this British capital today.

It wasn't like anything back in the United States—no last minute campaigning or rounding up of votes.

But the British, catching the fever, were button-holing Americans to ask what they thought about the outcome.

Stars and Stripes, the official United States army newspaper published in London, was preparing to put out an extra edition. The American forces network, army radio broadcasting to troops in the field, was to stay on the air all night giving returns.

Under the headline "There Are No Politicians in Foxholes; Will It End the War? No—So Vote's a Minor Issue at Front," Stars and Stripes carried a story from the United States 1st army front reporting that a large number of soldiers there did not cast ballots.

JAPAN'S FUTURE GRIM, TRADE UNION ORGAN AT MOSCOW STATES

MOSCOW, Nov. 6 (AP).—An editorial in War and the Working Class, soviet trade union magazine, said today that Japan's future was grim.

"Japan's production cannot compete with that of the allies," the magazine said. "Japan's transport in the southern seas is paralyzed. Air raids of the allies on Japan's industrial targets continue to increase. Japanese islands themselves have become objects of bombing."

It said Gen. MacArthur's landings in the Philippines were a serious setback for Japan, giving the United States a springboard for an offensive aimed at destroying the system of Japanese colonization.

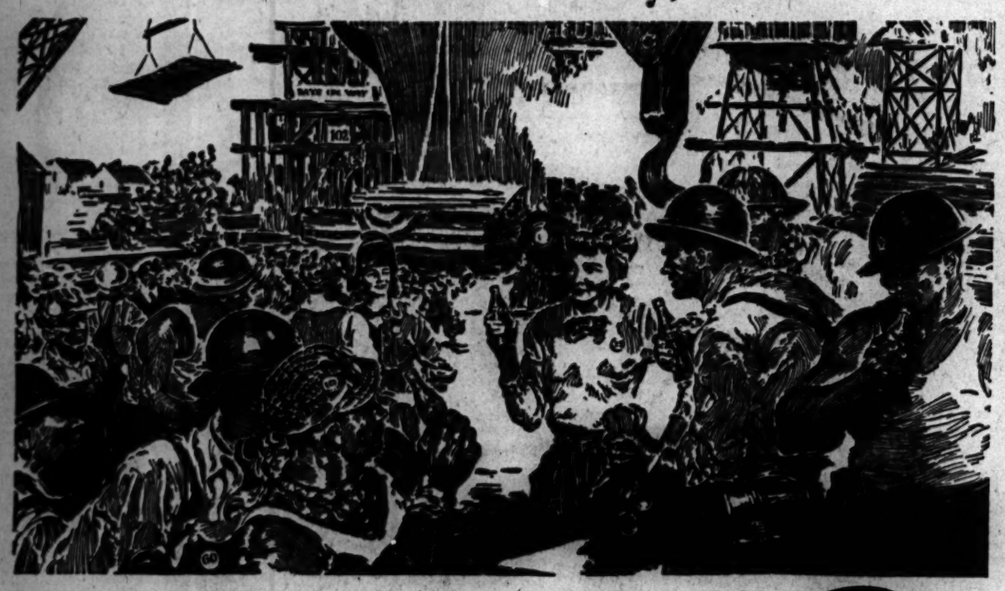
Have a "Coke" = Ahoy, mates



...or keeping up the good work

Faster and faster the ships go down the ways in the wartime shipbuilding program. From sunny California to the coast of Maine, workers have learned that the pause that refreshes helps everybody do more work and better work. Have a "Coke" says a hard-working shipbuilder to his mates. It's a little minute long enough for a big rest. Whether in a shipyard or in your own living room, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes,—has become a symbol of friendly relaxation.

"Readin', 'Ritin' 'n' Railroadin'"

Ask Conductor Bill Adams about the happiest moments of his life, and he'll start talking about his family, particularly the arrival of Bill, Jr., and little Jane.

Then he'll mention the first morning he put on a conductor's cap and swung aboard "his own" train. That was something! But it was no bigger thrill, he'll tell you, than the afternoon the new school house was dedicated.

Bill worked just as hard to get that new school for his kids and his home town as he did to become a conductor. Because Bill's a good father and a good citizen, as well as a good railroader.

Bill Adams—which isn't his real name—is typical of our Illinois Central people. They're home folks. Most of them have grown up with the Illinois Central in the towns along its right-of-way. They're fine citizens, too. Among them you'll find leaders in every branch of civic, social and religious life.

Right now, their main concern is final victory in the war. Afterward, all they have learned in the war years will be turned to account in improving Illinois Central service—to keep on earning your good will!

NEW ROMANIAN CABINET TAKES OVER IN CRISIS

Membership Acceptable to All Parties.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Romania, Nov. 4 [delayed].—Gen. Konstantin Sanatescu has succeeded in forming a cabinet acceptable to all Romanian parties, it was announced this afternoon, thus ending a cabinet crisis lasting longer than a month.

Members of the cabinet will take their oath tomorrow and assume their duties Monday, it was announced.

The National Democratic front, a coalition of Socialist, Communist and other workers' parties, had warned that unless a government was formed by 9 a. m. today it would "pass to direct action for solution of the cabinet crisis."

Published at the same time was the text of a letter presented to Sanatescu on Nov. 2 by Gen. Sergi Vinogradov on behalf of the allied control commission, accusing the government of inexcusable slackness in carrying out armistice conditions.

Charge Lack of Good Will.

The chief accusation was that the "Romanian government shows a lack of good will in executing the armistice clauses," and "even clauses which do not demand special preparation and to which there is no obstacle have not been executed."

The new cabinet consists of seven ministers from the National Democratic front—two Communists, two Socialists, one Ploughmen's front, one Trades Union association, one Patriotic union. Five are members of Julius Maniu's National Peasant party and four of Constantin Bratianu's Liberals. Premier Sanatescu, Foreign Minister Constantin Visoianu, and War Minister Gen. Vassily Rushcanu are considered nonpartisan.

Selection of the minister of the interior, who has charge of all police and security services, posed a problem which was settled by appointment of Nicolás Penescu, National Peasant, as minister, with three undersecretaries, Communist Teohari Georgescu, Liberal Dimitri Nistor, and Gen. Virgil Stanescu, a neutral who is to be the actual director of police services.

Few Nazis Interned.

Even today, however, few German and Hungarian subjects have been interned by the Romanian government. The highest figure so far heard for the total number of internees is 6,000. Some German agents are reported living their normal life unmolested.

Recently the newspapers have been full of the case of Fadu Lecca, convicted in Paris in 1934 of stealing documents from the French foreign office for the Nazis and sentenced to two years' imprisonment. He became commissar for Jewish affairs in the Antonescu government, put Jewish persecution on a business basis, and amassed millions. More than $2,000,000 in cash has been unearthed, which he was trying to smuggle from Romania.

Two of Lecca's chief assistants recently were released for lack of evidence and the press has been demanding why were they, notorious German agents, allowed to go free.

"Look! I've got to spend half of tomorrow buying another pack of cigarets! Even when I kept kicking your shins you wouldn't let them bring out their own!"

Boyd Borgstrom, fifth son of Mr. and Mrs. Alben Borgstrom, already had been discharged by the marine corps after 18 months in the southwest Pacific on the basis of an earlier army report that Rulon was missing. The parents had petitioned for Boyd's release.

The other Borgstrom sons were Sgt. Rolon D., air forces, Rulon's twin, who died in England August 8 from injuries received in action; Pvt. Le Roy E., medical department, killed in Italy June 22; and Pvt. Clyde E., marine corps, accidentally killed in the Solomon Islands March 17.

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 6 [Special].—Mrs. Joe S. Hull complained in a letter to her husband, an army lieutenant in Italy, that she couldn't get a telephone because she didn't rate a priority. "Well, you rate one with me," he wrote back. She thought he intended only a compliment until she received a parcel from him. It was a tall cradle telephone made in Sweden. The local telephone company installed it.

YANKS FLEE 180 MILES AFTER AIR BASE BLOWS UP

Equipment Is Taken Along to Liuchow.

BY CLYDE A. FARNSWORTH.

LIUCHOW, China, Oct. 29 [Delayed]—(AP).—The last Americans escaping from the United States air base at Kweilin arrived here this morning in six jeeps loaded with baggage and equipment salvaged from the field, which was wrecked to prevent any military equipment falling into the hands of the Japanese.

The 180 mile retreat of 15 Americans, an Englishman, and two Chinese was a wild, wet, and muddy ride. The convoy got thru with only one flat tire and one engine failure.

The group formed on the edge of Kweilin. I was assigned to a jeep driven by Staff Sgt. Milo J. Byers, Monongahela, Pa. The rear of the jeep was packed with salvaged airplane parts and baggage.

Has to Pull Trailer.

The convoy leader was Lt. Norwood Wilson, Olanta, S. C., who had been base commander at Kweilin. His passengers were Lt. Carl E. Rothschild, Brooklyn, N. Y., medical officer, and Wilson's interpreter, Robert C. Ho, a Cantonese.

Our jeep was handicapped by having to pull a heavy four wheel trailer too valuable to abandon at Kweilin. The little vehicle nearly wore out the clutch in the first 20 miles. There we pulled off to the side to rest.

Motor Gives Out.

When we started to move again the motor of our jeep refused to start. Byers and Wilson worked over the engine for nearly an hour by flashlight. Finally Wilson decided to jettison the trailer and hook our jeep to his. The wheels of Wilson's jeep kept spraying us with mud.

Wilson drove like a daredevil. Once I had to attract his attention by firing a tommy gun in the air to confess my fears that our three necks would be broken. After that he slowed down.

I marveled at Byers' ability to follow Wilson and keep our jeep on the road.

Morris, 40, a traveling salesman, on grounds of crulty, Morris asked when he might go back to the house to get clothing and other personal articles. She suggested 9 a. m. Saturday, but Atty. Henry G. Ross, representing Morris, said that was too early. "Saturday is Armistice day," said Judge John A. Sbarbaro in Superior court. "Make it at 11 a. m., a most suitable hour, I think."

Smoking a cigaret he had had some difficulty in buying, Judge Philip J. Finnegan in Circuit court chambers yesterday issued a permanent injunction restraining Erie Drug store No. 3, at 300 E. 61st st., from compelling customers to purchase other merchandise to get cigarets.

He issued the injunction at the request of the office of price administration on testimony that cigaret purchasers at the store were compelled also to buy a pipe.

The OPA filed another suit, against Meyer R. Applebaum, operator of Baum's Smoke shop, 500 S. Wabash av., in Circuit court. It sets forth that an investigator was compelled to buy two packages of razor blades to get any cigarets, and asks an injunction.

SUPREME COURT HEARS CRAMER TREASON APPEAL

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6 (AP).—Government and defense attorneys gave varying interpretations of treason today in arguments on the first treason conviction to reach the Supreme court.

The arguments involved the appeal of Anthony Cramer, naturalized citizen of German birth, who was convicted in the southern New York federal District court of aiding two of the eight German saboteurs landed from a submarine in 1942. He was sentenced to 45 years' imprisonment and fined $10,000.

Of the eight saboteurs six have been executed. One was sentenced to life imprisonment and another to 30 years.

Cramer's appeal was argued last spring but the court ordered a rehearing, with particular reference to the nature of treason.

Argue Over Intentions.

Harold Medina, counsel for Cramer, told the court that a "mere attempt" to aid the enemy is not treason. Solicitor Gen. Charles Fahy, however, defined treason as an intent to betray one's country, coupled with a visible act to carry out the intentions.

Medina acknowledged Cramer and two of the saboteurs, Werner Thiel and Edward John Kerling, drank beer together in a New York restaurant shortly after the saboteurs landed.

"Nobody knows what they said while drinking beer," he told the court. "The whole question depends on what they said and if there's no proof of what they said the whole thing comes down to zero."

Fahy argued that this was "no mere meeting."

"It was a meeting with the known enemy," he said. "Cramer must have known Thiel and Kerling were the enemy and over here in furtherance of enemy purposes."

Tells of Accepting Money.

Fahy said Cramer had accepted for safekeeping money brought to this country by the Germans and his entire course of action, plus his knowledge of the identity of the enemy, proved his intent to aid the enemy.

Fahy said Cramer was "that some one" inside this country without whom an enemy plan of sabotage could not succeed.

Under questioning by Justice Jackson, Medina said he would not consider it treason if any American sent munitions to Japan and the ship sank in midocean so that the munitions did not arrive. By the same reasoning, he added, Cramer's "attempt" to aid the enemy did not constitute treason because the saboteurs failed and no actual aid was given.

FLYER CRASHES ON LEYTE—INTO CHICKEN DINNER!

BAYBAY, Leyte, P. I., Nov. 4 [Delayed]—(AP).—Lt. Melvin W. Hanisch of Laurens, Ia., crash-landed his P-38 fighter into enemy territory—and the best fried chicken he has had since leaving home.

While he was chasing Zeros, both of Hanisch's engines were shot out. He was forced down 20 miles southwest of Japanese held Ormoc, unhurt. As soon as news of this arrival spread to guerrillas in the hills, the superintendent of the "WAS" [guerrilla women's auxiliary service] sent notes to her captains asking them to "rush campaign for eggs, chickens, and fruit."

The guerrillas returned Hanisch safely behind the American lines today, bringing along three Japanese prisoners they captured on the way.

A 10,000 TON 'GHOST' CRUISER RETURNS TO U.S.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 6 (AP).—The navy's "ghost" ship came home today. The 10,000 ton cruiser Philadelphia, dubbed "the galloping ghost of the Sicilian coast" after the Germans twice reported her sunk, steamed into her berth with five battle stars on her bridge—but without a scratch on her.

Home for the first time since her 1936 shakedown cruise, the "ghost" had been thru five major campaigns—North Africa, Sicily, Salerno, Anzio, and southern France. A torpedo had passed under her and enemy aircraft had raided her 35 times, but aboard her not a man had been killed or seriously wounded.

TO REPUBLICAN VOTERS.

Gov. Dewey, Gov. Bricker, and the state and local candidates running with them on the Republican ticket have made the issues of this campaign clear. They offer the country and the state a young and capable executive, American government within the Constitution, government for all the people, and an administration that is not for sale, either to members of the One Thousand club or to organized pressure groups.

The Republican candidates offer the nation an administration free from the indecision and bickering of old men, free from a foreign policy whose only consistency has been its anti-Americanism, and free from obligations to Sidney Hillman and to Earl Browder, whose ambition to destroy the political and religious freedom of American citizens has been openly confessed for years.

Every vote that can be turned out for the fourth term and for the misery that lies in it for America will be turned out. The slot machine Democrats, as usual, are prepared to count as many votes that don't turn out as they can get away with. If Republicans are to win, every honest voter who wants honest government restored to America must go to the polls today. Vote early. Vote before you go to work. See that every member of your family who is eligible to vote does so. Help your neighbors to get to the polls, and if you have time to do so, help your Republican precinct workers to get out the voters.

Your ballot is secret. No one can tell how you mark it and if any one tries to find out he can be sent to jail for a long time. Don't tolerate any interference. Report it to the authorities or to the Republican poll workers. If you want to live in a strong, free, happy America, vote a straight Republican ticket.

AND STILL AGAIN.

In his defensive Boston speech Saturday night, Mr. Roosevelt decided that the only way to deal with the skeleton which had been rattling in the closet all thru his campaign was to haul it out into the open. That skeleton was the well remembered pledge he had made four years earlier in the same city: "I have said this before, but I shall say it again, and again, and again: your boys are not going to be sent into any foreign wars."

The candidate who has run again, and again, and again did not say in that Boston speech of Oct. 30, 1940, six days before being elected to a third term, that the promise was conditioned in any way. He did not say "except in case of attack." He made the promise without any ifs, ands, or buts—and this when he was already committed to a policy of intervention which he knew would take this country into war.

In spite of the bald facts of the record, Mr. Roosevelt had the temerity to face his Boston audience Saturday night and assert that "as for myself, under the same circumstances, I would choose to do the same thing—again, and again, and again."

It was not only in Boston in 1940 that Mr. Roosevelt made commitments not to drag this country into war. His "again, and again, and again" pledge had been dressed up in other words on many occasions and paraded for votes and support of policies that inevitably meant war. Its first appearance was on Dec. 5, 1938, when Mr. Roosevelt, taking account of the suspicions that had been aroused by his speech in 1937 on the Outer drive bridge in Chicago, in which he proposed the quarantine of aggressor nations, addressed students of the University of North Carolina as follows:

"You have heard for six years that I was about to plunge the nation into war; that you and your little brothers would be sent to the bloody fields of Europe; that I was driving the nation into bankruptcy, and that I breakfasted every morning on a dish of 'grilled millionaire.' [Laughter.] Actually, I am an exceedingly mild mannered person—a practitioner of peace, both domestic and foreign, a believer in the capitalistic system, and for breakfast a devotee of scrambled eggs." [Laughter.]

Four months later, on April 15, 1939, at his 539th press conference, in relating how he had lectured Hitler and appealed to him not to make war on certain countries, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"Nothing can persuade the peoples of the earth that any governing power has any right or need to inflict the consequences of war on its own or any other people save in the cause of self-evident home defense, I used the words 'home defense' because nobody can get around that. That means 'home defense,' and does not mean defense thousands and thousands of miles away."

Still the reports of his meddling in foreign quarrels made people apprehensive of another war. Mr. Roosevelt ridiculed these suspicions in the following words at the New York Herald-Tribune forum on Oct. 26, 1939:

"In and out of congress we have heard orators, and commentators, and others beating their breasts and proclaiming against sending the boys of American mothers to fight on the battlefields of Europe. That I do not hesitate to label as one of the worst fakes in current history. It is a deliberate setting up of an imaginary bogey man. The simple truth is that no person in any responsible place in the national administration in Washington, or in any state government, or in any city government, or in any county government, has ever suggested in any shape, manner, or form the remotest possibility of sending the boys of American mothers to fight on the battlefields of Europe. That is why I label that argument a shameless and dishonest fake. . . . The fact of the international situation—the simple fact, without any bogey in it, without any appeals to prejudice—is that the United States of America, as I have said before, is neutral and does not intend to get involved in war."

By April 20, 1940, the war in Europe had been going on nearly six months, and Denmark had just been taken and Norway was being overrun. He spoke as follows to the Young Democratic Clubs of America: "Our opponents are seeking to frighten the country—by telling people that the present administration is deliberately trying to put this nation into war or that it is inevitably drifting into war. You know better than that." At another point in that speech he said: "We are keeping out of the wars that are going on in Europe."

He became more definite about not risking American lives in foreign wars when he sent a message to congress on July 10, 1940, asking for larger appropriations for national defense, and said: "We will not send our men to take part in European wars."

In February, 1941, less than four months after he made his "again, and again, and again" promise, Mr. Roosevelt proposed that the American government purchase and supply to England and China, on a loan basis, guns, tanks, and planes with which to kill Germans and Japs. This was an act of war. And in July, 1941, five months before Pearl Harbor, American destroyers and airplanes, manned with Americans, were hunting submarines and airplanes a few hundred miles off the coast of England, thus provoking Hitler to declare war on us. On Nov. 26 he sent the ultimatum to Japan that was answered at Pearl Harbor. He expected that kind of answer, but not at that place. President Roosevelt deceived the American people in his third term campaign just as he is doing in the present campaign. His utterances in Boston Saturday night were a confession that he finds it hard to live with his lie.

OBJECT LESSON.

The delegates to the international air conference meeting here have found themselves in the midst of an election campaign. It may serve as a reminder to them that this country is ruled by a Constitution, not by a man or a party or a coalition of parties. The elections required by our Constitution cannot be suspended or postponed on account of real or fancied emergencies.

Neither can any other provisions of the Constitution be set aside. It will be well for the delegates to bear in mind that when Mr. Berle, the head of the American delegation, speaks of "the government I represent" he is using a form of words that in the mouth of an official of our state department does not carry the same meaning that would be attached to them if uttered by an official of many another foreign office.

Mr. Berle can commit only the executive branch of our tripartite government. He cannot speak for the senate which must ratify any treaty that is produced at this conference. He cannot speak for the house which must join with the senate in any appropriations that may be required.

We were glad to see that the head of the British delegation, among others, was not unaware of these circumstances. In his opening address he reminded the conference that any agreement they reach "has to be ratified and the process of ratification depends upon the constitution of each country. In some countries the government can adhere to a convention by executive action. In others, legislation or parliamentary approval is required."

It is to be hoped that this point was not lost upon his hearers, for if it was they may regret it later. The eagerness of the executive branch of our government to give away the rights, advantages, and wealth of America has very little support among the people generally and their attitude will be reflected in both houses of congress. The Atlantic City agreement, setting up UNRRA, was accepted not because there was general approval of the scheme by which we put up most of the money and retained only a small voice in the distribution of it but, rather, because of the desire of our people to relieve acute distress among the civilian populations in the war-torn lands. The Bretton Woods agreement is certain to be stoutly opposed and there are few informed Americans who expect it to be ratified, regardless of the outcome of this election.

The American people take pride in their aviation industry and in their leadership in overseas air transport. We neither expect nor desire to monopolize this business in future, but there is very little likelihood of the ratification of an agreement which would retard the legitimate development of the American air transport companies or sacrifice American security or natural advantages.

THE WEST LEADS AGAIN.

With the cessation of the nation-wide recruiting program that the army air force has carried on since March, 1942, Capt. John H. Patterson, president of the air force examining board for the Chicago area, reported that this area led the nation in the number of young men enlisted. Out of a total of 181,426 applicants interviewed by the board during the 32 month period, 29,166 were sworn in as recruits.

The information is not surprising. In previous recruiting drives the middle west has made it a habit to lead, tho on some occasions the Texans have had their claims, on the basis of population. The bleeding hearts in the east are full of fervor for remaking the world over their teacups, but when the call to arms is sounded it is young men from the west who respond in the greatest numbers. They enlist to fight for their own country and for that reason alone.

Plenty of persons are ready to bet that the war will end next year, but nobody will venture a guess on when they'll wind up that sedition trial in Washington.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

JUST IN CASE.

Has any candidate for the Presidency, whether successful or unsuccessful in the popular vote, died before the meeting of the electoral college? There was one case of this kind. Horace Greeley ran against Grant in 1872 and was outvoted. The strain of the campaign and the death of his wife, which followed it, shattered his health. He died on Nov. 29. His electoral vote was divided by the college between Thomas A. Hendricks, 42; B. Gratz Brown, 18; Charles J. Jenkins, 2, and David Davis, 1.

* * *

Greeley's chief inheritor, Hendricks, figured in the next Presidential election, which was bitterly disputed. The Democratic candidates, Tilden and Hendricks, received 184 electoral votes, one less than a majority, but 20 votes were in doubt because of alleged frauds. The electoral commission was created to iron out the situation, and its decision was in favor of the Republican candidate, Rutherford B. Hayes. This finding could be overthrown only by concurrent votes of both houses of congress. The senate voted to sustain, the house of representatives to reject; and therefore the decision stood. Hayes became President in the most ticklish photofinish of American political history.

* * *

There have been two other disputed Presidential elections. In 1801 the vote of the electors was divided evenly between Jefferson and Burr. The election then went to the house of representatives, which was deadlocked for a week. Alexander Hamilton caused the election of Jefferson by persuading some of Burr's supporters to stay at home.

* * *

In 1824 the Presidential candidates were John Quincy Adams, Andrew Jackson, William H. Crawford, and Henry Clay. There was no majority in the electoral vote, so the election went to the house. Clay, as low man, was excluded, and his strength carried the election for Adams. Jackson's supporters felt like football fans whose team has scored a touchdown only to hear the sad refrain, "There was a horn on the play."

THO I'VE NOT HEARD.

[For J. M.]

'Twas April when you wrote me last, my lad,
Yet April's almost half a gay year gone.
How swift the ways of time, alas—how sad
The sunset-lighted road hope wanders on!

I miss your V-mail lines that used to tell
Of English lanes and downs, gray towns, old inns,
Cathedrals, fields in flower (and girls, as well),
Abbeys, and pubs, and London fogs . . . The grins.

Fear, and the doubts that, tho one may not own to,
Waylay a soldier's hours of solitude.

Tho April's long, long gone, and summer's ending
Has brought no letter, over the lanes of sea
And down the aisles of night, in secret sending,
Come elsewise incommunicable words to me.

Posted, I think, by friendly angels there
Beside you, whether in barracks or battle-line,
To tell me that somehow, sometime, somewhere,
Your hand again will find itself in mine!

LAST PHONE CALL.

The telephone rang on a bright Sunday noon;
"I guess," he remarked, "I'll be pushing off soon;
According to rumor, this seems to be it."
We talked of much trivial this and that;
"I'm sending a box with my garrison hat—
I won't be needing it, where I'm going.
You may not be hearing for quite a long while,
But please, will you keep your letters coming?"
"Good luck," I said. I could see his smile.
There was a click, and a dead wire humming.
The box came home just the other night,
With the hat, and some shells, and a broken knife,
Treasures that spoke of a boy's delight,
Carefully, softly we put them away—
Ready for him when he comes home to stay.

Mrs. E. writes: "Shortly after my husband entered the army he attended school as an aviation cadet. He had told me there was no allowance for the wives of aviation cadets. I have since been told there is such an allowance. He entered the army in 1942."

At the time your husband was an air cadet, he was not eligible for a family allowance. When the law governing the family allowance first went into effect, benefits were not available to cadets. However, in November, 1943, the law was changed, and they now are eligible until they receive their commissions.

Mrs. A. R. writes: "I have several friends whose husbands are in the navy and not stationed here. Nevertheless, their wives are permitted to purchase food supplies at Great Lakes Naval Training center. My husband is in the army, and I would like to know whether such privileges are open for me at Fort Sheridan, and if so, how do I go about it?"

Consult the quartermaster, Fort Sheridan, and you will be advised as to whether you will be permitted to purchase food supplies there.

KEEP TRACK OF YOUR WEIGHT.

THERE is no better guide to health than weight. If one is losing steadily, even a fraction of a pound per week, altho no modification has been made in the diet or in the work load, it is time to take notice and find out why. Many a malady sounds its first warning by filching away needed tissue.

Now, most of us can shed or add a few pounds with no noticeable change in the figure or the contours of the features. But let 10 or 15 units slip away and even casual acquaintances will detect the difference.

Of course, it is assumed at the outset that the avoirdupois is normal; that one is not obese. If a deliberate attempt is being made to get rid of excess blubber, that is another matter and we can then understand the reason for the reduction.

We all know the effect of illness. A bout with the common cold will deprive us of a substantial amount of reserve. When we step on the scales we can understand what has happened. From two to five pounds will have disappeared. We can realize how this occurs because a rise in temperature of even one degree means that the body is burning up its cells at an increased rate.

All too often some minor factor, to which we pay scant attention, is interfering with the absorption of edibles. If something has gone wrong with the liver or the pancreas, if the gastric pouch is falling down on the job, the scales will record a decrease. It is important to detect abnormalities early because, in the beginning, almost any disorder of the alimentary tube can be remedied easily. There is no better safeguard than to keep track of one's "heft."

Not long ago I encountered a friend who was obviously thinner than normal. When queried about his daily routine, he remarked that he had made no alteration whatsoever in his food or physical activity. It did not take long for his physician to find out that he had developed anemia, which meant that his vital organs were receiving insufficient oxygen. The only way they could report the matter was to do their jobs less efficiently. There was no pain, no discomfort. When his menus were reinforced with iron he regained his aforetime well being.

What is said about wasting applies with equal force to those who are gaining. We must ask ourselves: Is water collecting beneath the skin? Are too many calories being ingested? Is too little exercise being taken because a variation in habits has created a sitter out of one who has hitherto been reasonably active?

We can go up and down and remain well. But we should do so within a relatively narrow range—three to five pounds either way. If the decline continues, let's check the cause. More often than not we will catch the "starter" of what may be a fairly serious ailment.

BLADDER DISCOMFORT.

T. D. writes: As a result of advancing years, I find it difficult to control the sphincter of the bladder. Can this trouble be helped?

REPLY.

Sometimes a skilled urologist can remedy the defect. There is nothing he can do, however, if the difficulty is of nervous origin. The prostate should be checked for obstruction.

SIMILAR.

F. D. writes: Do undulant fever and tuberculosis cause approximately the same symptoms?

REPLY.

In certain stages, yes. It is easy to tell them apart, however. Undulant fever will give an agglutination test while X-rays will disclose the disorder within the lungs. Furthermore, tubercle bacilli may be found in the sputum.

GOOD HYGIENE.

I. D. writes: Is there anything I can do to prevent cold sores from appearing on my upper lip?

REPLY.

These blemishes usually appear when resistance is low. The responsible virus may be present much of the time. Loss of sleep, inadequate diet, worry, and nervousness are contributing factors.

WEATHER VANE.

H. G. writes: Why do old bone injuries hurt on damp days?

REPLY.

Arthritic changes may occur, if the individual is constitutionally disposed. All good weather prophets are victims of this malady.

SWOLLEN TISSUES.

T. R. writes: Some one told me that dropsy can be caused by lack of meat in the diet. Is this possible?

REPLY.

Wild Geese and the Candle.

Five years ago this fall, shortly after the Nazis invaded Poland and all the world thought the British and French would have them on their knees within two weeks, J. A. Beauparlant, a French-Canadian candlemaker who lives in Chicago, decided to make a votive offering to peace. He would make the most beautiful offering at his command. He would make the only offering he knew how to make—a candle.

Mr. Beauparlant's shop was far too small for the candle he had in mind. His candle was to be a magnificent tapering monolith. So he moved to his back yard. Here he made nine sections, each set on top of the other, and started to build the candle beside a giant maple. He worked night and day, and in two years his candle of peace was completed.

It was, he thought, the most beautiful candle he had ever made. Its wax was a soft, clouded white. Its wick was four window cords twisted together, as thick as two fingers of a man's hand. Its height was 18 feet 3 inches, that of three tall men set atop one another. Its diameter at the base was 26 inches; at the summit, 16.

He completed it in time for Armistice day, 1941, and altho the flames of war girdled most of the world in red and black, the flame of peace burned for 14 hours that day in the back yard of Mr. Beauparlant. It was a lovely thing, a gentle yellow flame that flared in the wind to a height of six inches as he and his neighbors and friends and customers watched.

Then, less than a month later, the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor. Mr. Beauparlant walked heavily into his back yard the next day. In one hand he carried a bucket of melted red wax. In the other he carried a bucket of melted blue wax. From his pocket protruded a spray gun. He sprayed the top of his candle red, the base blue. The center he left white. And he changed its name. He called it the candle of victory. From that day on, he vowed, he would burn it only on national holidays until peace returned. When peace did return, his candle would burn continuously until its wick guttered out in the pool of wax at its feet. Sometimes he thought wistfully of that pool of wax. It surely would be so great it would engulf his whole back yard. That, he thought, was the way he would want it.

Well, he has been lighting his candle every holiday, burning it from 10 to 14 hours a day, and so far less than an inch of it has been consumed. That leaves 218 inches, or 64,092 hours, still to burn. No matter how long the war, Mr. Beauparlant believes his candle will outlast it. He likes to go out in his back yard early every morning and muse over this. He likes to think, he says, of "something different" for his candle, altho he discards all the changes he thinks up. He likes to look at it hopefully, for his only son is in the merchant marine, and to plan how, when the war is over, he will accede to the demands of his friends, cart it down to Grant park and let it burn out its thousands of hours as a memorial to those soldiers who will come that way again and those who will not.

He was looking at it one morning late last week, gazing up from his small height at the great height above him, when suddenly he heard a cackling in the sky. Startled, he looked up. There, flying no more than 200 feet overhead, directly over his candle, was a flock of wild geese in V formation.

"That was the most important thing of my whole life," he said. "It was so beautiful to see these birds go right over my head, right over my candle, that I wanted to cry. At first I thought of lightning. Then I thought of war planes. I had never seen this V shape before. Then I say to myself: 'Maybe the geese know. Maybe soon my candle can burn to the ground.'"

And there may be some who will say, scoffingly, that geese have been flying that way since the beginning of time and at last are a symbol. To these the wise, and Mr. Beauparlant, can reply, "True, true, but never over a candle that waited for them."

IMITATING DAN TOBIN.

Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., Nov. 3.—I am a sergeant in the army and am stationed in Missouri. The other night some G. I. friends and I were enjoying a sandwich in a tavern in a nearby town. I happened to pass a table where sat the mayor of this little town and some of his satellites, and was hailed by his honor with, "Here's a soldier boy [I am 34 years old]. Are you going to vote for your commander in chief?"

Having definite views on the matter, I stated that I was not. Whereupon he started a harangue and finished up with "don't talk with your mouth, talk with money!" and grandly threw down several large bills. He added that he knew which side his bread was buttered on and he was going to vote for Roosevelt.

This was too much for me, and I said I was glad to hear him admit why he was voting for him but that my vote couldn't be bought. At this he shouted for MPs and said he was going to "get" me. However, the incident ended without mishap to me, but felt that it was an interesting sidelight on some of the New Deal supporters.

A DEMOCRATIC HOSPITAL.

Jackson, Miss., Oct. 31.—I am at present in an army hospital which has a loud speaker system thruout all wards. Recently we have heard some of Mr. Roosevelt's radio addresses over this system. However, tonight when two or three special requests for Gov. Dewey's speech were sent to the main desk one of the patients was flippantly told that this hospital did not care to hear Mr. Dewey; the patients prefer music!

WHY MR. ROOSEVELT HAS INFLUENCE.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—In regard to Sen. Lucas' address in Evanston and the reference to President Roosevelt and his world-wide influence, may I ask how Sen. Lucas gets that way? If Mr. Roosevelt represented Uruguay or some small country, those representing the powerful nations in the world would tell him to sit down in a corner and be a good boy. No, it isn't the world-wide influence of Mr. Roosevelt but the world-wide influence of the power of the United States that makes other powers sit up and take notice. And so, whether Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Dewey or the corner grocery man represented the power of the United States, other nations would in any case sit up and listen.

HOW'S THE RAKE SUPPLY?

Richmond, Ind., Nov. 1.—While listening to Mr. Roosevelt's Chicago address, I became interested when he promised the people 60 million jobs if he is elected. I wondered what he had in mind. Then it came to me that Mr. Roosevelt had noticed all the leaves lying about and no doubt had thought of getting 60 million rakes.

BLAME SHARED.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—A year ago an elderly woman was struck by an automobile. 1. As the driver of the car was as much to blame as she, he offered at the time to pay at least half her bills and if they were reasonable enough he would consider paying all. Her expenses have amounted to $800, of which he at first offered to pay $200 and then raised it to $500. When told the matter would be taken to court, he said he would file bankruptcy. 2. Can he do so after making these offers?

1. As a matter of law, where both parties are thus to blame, neither one is entitled to recover.
2. Yes. We suggest that you discuss the negligence questions in a personal interview with an attorney.

ROOSEVELT vs. ROOSEVELT

"I disliked the regimentation under communism, I abhorred the indiscriminate killings of thousands of innocent victims. I heartily deprecated the banishment of religion . . . I, with many of you hoped that Russia would work out its own problems, and that its government would eventually become a peace-loving popular government with a free ballot, which would not interfere with the integrity of its neighbors. That hope is today either shattered or put away in storage against some better day."

Craft Fall Into River at Jacksonville, Fla.

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 6 (AP).—The Jacksonville naval air station announced today that 18 persons were believed to have been killed in an air collision shortly after noon near the station.

Seventeen men were aboard the transport plane, the navy said, and only a pilot in the fighter.

Names of casualties will not be announced pending notification of next of kin.

Mrs. Esther Gebhardt of 247 E. 149th st., Harvey, charged Walter with drunkenness and cruelty and she asked custody of their children, Dawn Noreen, 3, and Toni Lu, 1. They were married July 19, 1940, and separated Dec. 7, 1943.

RIDDLESBARGER DIVORCE RULED OUT AS 'FRAUD'

A divorce obtained in the Aurora City court in February, 1932, by Rufus Riddlesbarger, wealthy head of Lanteen Laboratories, Inc., contraceptive manufacturers, was declared invalid by the Appellate court yesterday and Riddlesbarger's wife, Fay, 47, was given permission to proceed with a divorce action she has instituted in Circuit court.

The Appellate court's opinion declared that Riddlesbarger, a resident of Chicago, "perpetrated a brazen fraud" in obtaining the decree in Aurora. Justice Kickham Scanlan issued the opinion, which was concurred in by Justices John J. Sullivan and Hugo M. Friend.

Filed Her Suit in 1942.

Mrs. Riddlesbarger, who lives at 6233 Winthrop av., filed her suit for divorce in 1942, charging her husband with adultery and desertion. She charged he had married and divorced another woman, and lived with still another one since he left her. Judge Thomas J. Lynch in Circuit court ruled in January, 1943, that Riddlesbarger's divorce in Aurora was a fraud, but a few months later Circuit Judge Walter J. La Buy held that Mrs. Riddlesbarger had acquiesced in the fraud and he dismissed her suit for divorce.

Charged Coercion.

Mrs. Riddlesbarger had accepted $100 a month alimony payments for several years, and a $23,500 settlement in 1940. In her suit, she stated that Riddlesbarger had coerced her into accepting the Aurora decree on a threat of leaving the country with her two daughters if she objected.

Seek Immediate Hearing.

Attorneys Arthur W. Abraham and Ralph J. Gutgsell, representing her, said in the appeal in her behalf that she believed until 1942 that Riddlesbarger's divorce was valid. They said yesterday that they will apply for immediate hearing of her divorce case.

PLEADS GUILTY TO KIDNAPING OF SEAMAN'S CHILD

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 6 (AP).—Mrs. Anna Helen Cook, 22, wife of a navy sailor overseas, pleaded guilty today to the kidnaping of the seven months old daughter of Mrs. Mary Allen, 17, wife of a seaman.

Mrs. Allen, a native of Washington, Ind., was living here when she met Mrs. Cook last September. Mrs. Cook offered to take care of the baby while the mother went to a movie. She took the infant to Pittsburgh where she asked for an increased allotment as a mother. She was arrested by naval intelligence officers Oct. 26.

Judge Harry S. McDevitt deferred sentence today pending a mental and physical examination, asserting "you have caused untold and undescribable agony to this young mother." He said she should be placed in an institution or jail for "sometime beyond the duration of this war."

PARIS ASSEMBLY MEETS TODAY FOR FIRST TIME

Ready to Advise De Gaulle Till Elections Are Held.

BY ROBERT SAGE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 6.—The provisional consultative assembly, which will replace the normal two house parliament until elections can be held, will be convened for its first public session tomorrow afternoon in the Palais du Luxembourg, former home of the French senate and one of the last strongholds of the beleaguered Germans during the August insurrection.

Presiding at the opening session will be Paul Cuttoli, 80, senator from Constantine and dean of the new assembly. It is expected this meeting will be a mere formality. Election of officers is expected to be held Wednesday and regular business taken up only at the end of this week or the beginning of next.

The consultative assembly consists of 248 members, 10 of whom are women. The overwhelming majority of the membership represents some form of resistance movement, most of which are left wing. Twenty-five of the most important of these groups within France proper hold 148 seats, each representative being designated by his group.

The powerful National Council of Resistance, the Confederation Generale du Travail, and the Front National each have 12 representatives. The three left wing parties, the Communists, Socialists, and Radical Socialists, have six seats apiece. Twenty-eight seats are given to similar groups from colonies.

Another 60 members were chosen from 80 deputies and senators who refused to vote the French parliament out of existence indefinitely in Vichy on July 10, 1940. Of these 15 are Socalists, eight Radical Socialists, and seven Communists, the number of assemblymen from each group being set in proportion to the party's representation in the chamber of deputies when war broke out.

Session Lasts Month.

Duties of the assembly consist in acting in an advisory capacity on questions placed before it by the government, which is obliged to consult it on such questions as budget, loans of more than $10,000,000, all legislation affecting individual liberty, and the social and economic structure of the country.

Mrs. Anna Sura, 26, a soldier's wife, of 4520 Justine st., told police who found her in a tavern at 4631 S. Ashland av. yesterday that she "didn't care" about her four children, from 3 months to 8 years old, whom she left alone at home Sunday.

Mrs. Sura and John Michalek, 28, of 4561 Halsted st., who was with her at the bar, were charged with disorderly conduct.

The children—Thomas, 8; Kenneth, 5; Carol Ann, 3; and Gerald, 3 months—were hungry when they were found Sunday by their aunt, Mrs. Lillian Sura, who lives in an apartment in the same building. She told police the mother received a $200 allotment check last Saturday from her husband, who is in France.

Gets 4 Months in Jail for Wearing U. S. Uniform

Gordon T. Stark, 20, was sentenced to four months in the county jail yesterday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes on the prisoner's plea of guilty to a charge of illegally wearing an army captain's uniform. Asst. United States Atty. Jack A. Welfeld told the court that Stark, arrested here en route to New York, had twice been arrested in that city and charged with the same offense. On his second arrest, he was given a four months sentence, Welfeld said.

MILITARY POLICE RUN TOWN; NAZIS 800 YARDS AWAY

1,100 Civilians Stay Despite Shelling.

BAESWEILER, Germany, Nov. 5 [delayed]—(AP).—With Nazi troops only 800 yards away and shells constantly falling into the town, American military police nonchalantly are running this little coal mining community on an almost "business as usual" basis.

Baesweiler, about 11 miles north of Aachen, was captured by the Americans a few weeks ago. Since then it has been called a "hot town" because it us under continuous shell fire and the front line is right at the town's limits.

Eleven hundred of the normal population of 6,000 refused to leave when the Germans were driven out, so the Yanks got the job of trying to keep them from becoming casualties. The assignment was given to Lt. Paul Unger, 31 year old farmer from West Alexandria, O., and his military police section.

Two butcher shops, two bakeries, and two groceries were designated to keep open. One member of each family is given two hours daily to buy household needs under a rationing system, and carry them back to cellars and air raid shelters in which they live. Despite these precautions several civilians have been killed or wounded.

A 20 bed hospital was set up in a large basement for care of the civilians.

The Nazi mayor was arrested and a non-Nazi appointed. The Nazi manager of a coal mine was also arrested and two Dutchmen named to operate the mine, which is in full production.

Chicagoan in Section.

"Generally speaking," the lieutenant said, "the civilians are behaving themselves very well."

Unger's right hand man is Pvt. Fred Hoehnke of Sheboygan, Wis., who speaks German.

"The civilians prefer the American military government to the Nazi regime," Hoehnke said, "because under the Nazi system they had to ask permission to do everything."

ORIGIN OF FIRE THAT DROVE OUT 150 IS SOUGHT

Fire department officials yesterday were seeking the origin of a fire that drove 150 persons from their rooms in the Royalton hotel, 6213 University av., and caused damage estimated at $25,000. The fire started in an upper floor room of the four story structure, spread rapidly thru the roof and damaged 25 adjacent rooms. Firemen responding to a 3-11 alarm extinguished the blaze while the guests, many of them clad only in night clothes, took refuge in a neighboring building.

6 major advantages for industry in this area...

CHICAGO AND NORTHERN ILLINOIS
1. Hub of America's Transportation
2. Major Market
3. Post-war Products Center
4. Midwestern Financial Center
5. Rich Farm Lands
6. Ample Low-cost Electric Power

Chicago and Northern Illinois has always been a foremost industrial area...in peace as well as wartime; a region where industries find it to their advantage to locate. Because here, rail, truck, water and air traffic converge. Here, within a radius of a few hundred miles, is the marketing and distribution center for nearly one-half the nation's population.

In this area, manufacturers have easy access to basic metals and raw material. Here is one of the world's leading financial centers. Here, too, are electric power plants of vast capacity to serve industries and farms as well as commercial establishments and homes.

Indeed, Chicago and Northern Illinois is a great region today . . . and will be even greater tomorrow. Its favorable combination of economic factors makes it a region where established industries and new enterprises can thrive in the post-war period.

Even After This Happens, American Women Can't Relax

Even after Killer Hitler himself throws in the sponge, American women must not relax on saving used fats in their kitchens. Because all our victories in Europe cannot help our serious fat shortage problem one bit.

It's the Japs who still have our fats. They have had them ever since they grabbed off those territories in the Pacific that used to supply us with one billion pounds a year! Our fat salvage job isn't done until we blast the Nips out.

In the meantime, every drop of used fats is urgently needed to help make the tons of munitions, medicines, synthetic rubber and soaps that are needed for final victory.

You women supported the country magnificently by saving fats during the black days of the European war. Don't let down now. Keep saving—harder than ever—until V-J Day! Remember, the government gives you 2 free red points for every pound.

This message has been approved by WFA and OPA and is paid for by Industry.

LATIN NATIONS FORM UNION IN AIR CONFERENCE

Revolt on U. S. Program to Gain Adherents.

BY FRANK HUGHES.

The revolt of a bloc of Latin American countries at the International Civil Aviation conference against a state department attempt to force European power politics upon this hemisphere grew in importance yesterday and was greeted by some observers as evidence that Adolf A. Berle, assistant secretary of state, president of the conference, and chairman of the American delegation, had lost cotrol of the proceedings.

The Latin Americans, numbering 19 countries, announced that they have formed a "union" at the conference and elected officers: Pedro A. Chapa, head of the Mexican delegation, as chairman; Hahneman Guimares, leader of the Brazilian delegation, as vice chairman, and Luis Machado, a Cuban technical adviser, as secretary.

Oother Nations to Join.

These officials, in a press conference said only that they believed their position would attract the support of other smaller countries, but it was learned unofficially that delegations from Egypt, Iran, Ethiopia, and Afghanistan were about ready to join with the Latin American union.

There are 51 nations represented at the conference, which was called to set up an international interim authority to regulate trans-oceanic air travel until a permanent body can be formed, and to fix the policy and the amount of power a permanent regulatory body should have. Each of these nations has one vote in the plenary sessions of the conference, which must approve any final draft of either proposal.

The Latin Americans already have cornered 19 votes. The other four countries mentioned, if they join, would give the union 23 votes. If they can win the support of three other delegations, they will have a majority that could prevent the final adoption of any plan.

New Deal Fumbling Blamed.

Some observers assert this condition would not have developed except for "the ineptitude of the American state department and its New Deal employes" who called the conference.

The Latin Americans objected to a proposal drawn up in Washington and submitted as the policy of the United States delegation here which would create an interim council controled by the United States, the British Empire, Russia, China, France and Brazil, with only six seats to be parceled out among all the other countries in the world.

This, the protestants said, followed the European idea of major powers and minor powers, but is not American and will not be tolerated in the western hemisphere. It was pointed out that England always had supported this kind of a policy on the European continent, and that the American state department apparently was following British policy in offering such a proposal.

Defense of State Department.

It is known that the state department defends its action in placing control of the interim council in the hands of big nations on the ground that the nations which will do the post-war flying and furnish the air traffic should have a larger measure of control in its direction.

Some of the European delegates say that the Latin Americans refuse to face the facts of life and that, even in this hemisphere, political and economic power actually has the greatest share of direction in international affairs.

Brazil Rejects New Deal Plan.

The fact that Brazil joined with the other Latin American countries in making the protest and was given the vice chairmanship in their union caused amusement in the Stevens hotel, where the convention is being held.

Berle, who brought the American interim council proposal with him from Washington, D. C., put Brazil in the draft as one of the major nations holding one seat in the interim council. Apparently, he hoped to break up any Pan-American unity against the proposition by this move; but Brazil felt that her interests would be prejudiced more by the New Deal-British policy than by sticking with her Latin American neighbors.

Argentina Issue Cited.

Observers say that this is one of the important places where Berle's diplomacy fell down. Another is in relation to Argentina, which was not even invited to the conference, and shunned as a suspected pro-fascist nation. Britain has heavy interests in Argentina, owning more than a billion dollars worth of her railroads, utilities, and other properties.

While the United States snubs Argentina, some observers say, England will be in a position to negotiate bilateral agreements with that country in the air and in other commercial phases that will give the United Kingdom a dominant position there and threaten American hemisphere solidarity and commercial advantage.

British Efforts Disclosed.

The desperate efforts of the British to corner world air rights as reflected in dispatches from London have come to the attention of American representatives here. Brig. Gen. A. C. Critchley, director general of the British Overseas Air corporation, the British flag monopoly, was quoted in an Associated Press dispatch from London recently as saying that "we shall beat him [the American competitor] because we know how to look after our customers better than he does, and we have the men to do it."

Critchley also was quoted as saying that "in the American makeup they all want to be President after selling newspapers." This was taken by some of the Americans as a direct affront to Gov. Dewey, who sold newspapers in Owosso, Mich., as a boy. Some Americans say they believe the British fear the success of their world air policy if Gov. Dewey is elected President.

Canadians Waive Their Plan.

The Canadian delegation issued a statement saying that their nation agreed to waive the parts of their plan which call for strict international regulation of air routes, rates, and frequency of service in the interim period between the end of the war and the time when a permanent convention can be drawn and ratified.

This, they said, would enable nations to enter into bilateral agreements that would get air transports flying promptly. They impose the condition, however, that they will consent to this suspension of their plan only for the interim and that, when the interim ceases, the terms of the Canadian convention shall apply "just as if the transitional period had never existed."

American observers said that this seemed to be evidence that the Canadians intend to stand pat on their idea of a powerful world civil aeronautics board, with power to regulate routes, frequencies of service, and rates.

OPA FORESEES MORE TOYS WITH PROPER PRICES

Rae E. Walters, regional administrator for the office of price administration, predicted yesterday there will be more properly priced new toys on store shelves for this year's Christmas buyers. Applications for prices on new toys are arriving at national OPA headquarters at twice last year's rate. Walters said many small toy manufacturers are entering the field for the first time. He urged shoppers to look for toy ceilings.

All dealers in coal and other solid fuels are required, starting Nov. 11, to give each purchaser an invoice, sales slip, or receipt bearing full information about the kind of coal sold and the price, OPA said yesterday. The order does not apply to less than quarter ton lots and has been approved by the coal dealers' industry advisory committee. Heretofore, such slips were given at a customer's request. Copies must be kept on file by dealers.

Charges for the repair, maintenance, and servicing of antiques are to be exempted from price control, OPA announced yesterday. The order is effective Nov. 11 on the grounds that age increases the value of antiques and antiques do not have a bearing on the cost of living.

ARMY TO TRY 43 NEGROES IN RAID ON PRISON CAMP

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 6 (AP).—Forty-three Negro soldiers will be tried before a court martial at Fort Lawton, the army announced today, as the outgrowth of a raid on quarters of an Italian prisoner unit Aug. 14 and the death of an Italian private.

Three are charged with murder and rioting and the others are charged with rioting. The date of the trial was not announced.

The body of an Italian soldier was found hanging from a guy wire after a group of Negro soldiers raided quarters of the 28th Italian quartermaster service unit at the fort.

RATION CLERK AND ODT AID SENT TO PRISON

Cleveland, O., Nov. 6 (AP).—Federal Judge Emerich B. Freed today sentenced C. Richard Allen, former district manager for the office of defense transportation, and Robert A. Dissauer, former chief clerk of local ration board No. 6, to penitentiary terms of 20 and 15 months, respectively, for conspiring to make false representations to obtain 70,000 "T" gasoline coupons.

Judge Freed placed Mrs. Eleanor Minnery, former chief clerk in the district ODT office, on probation for 15 months and quashed an indictment against Myron T. Bernstein, a Cleveland gasoline station operator. Lee C. Howley, assistant United States district attorney, announced a new indictment would be sought against Bernstein.

Allen, Dissauer, and Mrs. Minnery pleaded guilty. Bernstein insisted he was innocent.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 6 (AP).—The Cirminello quadruplets now are reasonably out of danger, Lying-in hospital officials said today.

U.S. AND RUSSIAN QUARREL PERILS ALLIED PARLEY

LONDON, Nov. 6 (AP).—The European inland transport conference today faced adjournment in failure. American and Russian delegates are deadlocked over a proposal to grant authoritative power to the new allied transport organization.

The crisis arose when Robert Hooker Jr., American delegate, proposed that the organization's executive board have power to dictate its decisions to the smaller nations without their approval. Maj. Gen. Obyden, representing Russia, opposed Hooker's proposal. He insisted the board should be only consultative and smaller nations should have the right to make their own decisions.

May Drop the Whole Thing.

Unless a compromise can be reached within a few days, reliable quarters said, the conference would adjourn and the whole thing be forgotten for the time being.

The conference opened Oct. 10 and met two to three times a week at the beginning, with members of the United States, Britain, and Russia meeting every day. The entire conference last met Oct. 27. The "big three" suspended consultations almost three weeks ago because of the American-Russian conflict.

The Russian delegates are now awaiting instructions from Moscow before proceeding.

The draft of the proposed transport organization, which would control all European transport—railways, waterways, and roads—to assure priority for the military, relief, and the return of war prisoners, was submitted to the conference after consultations between the United States state department and the British foreign office.

Council Proposed.

It proposed that a council, with representatives from all the European allies, meet twice a year. There also would be an executive board with three permanent members, America, Russia, and Britain. Two temporary members would be elected by the council for one year terms.

When the draft was introduced, Rene Massigli, the French delegate, indicated that if France were not given a permanent seat on the executive board he would withdraw from the parley. The delegates agreed then that France would hold a permanent seat along with the "big three."

BEWARE OF RATION COUPON THIEVES, OPA WARNS OIL DEALERS

Theft of fuel oil coupons for 200,000 gallons and gasoline coupons for 50,000 gallons from a roll-top desk in the offices of the Marland Oil company's bulk plant in Orchard pl., Leyden township, outside Park Ridge, brought a warning yesterday from Rae E. Walters, regional OPA administrator.

"Gasoline station operators and bulk stations must guard the ration currency as they would guard cash," he said. "Losses such as this one simply contribute to the black market supply and jeopardize the operation of the station which has been robbed. Several gangs of criminals are preying now on bulk stations with one form of loot in mind."

The thieves overlooked $500 in war bonds and a case of whisky.

FREES HUSBAND GIVEN BRIDAL BED ON FLOOR

Marvin, 26, of 3925 Van Buren st., was granted an annulment by Judge Joseph Sabath in Superior court yesterday when the officer testified that his bride, Iris June, 19, made him sleep on the floor the first night of their honeymoon. She sat up the second night and went home the third day, he said. He happened to ride in the same Pullman, and she complained to the porter that he was annoying her. Marvin is stationed at MacDill field, Tampa, Fla.

Every 17 seconds (day and night) a vitally needed car is junked

THE DANGER LEVEL in number of automobiles in use is rapidly approaching. Out of 30,000,000 cars, 6,000,000 or one in every five have already disappeared from the highways. And of those remaining, more than 5,000 every day go to the scrap heap!

Says the Office of Defense Transportation: "Private automobiles must perform three-fourths of the essential local wartime transportation service ...Street cars, buses, and rapid transit lines can haul only a small share, approximately 25 per cent of the essential load."

Care For Your Car For Your Country is no mere catch-phrase, no slogan to be heard and forgotten; but a solemn warning that you must do your part as a patriotic American to prevent the threatened crisis in transportation.

To help make your car and your tires last longer and go farther, enlist the aid of your Phillips 66 Service Man. He is ready and waiting to help you.

BLAME AILMENT AFTER MOTHER LOCKS GIRL OUT

Juvenile authorities said yesterday that a nervous ailment was to blame for the actions of Mrs. John Dvorak, 4509 S. Talman av., who sent her 11 year old daughter, Rose Mary, out to find her father early Sunday morning and then refused to permit her to reënter the house.

"The mother has a goiter and is very nervous," Juvenile Officer Walter Skonly said. "Rose Mary, who was taken to the juvenile home, will be released to the care of an aunt pending a social investigation."

John Dvorak, 38, the husband, explained to police that he walked out of his home rather than continue an argument with his sick wife. He returned later, he said.

New City police said neighbors found Rose Mary shivering from the cold and reported it to the station. The child was than taken to the juvenile home. She told officers her mother refused to open the door for her until she found her father.

Mrs. Deml said she was crossing an alley when the motorist, who had directed his spotlight on her, turned his car and sped toward her. Unable to leap out of the way, she said she jumped onto the radiator of the car and clung there.

The driver made several attempts to dislodge her by racing the car and stopping suddenly, she said, and finally succeeded. Mrs. Deml fell directly before a front wheel. SUPREME COURT FREES NAZI GOLD PLOT DEFENDANT

The United States Supreme court yesterday reversed the conviction of Elbridge Gerry Bates, 42, of 571 Hill av., Glen Ellyn, a sales representative for a St. Louis company, on a charge of conspiring with Nazi agents to export gold.

He was convicted in the federal District court here in October, 1943, with Frank S. Smith, furniture manufacturer. A third co-defendant, Kurt Erich Schimkus, research chemist, was acquitted. Smith's conviction subsequently was reversed by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

In reversing Bates' conviction, the high court said Bates could not be held guilty because the federal government had conceded it lacked evidence to support the charge.

CITY ASKS HODES TO FIGHT ORDER WON BY BARRY

Corporation Counsel Hodes was asked yesterday by the civil service commission to appeal Superior Judge Joseph A. Graber's order of Oct. 30 reinstating Capt. Eugene A. Barry in the police department with full back pay since June 16, when he and six other captains were discharged for alleged failure to suppress gambling.

The commission members, in a letter signed by Walter L. Gregory, president, expressed a belief that Judge Graber had erred in his ruling. Judge Graber stated that the discharge of the captains was a "travesty on justice," and that evidence had not sustained the charges against them.

Hearing on the petitions of the six other captains seeking reinstatement on the claim that they were not given a fair trial by the commission was postponed yesterday to Nov. 13 because of the illness of Judge Graber. They are Capts. Louis Klatzco, Walter F. Healy, William J. Drury, John T. Cartan, Thomas Connelly, and Thomas Harrison.

The company is engaged in manufacturing steel forgings for naval equipment. According to Vincent Aceto, president of the union, which is affiliated with the Confederated Union of America, the strike was called in protest against the company's recent policy of making work changes without first consulting with the union as provided by contract.

Election Holds Top Interest in Today's Events

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHATEVER else is on the calendar today will come second to a trip to the polls because to vote—and vote early—is of first importance in Chicago homes. Unorthodox hours will be observed in most homes, as many will be rising before dawn to serve as poll watchers and others will have the family radio tuned in for election returns long past the usual bedtime hour.

Members of the Casino, the Tavern, and the Saddle and Cycle clubs will gather for election night parties. Among the 200 guests who have made reservations for dinner at the Casino are the Edward A. Cudahys, Mr. and Mrs. W. Press Hodgkins, Mr. and Mrs. H. Belin Voorhees, the Joseph T. Ryersons, the Cyrus G. Hills, Mr. and Mrs. Hopewell L. Rogers, the Francis Blossoms, Mrs. Hal C. Bangs, and Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Meigs. When returns start to pour in, members will help chalk up the figures on blackboards.

Other Election Notes.

Beer and snacks will be provided thruout the evening for the Tavern's members and guests who will be studying the bulletin board summary in the lounge. Wallace Brooks, James Norris, Marshal Haywood, Preston Boyden, the club's president; Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, Carey Orr, and J. Fred Reeve are among those with reservations for dinner.

At the Saddle and Cycle returns will be broadcast from the ballroom and lounge so that guests will not miss any of the bulletins. Dinner will be served at 6 p. m.

Mrs. E. Cummings Parker will have her alarm clock set for an unusually early hour, as she will be arising at 5:30 a. m. to take the early shift as a poll watcher. Others, such as Mrs. Barrett Wendell, will be on duty from 11 a. m. until 4:45 p. m., while still others, Mrs. Chauncey Borland among them, have volunteered to be on duty from 4:45 p. m. until the returns are in. Some of the others who will be taking shifts thruout the day are Mrs. Fred Cullen, Mrs. Lloyd Partridge, Mrs. Charles Goodman, Miss Marie Koch, Miss Helen Guenther, Mrs. Carleton Dodge, Mrs. Joseph Wilson, and Mrs. Charles Hough.

Engagement News.

The announcement that Mr. and Mrs. William Houghteling of San Francisco, Cal., are making of the engagement of their daughter, Lucretia Houghteling Zook, to Bruce Michael, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Michael of Geneva, is doubly of interest in Chicago, as Mrs. Zook is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James L. Houghteling, well known early Chicagoans. The wedding will take place Dec. 1 in San Francisco, where Mr. Michael and his bride will live while he continues with his flying duties as captain with an air lines company.

Mrs. Zook, a niece of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Houghteling of Winnetka and Washington, D. C., attended Chatham Hall and Sarah Lawrence college and was introduced to society at a reception at the San Francisco Golf club in 1938. She is a member of the San Francisco Junior league. Mr. Michael, who recently returned from a flight to Australia, attended the University of Wisconsin. His mother, who met his

Scotch Plaids Enliven Wool Day Time Garb

BY REA SEEGER.

White background Scotch plaid wool combined with black or winter navy blue makes the smart new day time dresses designed for junior miss sizes and the career girl's wardrobe. And if you like the patriotic fervor of these gay Scotch plaids you'll like the one piece dresses which have all-white background patterns, because white crossed with giddy plaids of green, red, yellow, and bright blue is used for dress parade tartans in Scotland. The tartans are correct for dresses and costumes for afternoon.

The two piece costumes are exceptionally smart with the jacket blouse top made of the plaid cut in bias lines. The sleeves are bracelet length, without a cuff, the waistline is defined with a tie belt and the peplum achieves a smart flare because of the side shirrings. Necklines are convertible with a soft bow of the thin wool to tie under the chin. Skirts are straight, slim, and of either dull black or winter navy. They are unusually effective two piece costumes to wear under short fur jackets or with flared three-quarter length winter coats of heavy fleece in brilliant shades of red, green, gold, or copper.

Day time dresses of these plaids are highlights for any coat, dark or bright colored. You may choose from prim little shirtwaist models cut with long sleeves cuffed at the wrists or the gathered skirt affairs with the snug fitted bodice top. The deep oval neckline of the bodice is trimmed with a fine pleated ruffle of the thin wool and then tied with a tiny velvet ribbon bow. The skirts are cut with either the very young gathered skirt or a diagonal design using the bias cut of the plaids for eye catching contrast.

Feeding Is Fun for Mother, Too

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Dear Mom," began my son's letter [he is in the army air forces and now in this country], "I am having a hard earned day of rest, and while the wife is out marketing I am taking care of the baby. He knows me now and smiles at me when I come in.

"This morning he had carrots for the first time. He loved them, and between spoonfuls laughed at me, and last night he laughed out loud for the first time when he was having his 10 o'clock feeding.

"He sure is easy to feed. When he first had cereal offered to him he never batted an eye, but ate and smiled with pleasure. Of course you remember how when you were here taking care of him he positively gobbled up his orange juice. He has an amusing way of sighing, with satisfaction I guess, in the midst of eating. But I bet he's going to be a merry one; he does so much smiling and laughing, and has a trick of looking at you out of the corner of his eyes. On the side, he already loves music."

Of course there was more to the letter, but I quote that part to show you how a healthy, happy baby can be given his new foods; that is, new tastes and textures, without any resulting fussiness.

My son's wife is doing a good job of feeding "our baby" without laboriously "doing a good job" if you know what I mean. She smiles at him often as she holds him to eat. She finds it fun and he knows it, the little rascal, because he takes time out to grin at her or sigh with a gourmet's delight, while she talks to him softly as she "spoons" out the puree.

A healthy baby in a happy, leisurely atmosphere will take to new foods easily, with reasonable exceptions or when he doesn't feel well.

Evening Dress Adds Elegant Note at Opera

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

The tradition of dressing for Monday night opera performances dies hard among those who have boxes or subscription seats, and last night's performance of "Otello" brought forth the usual group in evening dress. Its members certainly were in the minority, however.

As usual on Monday nights, a number of unescorted women arrived in pairs or foursomes to occupy their customary seats. Two of the most distinguished appearing of these feminine opera regulars were Mrs. Louis Eckstein and Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, both conservatively gowned in black, the former in a sable coat and the latter in a Persian lamb wrap. The Fred A. Poors, Dr. and Mrs. Frank A. Brawley, the Fred Gurleys, and Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Wilson of Denver, Colo., occupied the Poors' box, and the men's dinner coats and the women's handsome long gowns added a touch of elegance to the upper foyer during intermission.

Mrs. Alfred D. Plamondon Jr., in a long black gown and silver fox wrap and Miss Gertrude Bromberg in a street length dress and silver fox jacket, were escorted by Mr. Plamondon. The Thomas Hindes, Miss Sarah Hinde, Mrs. Laban J. Brady in an ermine wrap bordered in sable, the James G. McMillans, the Edwin Starks, the Herbert Lorbers, the Frank Berings, and Mrs. Frank Fuller were others in the audience.

Mrs. Fuller was among those who went on to the opera from a party the Abner J. Stilwells gave at the Racquet club for Capt. Michael Bartlett of the marines, who again will sing with Jeanette MacDonald in "Romeo and Juliet" Saturday night. Some of the others who gathered to fete Capt. Bartlett were his godmother, Mrs. Arthur Meeker; Mr. Meeker, Mr. Meeker Jr., the Louis C. Sudlers, the Hugo Vogels, and Mrs. Frederick Pabst of Milwaukee, in Chicago especially to hear "Pelleas and Melisande" tomorrow night.

A thoughtful hostess, Mrs. Stillwell provided coffee and substantial sandwiches for those guests who might have to miss dinner in order to be in their seats on time. Fausto Cleva, who conducted last night, and Mrs. Cleva; Capt. Bartlett's mother, Mrs. Edwin N. Bartlett; Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams III., the John Hoysradts, Mrs. Donald Lourie, Doris Doe, opera singer, and Gen. Chester L. Fordney of the marines were others who came to wish Capt. Bartlett success.

Planning Gives Time for Both Study and Play

BY MAUREEN DALY.
[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Don't just worry about it—do something! Maybe you've begun to feel that your parents and teachers both are strictly in the Simon Legree department, because no high school fellow or girl should be expected to do two hours of homework five nights a week and outside work on Saturday, besides keeping up with "Terry and the Pirates" and memorizing the titles of the top three tunes on the Hit Parade each week! It's just too much. Even a braintruster might crack up under that routine. If you find your schedule too heavy, why not try dividing it up and spreading it around a little?

on the SOLID side

If you don't want to put things down in black and white, try working out a mental schedule for your work. You have just one head between you and a set of A grades and five nights a week for homework, but you will have to cross off Friday night, because that's the night you save to go to the movies with the gang. Saturday night doesn't count at all because that's something special set aside for dating with your current guy or gal, and you might as well cross off Sunday night, too, because that's the evening your aunt and uncle come over for a visit and you just can't find a quiet corner for study then.

That leaves you four evenings out of seven and the hour or so set aside each day in school for study hall. If you're a shrewd dude you'll do as much of your schoolwork as you can in that study hall. That will leave you a complete evening to finish the leftovers, do some extra reading, listen to the radio, and get plenty of sleep for tomorrow.

Or perhaps you prefer to use a more haphazard, off-the-cob schedule. You would rather fill study hall time with writing notes, winking at the gal across the aisle, or just gazing out the window, date-dreaming. That, of course, will leave all your homework for the evening. But Monday evening happens to be the one with four of your favorite radio shows in a row and you must listen to all four.

That leaves your work piled up double for Tuesday. But that happens to be the evening the fellows dropped in and you sat around till 'way past 10, discussing current date-bait, last Friday's basketball game, and today's election. And something came up the next two evenings, too, so on Friday night you were left with a week's back homework and also the job of cleaning the basement which you had promised your dad you would do after school on Wednesday.

You had to stay home that evening and, after some king-sized grouching, got the job half finished and then couldn't take your current honeychile out on Saturday night, as you had planned, because your father wouldn't come thru with that heigh-ho silver he had promised for the job until the job was really finished. So there you were, with a wasted week and an empty weekend and nothing to do except worry about whom your girl had gone out with that night and how you could get the homework done by Monday.

No day is long enough to do all you would like to do, but plan your time—you'll find out you have more of it than you thought.

Thru the Looking Glass

Occasionally something that strikes you at first glance as a little far fetched, on second thought appears to be not such a bad idea. So it was with a family of deodorants we've being eying. There they sat on our desk, four little jars of cream deodorant in a single package, each jar labeled for individuals in a household, mother, father, sister, and brother. It finally dawned on us that the idea is a good one. Investigation proved that the deodorant itself definitely is worthy of note.

There's no denying that if each person in the household has his own personal jar of deodorant handy on a bureau or dressing table, it will be used far more regularly than if it has to be hunted for in a jumble of jars on a bathroom shelf. Father or the younger members of a family who are often inclined to discount the necessity of using such aids to personal grooming may skip them if they have to go out of their way for them. But when the jars are easily accessible, they'll soon form the habit of applying them regularly.

The deodorant itself is an especially creamy one, whipped to an airy fluffiness that makes it easy to apply. It slides on in a jiffy, and there's no uncomfortable pulling or stretching of delicate skin. It's an effective preparation, a reliable deodorant and designed to help curb perspiration. A small dab of the cream, rubbed in gently, will provide protection for from one to three days, depending on individual needs.

The package of four jars is amazingly low priced, making it a nice buy for family use. And if your family is not so large, you can buy the cream in single jars.

UNRELIABLE EVIDENCE.

Miss Silver was giving Frank Abbott flattering attention.

"Pray continue."

"Well, I don't think it was Bush either. It can't be if Madoc's statement is true. Which brings us back to the timetable again.

"9:46 approx.—Madoc looking into church yard.

"That gives him three minutes to walk back along the cut and see Bush enter the church yard by the main gate, and Bush one minute to come around the church and in at the side door.

"9:50—Bush finds the body.

"9:52—Approx.—Gladys and Sam to the church yard.

"9:58—Bush comes out of the church and locks the door.

"How's that?"

"Excellent," said Miss Silver.

"And it doesn't get us anywhere at all! Exit, Madoc. Exit Bush. Enter invisible murderer, sex unknown. Nobody saw him except Ezra, and Ezra is no more. Please teacher, who did it?"

Miss Silver coughed.

"There is so little to go on—just a few straws in the wind—nothing that could be called evidence."

"Strictly off the record, teacher."

She said gravely, "I think it was one of the people who went to the Ram on Monday afternoon."

"Do you include Bush?"

"I do not think that it was Bush."

"Who's left? Miss Doncaster, and possibly Everton, but there's no evidence to show that he was near the Ram. O, by the way, the Chief has checked up on him, and it sounds O. K. Stock broker. Gregarious friendly soul. Shell shocked in the blitz—bad nervous breakdown—ordered a country life. Sounds all right, doesn't it?"

"He has never had any one down to stay," said Miss Silver. "He is said to have gone over to meet a cousin in Marbury a little while ago, but that is the only evidence of contact with friends or relatives. For a friendly, gregarious person that seems a little strange."

"Nervous breakdowns do leave people strange, don't they? And, you know, it's quite easy to drop out."

"That is very true."

"Then, Mrs. Mottram gives him an alibi. She says he was with her until a quarter to 10 Tuesday night, and that the shot was fired just as he said good-by."

"A very good example of the unreliability of evidence. She told me the same story, but with a difference. She said Mr. Everton heard the shot and thought that it was Giles shooting at a fox. He had just looked at his watch and said he must go, as it was a quarter to 10, and he was expecting a trunk call."

"Not quite the same thing, as you say."

"Not quite. Mrs. Mottram was one of the people who are so accustomed to hearing the chimes they no longer notice them. Just before I left her I asked whether she could remember hearing them when Mr. Everton was saying good-by, and she said she thought she could, but she wasn't sure, because she hardly ever did notice them unless she was listening. She thought she heard something just as he went out."

"Something odd there, isn't there? Everton looks at his watch and says it's a quarter to 10 and he must be going because he's expecting a trunk call. Then he remarks on the shot—'Hullo, there's Giles shooting at a fox!' or words to that effect. And then he says good-by, and Mrs. Mottram hears something which she thinks may have been a chime. Well, there simply wasn't time for it to happen like that." He turned his wrist so that they could both see the second hand of his watch. "Look here—ding, ding, ding, ding—five seconds dead. The shot came just into the second chime—another two seconds. Everton has only got three seconds to hear the shot, say his piece about Giles shooting at a fox, say good-by, and get going. Well, it simply can't be done in time for Mrs. Mottram to hear the remaining chime. The only drawback is she doesn't seem sure enough about anything to make it worth while trying to build up a theory on what she may or may not have heard. I suppose she's telling the truth?"

"Certainly—as far as she knows it herself. She would make a very bad witness. We had better check the whole thing over with her again and see whether there is any variation from what she said to me."

"All right—so much for Everton. Now, what about Miss Doncaster? You say you think it was one of those people who went to the Ram on Monday afternoon who shot Harsch.

"We do know for certain that Miss Doncaster was at the Ram. We haven't any evidence at all that Everton was, and for the moment we're not considering Bush. Well, that leaves you Miss Doncaster as first murderer, and I quite agree that she would do very well in the part—she's cram full of envy, malice, and all uncharitableness. But we're going to want something a little more specific than that. What can you do about it?"

"Not very much," said Miss Silver. "She and her sister were at a finishing school in Germany for two years. They came back with a great enthusiasm for everything German. During their father's lifetime they used to go every other year to one of the German spas. This was discontinued on his death in 1912. About 1930 the sisters began their trips abroad again—Switzerland, the Tyrol, Germany. Miss Doncaster developed a violent admiration for Hitler—Miss Sophy says she was really very trying about him. But in 1938 Miss Mary Anne became paralyzed and the trips had to be abandoned. Since the war broke out Miss Doncaster appears to have had a complete change of heart. She is by way of being very patriotic, and Hitler is never mentioned. Miss Sophy said it was really the greatest possible relief.

"Does she know how to use a revolver?"

"I believe so. Mr. Doncaster was fond of shooting at a mark. Miss Sophy says he made his daughters' lives a burden to them about it."

"None of which is evidence," said Frank Abbott gloomily. "Let's see—we checked up on everybody in those houses. What was she doing on Tuesday night?" He flicked over the leaves of his notebook. "Here we are! Doncasters. Maid in kitchen—heard nothing, didn't go out. Invalid sister upstairs, back room—wireless on—heard nothing. Miss Doncaster—with sister except for five minutes somewhere between half past 9 and 10, when she went to the pillar box opposite the rectory and posted a letter—cannot fix time exactly—thinks it was nearly 10 o'clock—met nobody, heard nothing. As far as opportunity goes she had it. What about motive? I suppose she might have had that, too. A violent enthusiasm for Hitler might have made her willing to work for the Nazis. It doesn't seem credible. I suppose there wasn't anything else—any private feud with Harsch? He hadn't been treading on her toes?"

"I have not heard anything. It would not, of course, be at all difficult to offend her."

fiancée in San Francisco last spring, will be the only member of the Michael family present at the wedding. Mr. Michael will not be able to get away, nor will their daughter, Mrs. Ralph Stuck, whose husband, a major in the army medical corps, has been in the European theater for the last two years.

The Michaels' younger son, Lt. Jerry Michael, recently received his wings as a pilot in the army air forces and is stationed in North Carolina. Mrs. Zook and her brother, Joseph, are great-grandchildren of Joseph G. [Uncle Joe] Cannon, who was speaker of the house of representatives.

News of Births.

Somewhere in the South Pacific Lt. James Galt Coe will receive news of the birth of his daughter, Dale, Oct. 30 in the Evanston hospital. The baby has been named both for her mother, the former Barbara Dale Leffingwell, and her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Earl Leffingwell of Evanston.

Somewhere in Italy, where he just has been awarded the air medal and a Presidential citation for services with the army air forces, Lt. James G. McGrath is hearing of the birth of his daughter Nov. 3 in Henrotin hospital. The baby, named Patricia Ann for her mother, is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius O'Brien of Lake Shore dr. and of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bertram McGrath of Fullerton pkwy.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stone Powell [Bernadine Hardesty] of Evanston are being congratulated on the birth of a son Nov. 3 in the Evanston hospital. The baby, who has been named for his father, is a grandson of Dr. and Mrs. Frank M. Powell of Tupelo, Miss., and of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hardesty of Anchorage, Ky.

Beg Your Pardon

The Red Cross did not sell coffee and doughnuts at the annual field trials of the English Springer Spaniel Field Trial Club of Illinois, held Saturday and Sunday in Lake Bluff, as stated erroneously yesterday. The refreshments were given first to service men present and then to civilians.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Long Island ducks are particularly plentiful this season, and many of them will find their way to the Thanksgiving festive board. Considering that turkeys are short, this is a happy circumstance. There'll be plenty of turkeys for Christmas, I'm told, but the army's increased needs may leave the Thanksgiving supply for civilians pretty tight in spite of the largest turkey crop on record.

There are almost enough chickens for two in every pot, the Poultry and Egg National board declares. If you don't care for roast duck, have chicken for Thanksgiving dinner.

If duck is your bird, be sure to allow plenty of duck meat for each guest. There's not much more to a duck than its breast, as far as the carving man of the house is concerned. A four to five pound duck should serve four persons, but if there'll be six at your Duncan Phyfe you'd better buy two ducks, or a heavy one of seven pounds. Allow at least a pound of duck per person, market dressed weight [head and feet on, undrawn].

Duck meat is so rich flavored that the tart accent of fruit has become the favorite accompaniment. A dressing made with chopped apples, oranges, prunes, raisins, or other fruit, in addition to bread crumbs, is suitable. Many cooks place a quartered apple, a halved onion, and a stalk of celery in each duck in lieu of dressing.

Luckily for your red ration points, duck is roasted without butter or margarine basting, and without any fat in the stuffing. The duck provides its own fat for basting and for flavoring a bread stuffing, if used.

Place your stuffed duck, breast side up, on a rack in an open roaster and roast at 325 degrees until tender. Do not add water, and do not cover.

The duck may be rubbed with sage or marjoram or other powdered herb before roasting.

Roast the duck until it is nicely browned and very tender. Pinch the thick portion of the drumstick meat to test for doneness. If it is quite soft the duck is well cooked. Roasting time usually is from 2½ to 3 hours.

During the last hour of roasting the duck may be basted with fruit juice several times, if desired. No fat should be used. Excess fat should be poured out of the pan before basting.

Arm the man of the house with "Easy Lessons in Carving," an illustrated guide for carving meats and poultry. Send 7 cents in stamps to Mary Meade, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, for a copy.

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup brown or granulated sugar

Cream margarine with ½ cup sugar. Break egg into 1 cup measure and add milk to make 1 level cup. Beat and add to creamed mixture alternately with flour, salt, and baking powder sifted together. Pat out to fit 2 greased 8-inch cake pans. Top with single layer of peeled sliced apples. Combine butter, flour, and remaining sugar, working as for pie crust. Sprinkle evenly over two cakes. Bake in hot [400 degrees] oven for about 25 minutes or until lightly browned.

I use this bitter theme

The Boss Speaks.

Results of a survey conducted by the white collar girls of Illinois Institute of Technology to learn what the boss wants to find in a secretary have been gathered together under the heading "The Boss Speaks."

Thirty-three questionnaires were sent out. Thirty were returned! These bosses—they were picked at random—stated, anonymously, their preferences regarding qualities other than the usual secretarial requirements of efficiency, intelligence, and mechanical ability.

Concerning educational requirements, 16 asked for college graduates, nine wanted high school and business school graduates, and one asked for a high school graduate. Concerning age: Twelve specified 25-30; five thought 30-35 the best secretarial age; three said 18-25, and six had no age preference. Sixteen of the bosses preferred a single secretary; three stated "married"; five had no preference.

As to clothes the vote was: Tailored suits—5; softly tailored suits—13; bright colors—4; subdued colors—9; high heeled shoes—5; walking shoes—15; ankle socks—1.

Other qualities were these: Short hair—12; upswept hairdos—2; long loose bob—1; short fingernails—11; long fingernails—2; bright nail polish—5; no nail polish—11; light makeup—19; heavy makeup—0. Perfume or cologne got two votes. No perfume was preferred by eight.

The tall girl came out with 11 bosses on her side; 15 wanted their secretaries "slim," and five valiant souls admitted they liked them "curvaceous." Seven asked for brunettes, two sought blondes, and four liked redheads.

One spoke his mind thus: Age, 25-30 and act 35. Marital status: Single naturally. Appearance: Regular walking shoes NO! Mocassins or saddle shoes NO! NO! Ankle socks NO! NO! NO!

An Artkino picture, produced by Mosfilm studios, U. S. S. R., directed by Vladimir Petrov, and presented at the World Playhouse.

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

You might think one war at a time is enough. But no—in the midst of a 20th century holocaust, the amazing Russians have the men—thousands of them—and the energy to produce a meticulously detailed account of epic proportions of Napoleon's Russian campaign of 1812.

Between current alarms and excursions it may not sound very alluring, but actually the film is of absorbing interest, certainly one not to be by-passed by any student of history. Far be it from a mere movie reviewer to pass upon the authenticity of the multitude of details, but they coincide with our memory of the larger outlines, and the dispassionate objectivity with which the tale is told serves only to increase its impressiveness. The dialog, of course is in Russian, but the English text and narration are entirely adequate and you feel no barrier such as often impairs enjoyment of a foreign language film.

The action begins with Napoleon's crossing of the Russian border. The Scotch general, Barclay, commanding the Russian forces, recognizes the impossibility of stemming the tide of Napoleon's army of 600,000 with his meager 100,000 men and orders a retreat. The hue and cry goes up for the appointment of a Russian commander who will adopt offensive tactics. The emperor, Alexander I., appoints Prince Kutuzov as field marshal to head the Russian army and supplant Gen. Barclay.

The opposing forces meet at Borodino and the wily Kutuzov turns defeat into victory—tho his aids do not recognize it as such—by attacking Napoleon's rear and making the French commander fearful of sending his last reserves into the battle. Despite disapproval in all quarters, Kutuzov continues his policy of retreat and permits Napoleon to occupy Moscow.

Then Kutuzov's tactics begin to justify themselves. The Russians have gained time to train a new army, and Napoleon is harassed by guerrilla warfare on every side. The retreat from Moscow begins, ending in the utter disaster of the Russian winter.

The moral, of course, is that history repeats itself, but the restraint with which the picture avoids the obvious and omits distasteful propaganda is noteworthy. While the photography and production as a whole do not compare with the best American standards, the battle scenes are impressive and the acting of A. Dykki as Kutuzov, of N. Okhlopkov as Barclay, and of S. Mezhinsky as Napoleon, is distinguished.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 6. — I don't understand it. Charles Boyer, Cary Grant, Errol Flynn, Walter Pidgeon, Joan Fontaine, Hedy Lamarr, Arthur Treacher, Helmut Dantine, Gladys Cooper, Michele Morgan, Binnie Barnes, and Heather Angel all became American citizens this year and they can vote. Yet when asked to go on the air five minutes to say how proud they were that they were able to vote in a democracy, with nothing said about either candidate, only two were willing to do it — Treacher and Dantine. . . . Paramount's having more than its share of trouble, what with Bob Hope refusing to make a new deal unless he gets an independent picture. He likes to spend more time with our boys overseas. Now it's Bing Crosby who hasn't yet signed that seven years deal; there are certain clauses not ironed out. Bing also wants to go overseas. Dorothy Lamour has registered her discontent. They've already lost Fred MacMurray. Claudette Colbert is no longer under contract there. So all is not moonlight and roses.

That's What He Said.

Irving Berlin's seen "Going My Way" four times. The first time in Italy. He thinks it's bigger than any academy award and that the award should go to some other picture. Says Irving, "The word 'great' has been so overdone, and 'Going' is so far ahead of anything that's been done in years, we need new adjectives to describe it." . . . Irving is putting it up to the boys themselves as to which of his songs they want in "Blue Skies." . . . When Gracie Allen started talking about her concert for index finger, it was done as a gag. Since then she's actually played it at Carnegie hall, and now she'll do it with the Boston Symphony on Nov. 15. Who is it talks down the power of radio? . . . Jean Cagney's husband, Ken Spaulding, replaces Joel Ashley with Mae West in "Catherine Was Great." And I'm told Jean's performance in a new play is something to shout about.

The Taylor Stable Grows.

Elizabeth Taylor gets star rating in "National Velvet" and deserves it. Elizabeth is beating Shirley Temple in her love of animals and a homemade menagerie. Elizabeth has just returned with Frank Morgan from three months at Lake Chelan, Wash. She brought back 12 baby chipmunks. They've been added to three dogs, two cats, a pony, rabbits, pet mice, and leaping frogs. . . . Jack Cummings is off to Mexico soon to take background shots for a picture laid there. He wants Irene, famous designer, to go along with him. She'd like to go and visit ex-sister-in-law, Dolores Del Rio, who's finally doing the kind of pictures we wouldn't let her do here, and making more money than she ever did. . . . Ida Lupino is reading Edward Thompson's "Take Away the Darkness." So am I, and I recommend it to you for an evening's enjoyment soon. His "Listen for the Laughter" came out just about the time of Pearl Harbor, and so much happened that I'm afraid it was lost in the shuffle. . . . Peter Lorre has been borrowed from Warners for "Too Good to Be True."

There's Room at Top.

Charles Koerner has signed up Stephen Laird, a young producer with ideas. He'd like to do "The Odyssey of Runyan Jones," a Norman Corwin story. It's enchanting. About a little boy who goes to purgatory looking for his dog which has been run over. Later it's discovered that the little boy died trying to save him. Whether Laird gets to do it or not, it shows he has a vivid imagination which they could sure use over at that studio. . . . Roman Bohnen is playing his first American role in "Susie Slagle." He'll battle every time he hears himself referred to as "that refugee actor." He was born in St. Paul, went to the University of Minnesota, and played football there. . . . Hedy Lamarr is going to have a ba-bee and can't stand in for her fittings at Metro. Greta Garbo never did stand for hers. First sketches were shown her, which she approved. Then the finished garment was given her. She tried it on once before working in it. That went for that $10,000 beaded number she wore in "Mata Hari," too.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

At least one-third of Illinois student nurses being graduated this fall must enter either the army or the navy nurse corps if military enlistment quotas are to be met, Miss Madeleine McConnell, state chairman of the war man power commission's nurse procurement and assignment service, has announced.

The state's nurse quota for the military services is 681 for the last six months of 1944. Approximately 2,043 student nurses are expected to be graduated in the state by Dec. 31, many of them enrolled in the United States cadet nurse corps, which finances tuition, board and lodging, uniforms, and personal expenses thru funds allotted by the Bolton law.

Graduate nurses, and those to receive diplomas in autumn classes, who fall into procurement category No. 1 [not essential in present positions and potentially qualified for military service] are urged to apply for enlistment well ahead of the time they will become eligible for military duty. Applications may be filed with the nurse procurement committee of the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross, 529 S. Wabash av., or with the army and navy surgeons general in Washington, D. C.

Headquarters of the 6th service command has announced the recent appointment to the army nurse corps of five Chicago women: Norene T. Curtin, 1008 N. Mason av.; Jean M. Engelhardt, 3319 Berwyn av.; Dorothy Coy, 4605 N. Lavergne av.; Kathleen Scanlan, 1503 Bryn Mawr av., and Portia Gallagher, 2216 Forest View rd., Evanston. All have been assigned as 2d lieutenants to Camp McCoy, Sparta, Wis., for military training, after which they will serve in army hospitals, overseas, or in the United States.

Four war projects have been planned by Evanston and north shore alumnae of Delta Gamma sorority, and all are repetitions of tasks executed last winter.

A day room and a WAC recreation room will be decorated and furnished at Fort Sheridan under the chairmanship of Mrs. John Leonard of Evanston. Mrs. Bradley Williams of the same suburb has converted her home's recreation room into a workroom in which members will prepare knapsack libraries to be sent to service men. Mrs. E. C. Lane is chairman.

The winter months will find members of the alumnae group stitching bright knitted squares into afghans for use in military hospitals. In the knitting project, headed by Mrs. Raymond Keeler, the alumnae have the coöperation of graduate groups of Delta Gamma thruout the nation.

Bundles for America is fourth on the list of the alumnae's projects. That organization will be assisted again this year in the preparation of layettes distributed to needy wives of service men.

Mrs. Burr Lee heads the alumnae.

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 spades	Pass	6 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

The most important single ingredient in the slam bidding recipe is the ability to judge whether the hand can probably produce 12 tricks. Give me a player that has that talent and I will forgo all the fancy equipment in the way of artificial slam conventions. It is my impression that our slam bidding troops are overmechanized. They sacrifice maneuverability to heavy armor.

Some of the old school players whose theory was when they saw a slam to bid it have survived this highly scientific age in very fine fettle. In today's hand South opened the bidding with one diamond, North responded with one spade. South's next bid was three spades, tho it is a close point whether or not he should have gone the whole way and bid four spades. It is at this point that North should judge the possibilities of the hand.

Immediately after partner opened the bidding, he was convinced there was a game in the hand, because he himself held an opening bid. But when his partner followed up the opening bid by a subsequent jump, he was quite sure the hand would produce a slam.

Inasmuch as he was not interested in contracting for a grand slam, he decided not to go thru the routine of showing his aces because if the hand was solid in the side suits, there was a good chance that a trump trick might be lost, so that aces and kings were not the only consideration.

A simple guide to govern these bidding situations is this: If your hand is equal to an opening bid and your partner opens the bidding ahead of you, there should be a game. But if in addition your partner [the opening bidder] subsequently makes a jump, there should be a slam. In other words, an opening bid facing an opening bid followed by a jump [by opener], should produce a slam. It still works.

Mystery Play Has Its Chills and Chuckles

"TEN LITTLE INDIANS."

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Half chills, half chuckles, "Ten Little Indians" will be fun for the indulgent playgoer. Better sleuthing than playwriting, it provides a ringside Harris seat at eight murders, each ticked off in picturesque terms of the nursery rhyme over the baronial mantel where 10 little wooden Indians stand in solemn procession, ready to vanish with grisly precision as the supply of house party corpses is augmented.

This was one of Agatha Christie's best stories, and the play she made from it served her well in London and is now running in New York with such success that ours is a special company. On desolate Indian Island, off the English coast of Devon, she assembles her 10 little victims, all lured there by fake invitations and marooned without telephone or boat while the voice of doom intones their respective crimes and punishments. Each is accused of murder, and retribution starts with a touch of cyanide in a drink, to choke off the first little Indian. After that, your eyes get some fine exercise, trying to cover all potential corpses, so as to be in at the death.

So while the offstage minions provide thunder and lightning, the wailing of wind over the parapet, and even the cry of seagulls [identified for landlubbers] retribution bears down on assorted murderers. On the surgeon whose hand slipped from drinking, on the judge who was determined a certain man should hang, on the thin lipped spinster who drove a girl to death by drowning, on the general who got rid of his wife's young lover by sending him on a one-way mission. On a number of others, too, some of whom admit their guilt and some of whom deny it, tho admission or denial of guilt are not much use when you suspect you are at the mercy of a madman.

It's a good idea, not always adroitly handled in theater terms, but mystery fans will find it reasonably absorbing and amusing. The plot is your secret to unravel, with Miss Christie's help, and our cast is pretty good as mystery plays go. I liked Robert Warwick best as the judge—the man has presence and a wry sense of comedy back of that impressive solidity. Philip Tonge, too, does a brisk job as the—but if I told you, it wouldn't be fair to the ancient and honorable league of whodunits, whose first pledge is not to give away any mystery play secrets, no matter if they are divulged in act one. If you want to know one more fact about "Ten Little Indians," hie thee to the Harris. It has a surprise ending—at any rate, it surprised me.

Miss Jessner Is Creditable as Desdemona

The role of Desdemona in Verdi's "Otello" is not one that every soprano carries around in her vanity case, so that when Rose Bampton's father died and that singer was unable to appear in last night's performance the management was not faced with an easy problem.

The choice fell upon Irene Jessner, a soprano who has been listed with the Metropolitan Opera since 1936, but who had not been heard here before. Miss Jessner cannot, in the nature of things, have had much experience in the part, and she is to be credited with saving a performance and with giving a creditable if not a definitive account of the role. Her voice is not of the most ingratiating quality, and nervousness may have accounted for some of its unsteadiness. Nor is she physically the ideal type for Desdemona. But her musicianship is secure, she knew her way thru the role, and the things that happened in a performance that had its ups and downs were not her fault.

Giovanni Martinelli and Lawrence Tibbett both started in better voice than at the first performance of "Otello," and both encountered difficulties in the second act, tho that portion of the work was brought to a rousing close with the great duet.

CHARITY TURF FUND NEARS $1,000,000 MARK

C.D.G.A. RAISES $17,172.89 FOR VETERANS' AID

Announces Its 1945 Victory Meets.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago Victory National Golf tournaments conducted by the Chicago District Golf association at Edgewater last summer produced a contribution of $17,172.89 for the recreational fund for wounded veterans of World War II. This was revealed yesterday with announcement of the official audit of the big show by Lowell D. Rutherford, president of the C. D. G. A.

L. D. Rutherford.

Rutherford announced that the Victory National events will be held again at a C. D. G. A. member club from June 27 thru July 1, 1945, and that the C. D. G. A. also is constructing a nine hole pitch and putt course south of the two putting greens installed at the Hines Veterans' hospital last spring. This course, measuring a total of 603 yards, will carry the following card: First hole, 75 yards; second, 56; third, 80; fourth, 63; fifth, 110; sixth, 51; seventh, 70; eighth, 52, and ninth, 46.

INCOME.
Ticket sales [less federal tax on admissions of $3,660.18]	$14,313.12

GABBY HARTNETT GETS BACK CAR, THANK YOU NOTE

Gabby Hartnett, former manager of the Cubs, yesterday had his car, stolen Wednesday, back again, together with an expression of the thief's appreciation.

The automobile was spotted by Policeman Herbert Coppersmith of Evanston parked in front of 514 Main st. in the suburb. On the front seat was a note. It read:

"Borrowed from the Stevens hotel. Please return, and also thank owner." It was signed: "Much obliged."

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Coach Charley Bachman of the Michigan State college football team is using what he calls an X-Z formation this year. . . . When asked to describe it he said, "O, you'd have to see it to understand it; sometimes I'm not sure I do myself." . . . Mainstay in the Spartans' offense has been Fred Aronson, a graduate of Chicago's Austin High school. . . . Aronson, a southpaw passer, has a talented receiver in Don Brondzik from Muskegon High. . . . Ed Somerville of Chicago scored a deuce on the Elmhurst country club's 325 yard second hole the other day. . . . The Jack Dempsey who died in Pueblo, Colo., last week fought Young Corbett in 1900 before the latter knocked out Terry McGovern to win the world featherweight championship. . . . This Dempsey was 80 years old when he died and is not to be confused with the old Nonpareil who died in 1895. . . . Alabama's football team is hoping for a Rose bowl invitation. . . . Tennessee's night game with Louisiana State in Baton Rouge Saturday will be the Vols' first after dark engagement in history. . . . Harry Grabiner, vice president of the White Sox, is an optimist. . . . He has made no efforts to line up a northern training camp for the south siders because he believes there will be no ban on long trips next spring. . . . Art Keller, a catcher who belonged to the St. Louis Browns, whose death in France was reported recently, was the first American league player killed in action in this war. . . . There is only one new rule in the National Hockey league code this year. . . . It has to do with "icing the puck." . . . If you know what "icing the puck" involves, we could explain the new rule in this space—but perhaps we'd better wait until we hear from you. . . .

There are some in the Big Nine who opine that after the war the conference will be reduced to the Big Seven or the Big Five with stadium capacity being one of several guides to the reorganization. . . . The world champion St. Louis Cardinals are said to have voted their traveling secretary, Leo Ward, only half a share of the world series purse. . . . Even the famous 1932 Cub tightwads gave their traveling secretary a full slice. . . . Steve Bagarus, who was Bob Saggau's understudy at Notre Dame, is starring with the San Diego Bombers. . . . George Mikan, De Paul university's 6 foot 9 inch basketball center, who was voted the most valuable player to appear in the Chicago Stadium's double headers last winter, will have to wait until Dec. 8 for the trophy emblematic of the honor. . . . Shortage of materials prevented officials from obtaining the award this week. . . . The Demons will make their double header debut the eighth on a program which also matches Illinois and Great Lakes. . . . The Notre Dame-Georgia Tech game in Atlanta Nov. 25 has been a sellout for weeks. . . .

Illness, the Teacher.

With vanity I, too, have walked,
Regardless of the place or day;
But illness brings a knowledge true
That common is my shell of clay.
With limitations I must live
And I this fact do not deride;
'Twas told me in a silent hour
When truth ruled out all futile pride.

With new-found sight I see the worth
Of simple things I oft' did scorn;
I note that beauty still abides
As I behold each hope-filled morn.
My heart I share with those distressed
And, doing this, I understand
That life means more than plans for self—
'Tis good to serve at love's command.

They call me just a mother,
And I'm proud to bear the name.
I may not make the headlines,
And I may not rise to fame.

And hard at times I know—
My life may seem a round of toil,
As seasons come and go.

But now when on the battlefronts,
The shot and shell are hurled,
When sturdy sons have left our homes
When from some far-off field of war
Comes news that breaks the heart,
I count my home a citadel,
Where I may play my part.

So tho my task seems rather small,
I'm proud that I can be,

ILLINOIS' GAME AT MICHIGAN TOPS SCHEDULE

4 Elevens Remain in Title Race.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

With Indiana university now definitely eliminated from the Western conference football race by Ohio State, the ultimate winner, or winners, must come from a quartet composed of Michigan, Illinois, Purdue, and the undefeated Buckeyes. The final three weeks thus are all-important but this Saturday's schedule does not concern Ohio State.

The Buckeyes meet Pittsburgh, a game that can be no more than a good workout, before Ohio State meets Illinois and Michigan in succession. The four star contest this week matches Illinois and Michigan in Ann Arbor and the vanquished will drop from the race. In event this game ends in a tie, it is likely both will be removed from competition.

On the evidence submitted last Saturday when Purdue's reconstructed varsity walloped Wisconsin, 35 to 0, the Boilermakers anticipate a victory this week at Northwestern despite the Wildcats' improved performance at Minnesota which yielded a 14 to 14 tie.

Illinois, Michigan Threats.

Ohio State naturally is the favorite by virtue of its perfect record climaxed by a decisive 21 to 7 triumph over the Hoosiers which also includes a victory over Great Lakes. Illinois and Michigan are the threats with the Wolverines having an advantage in number of games scheduled. Michigan plays seven games and if the Wolverines can finish with victories over Illinois, Wisconsin, and Ohio State they cannot be tied either by the Buckeyes or Purdue.

Michigan's 41 to 19 conquest of Pennsylvania Saturday afforded opportunity for observation of the back field, revamped after loss of Bob Wiese and Bob Nussbaumer. Ralph Chubb, who took over at right half back for Nussbaumer, surprised with effective work on reverses. Don Lund, of course, moved into the full back position where he had played for two years until this campaign when Wiese was given more service since it was known he would be lost by navy assignment.

Lund Proves Value.

Lund is invaluable as a team player and, in particular, on defense. Substituted for the center on defense, he was assigned a half back spot and his accurate tackling checked many runs. It is unlikely that Michigan could have beaten the Iowa Seahawks, 12 to 7, in the opening game if Lund had not been at defensive half back for he halted Seahawk runners and twice, in the final quarter, broke up forward passes that threatened the Wolverines' one touchdown lead.

Gene Derricotte, Michigan's speedy left half who will match strides with Illinois' Buddy Young Saturday, continues to be first choice at this position and the Wolverine backfield is completed by Joe Ponsetto, who has been regular quarter back since the opening of the campaign.

Indiana Title Bid Collapses.

Michigan's only defeat was administered by Indiana and the Hoosiers' 20 to 0 victory shifted the spotlight from the Wolverines. Indiana's title bid collapsed last week and in the meantime, Michigan apparently has produced a hard, charging line which is the basis for recent successes.

After the loss to Indiana, Michigan defeated Minnesota, 28 to 13, ran over Northwestern, 27 to 0, and played its best game of the year to trounce Purdue, 40 to 14.

EMICK ENTRY FINISHING 1-2 AT SPORTSMAN'S

Three Clovers and Quarter Back, the G. H. Emick entry, and the 1-2 favorites, finishing 1-2 in the sixth race at Sportsman's Park yesterday.

Chilling breezes were ignored by 7,181 turf fans who turned out yesterday at Sportsman's Park for the opening day card of the Tribune week of charity racing. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

SPORTSMAN'S TRIBUNE CARD MAY PASS GOAL

Chicago Season to Close Saturday.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Chicago race goers continue their drive today to swell the city's welfare coffers to a new all-time high as the Chicago Tribune Charities' week of racing at Sportsman's Park goes into its second day.

This has been the greatest of all racing seasons in the Metropolitan area, a season which with the close of the regular 16 day fall meeting at the Cicero track last Saturday had seen $139,853,988 wagered during 162 afternoons at Washington Park, where the Arlington Park dates also were filled, Hawthorne, Lincoln Fields, Sportsman's, and THE TRIBUNE'S five big days during the summer at Washington Park.

May Realize $1,000,000.

During that period the contributions to charitable organizations amounted to approximately $820,000 and with five days remaining the chances are good that service and welfare funds will realize $1,000,000 from the sport in Illinois this year.

The latest contribution was made by the National Jockey club, operators of Sportsman's Park and agents for the present charity meeting. President John L. Keeshin announced yesterday that approximately $80,000 had been raised Friday and Saturday for the National Jockey club welfare fund for distribution among the C. Y. O., Back of the Yards fund, Passavant hospital, the Associated Talmud Torah, Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children, Chicago Service Men's Centers and La Rabida Jackson Park sanitarium.

7,181 Attend Program.

Despite chilling breezes a crowd of 7,181 turned out for yesterday's eight race program and saw Mrs. G. H. Emick's entry of Three Clovers and Quarterback finish one-two in the $1,800 Moline purse, the featured sixth race at a mile and one-eighth.

Three Clovers, a 7 year old gelding, ridden by Willie Hawksworth, and Quarterback, 6 year old son of Quatre Bras II., with Jerry Zubrinic in the saddle, finished heads apart after overtaking Meminisse, the early pacesetter, as they hit the far turn the last time around.

Code Mentor, ridden by Bruno Pucci, finished third in a field of six. The winning entry went postward at prohibitive odds of 1 to 2 and paid $3.20, $2.60, and $2.20. Code Mentor returned $2.60 to show.

$13.80 Daily Double.

The daily double was a far cry from Saturday's $2,489 payoff as favorites, both ridden by Jack Jessop, took the first and second races, and the return was only $13.80. Liberty Flight won the opener and paid $4.20, while Uncle Mose scored in the second at $4.60 for a $2 ticket.

Today is ladies' day, and Racing Secretary Pat Galliger has arranged a first class program of five sprints and three distance affairs, topped by an $1,800 allowance race for 3 year olds which has drawn 16 nominations.

AUSTIN-TILDEN, FENGER-LANE IN PREP PLAY-OFFS

Fenger High school's undefeated Titans from the south section will oppose Lane Tech's once tied north division champions Saturday at 2 p. m. in Soldiers' field while Tilden Tech, champion of the central section in the City league, meets Austin, west section champion, in Shewbridge field at the same hour. The games are the league's semi-final play-offs to determine who is to oppose the Catholic league champion in the Kelly bowl game on Dec. 2.

Arrangements for the semi-finals were completed yesterday morning in the office of August H. Pritzlaff, athletic director of the board of education. Pritzlaff met with representatives of the four schools, including Coaches William Helland of Austin, Charles Harvey of Tilden, and Bob Koehler of Lane. Chuck Palmer, Fenger coach, was absent, attending a funeral in Indiana.

Pick Officials.

Bill McHugh, Ike Craig, and Stewart Le Gault were chosen as officials for the Fenger-Lane game, while Howard Groeninger, Charles Smidl, and Larry Applehans will work the Austin-Tilden contest.

Next Monday morning representatives of the two winning schools will meet in Pritzlaff's office to agree on officials and details for the City league championship game, to be played Saturday, Nov. 18.

Winner Goes to Kelly Game.

The winner of the league championship will oppose either the Fenwick Friars or Weber's Red Horde, who will meet Sunday, Nov. 19, for the Catholic league championship. Weber clinched the south section title of the Catholic league Sunday by defeating Joliet Catholic, 31 to 13, while Fenwick gained the north section Catholic title the same day, beating St. Philip, 20 to 0.

Happy Bears Laud Hunk for 21-0 Victory

BY EDWARD PRELL.

In the hours of post-mortems after their smashing 21 to 0 rout of the Green Bay Packers, the Bears seemed to get most satisfaction in talking about how their own Hunk Anderson outsmarted the ex-Bear, George Trafton, in a battle of enemy lines.

Trafton, joining the Packers this season as line coach, has been widely credited for the excellence of the 1944 team. Big George, who was a bruising player among bruisers in the early days of the National league, had transferred his own aggressiveness to his large, experienced charges.

But in Sunday's test, Mr. Anderson's forwards outblocked, outcharged, and outhearted Trafton's burly young men. In the happy session after the games Anderson was showered with congratulations.

Bears Play Like Champs.

"All week long," said Hunk, "we kept repeating to our boys that the Bears still are the world champions. We were the champions—not the Packers. And I guess all those people who saw the game will agree that the Bears played like champs."

"What brought Curly Lambeau down on the Packer bench in the second half?" some one asked. The Green Bay head coach has been taking a perch in the stands this season, phoning instructions to Trafton and Don Hutson on the bench.

"What brought him down?" some one repeated. "That's easy — the Bears!"

Packers to Meet Giants.

In the excitement of victory, some of the Bears suggested there's still a chance to win out over the Packers for the western championship, tho admitting it's a long shot. The New York Giants are prepared for the Packers' invasion of the Polo Grounds on Nov. 19. Two ex-Packers are with the Giants—Arnie Herber, the old passer, and Red Smith, line coach who was at Green Bay for several seasons. Sunday the Packers play the Rams in Cleveland. The Rams now have lost three straight after having won three in a row. The Packers end their season in Comiskey park on Nov. 26 against the Card-Pitts, who have lost six stright in the league.

The league's newest eleven, the Boston Yanks, come to Wrigley field Sunday and this game will wind up the Bears' home stay. On Nov. 19 they will play the Lions in Detroit; on Nov. 26 they will be in Philadelphia for a shot at the unbeaten Eagles, and on Dec. 3 play Card-Pitt in Pittsburgh.

BOWLERS! ONLY ONE WEEK LEFT TO ENTER MEET

With a little more than a week left in which to qualify, bowlers are beginning to find the alleys at the five Chicagoland establishments where eliminations are being conducted for the national individual match game tenpin championship tournament. The entire program of eliminations and finals, which will open in the Auditorium service men's center Saturday, Dec. 2, is under the sponsorship of the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America and Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Newcomer Rolls 663.

Perhaps the most noticeable shakeup was at Garden Recreation where five changes have been made among the eight leaders since Friday. Leading the list is Lew LaBant who, shooting again, improved from a 567 to a hefty 673, good for second place. Others are Ray Burdin, Carl Winterburg, Earl Stenson, and Otto Nygaard.

At Cascade Johnny Small shot once more and hopped from 627 up to 642 and a newcomer, S. Lorenat turned in a 663, good for fourth. N. E. Bibow rolled a 633 at Bowling Lanes, dropping Frankie Kartheiser off the bottom, and at Park Manor F. Gaskey and Ralph Edwards scored 633 and 630 respectively to crowd in among the leaders. At Rose Bowl Millard Watson came up with a gigantic 694, surpassed there only by Carmen Larocca's 704. Jim Southern tried again and improved from 616 to 632, while Art Gerdes shot a 619.

It's Open to Every One.

Anyone may compete in the event by payment of the $2 for each three game series and may bowl as many times as he wishes. Following are the establishments, addresses, and eight leaders, the top eight at the end of the qualifying to engage in a match round robin to determine the house winner:

Lane Injuries May Postpone Savold Bout

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Doctors will decide today whether or not Larry Lane, Trenton, N. J., heavyweight, will be able to go thru with a scheduled 10 round bout against Lee Savold in the Coliseum tomorrow night.

When Lane failed to appear for his final boxing session in Catholic Youth organization center gymnasium yesterday inquiry revealed he was unable to work out because he had suffered a pulled leg tendon in a drill on Saturday.

If the injury does not respond to treatment, the match will have to be postponed, Dr. Mitchell Corbett indicated last night.

Willie Gilzenberg, Lane's manager, said he will not permit his protege to box if he isn't physically fit.

Johnny Eaton, Detroit, vs. Tommy Brush, Cleveland [6], 147.

Johnny Flanagan vs. Clarence Brown [6], heavyweights.

Kearns said the advance sale was $10,000.

Promoter Irving Schoenwald and Jack Begun yesterday announced their second show of the indoor season in Chicago Stadium Nov. 24. Six encounters of eight rounds are on the card:

Lou Angeluci vs. Collins Brown, 163.

MINNESOTA TIE GIVES N. U. FIRST CHANCE TO CHEER

Open Drills for Purdue Game Saturday.

Northwestern's football team yesterday began preparations for Saturday's game with Purdue in Dyche stadium with a newly found optimism. The reason, of course, is the all-around improvement displayed in last Saturday's 14 to 14 tie with Minnesota.

"We're considerably encouraged over the offensive play and general development of the team," Coach Lynn Waldorf said yesterday. "It all adds up to the feeling that we are gradually overcoming the inexperience that hampered our performance in the early games."

Much of Northwestern's happiness stems from the brilliant ball carrying of Hank Altepeter, who rolled up 144 yards in 18 attempts for an 8 yard average against the Gophers. It wasn't until the Indiana game two weeks ago that Altepeter got his chance as a regular when injuries sidelined Dick Conners and Larry Savage, generally rated as the first and second string right halfs.

Funderburg Stars on Defense.

Bob Funderburg, full back also turned in his best offensive performance of the season when he gained 47 yards in 14 attempts. The newly installed T formation which the Wildcats used against Minnesota also has provided Quarter Back Red Clawson with an opportunity to try his skill as a ball carrier. Used only in a blocking role in previous games, Clawson rolled up 41 yards against the Gophers in six attempts.

Northwestern emerged from the game in good physical condition and will be at full strength. Duane Sickels, who was bothered by an old leg injury, is expected to be fully recovered. Gene Justak, guard, who did not make the trip because of an attack of the flu probably will rejoin the squad in a day or two.

PURDUE SEEKS QUARTER BACK.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 6 [Special].—A successor for Ray Schultz at quarter back provided the big problem for Purdue's coaching staff this afternoon as they started preparations for the Northwestern game in Evanston Saturday.

Schultz, star passer and field strategist, wound up his collegiate career last week when the reorganized Boilermakers scored their surprisingly decisive victory over Wisconsin. He has entered a navy midshipman school. Schultz is the eighth V-12 man on the squad to be detached in the last week and the Boilermakers may have only Boris [Babe] Dimancheff available from the back field quartet which started the season.

BOWLING LANES LADIES PACED BY LUSTRE TEAM

SPENCER LOSES TO TEANEY IN MARIGOLD RING

Harry Teaney, Cleveland lightweight, outpointed Gene Spencer of South Chicago in an eight round bout in Marigold Gardens last night before a crowd of 1,308.

In a fast semi-final match, Ace Miller of Los Angeles scored a six round decision over Dave Bruce of Fort Wayne, Ind., Charley Polk of Chicago won by a technical knockout over Ray Standifer of Cleveland in the fifth round.

Harrison High Seeks Game for Nov. 11 or 18

SYZMANSKI, BACK AT NOTRE DAME, TO PLAY CENTER

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 6 [Special].—Frank Szymanski, who shared the regular center duties on Notre Dame's national championship team last year with Herb Coleman, today returned to school and registered for the semester which opened this morning. He was granted a medical discharge by the navy last week from St. Mary's Pre-Flight school.

Coach Ed McKeever indicated that Szymanski will start at center Saturday against Army in New York. He was rated the best defensive center on the squad in 1942 and 1943, and his return to action is expected to strengthen the line, which was badly mauled by the Navy in Saturday's 32 to 13 defeat.

ARMY BACKS READY.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 6 (AP).—Army's gridders went thru a scrimmage today as they started practice for the Notre Dame game in New York on Saturday. Bobby Dobbs and Doc Blanchard, kept out of the Villanova game to rest minor injuries, were pronounced able to play.

BADGERS LOSE GIRARD.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 6 [Special].—Earl [Jug] Girard, Wisconsin triple threat freshman half back, undoubtedly will be lost to the Badgers when they face the University of Iowa here Saturday. The sensational youngster suffered a knee injury in the Purdue game last Saturday and is now in the hospital with chances of his playing against the Hawkeyes very slim.

With Girard out of the lineup, Wisconsin's hopes for victory are only fair. Coach Harry Stuhldreher will groom John Fee for the left half back spot and may also send T. A. Cox to full back in place of little Jerry Thompson in the hope of bolstering the Wisconsin ground and pass defense.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ontario, Nov. 6.—Edward John [Teddy] Swain, 20, Toronto bantamweight boxer, admitted in County court here today that he had been paid $225 last Feb. 28 to take a dive during a bout with Johnny Rizzo in Massey hall. Swain also testified that he had told Lionel Conacher, chairman of the Ontario athletic commission, subsequently "that $300 looked like a lot of money." The boxer is a key witness at the trial of Ossie Bobkin, Lou Appleby, and Max Kadin, charged with conspiracy to defraud the public by faking the boxing bout. Betting odds for the bout were two to one on Swain.

Good Crop of Pheasants in North Illinois

Good Hunting?

HUNTERS were lined up four abreast for half a block yesterday morning waiting to buy shells on sale at a sporting goods store at 9 N. Wabash av. The manager said 450 boxes, each containing 25 shells, were sold between 9 a. m. and noon, when the sale was halted for the day. Tho declining to say how many shells the store received, he said they probably would be sold out this week. They will be available only from 9 a. m. to noon each day.

BY BOB BECKER.

Altho we have been able to look at only a small part of the northern Illinois pheasant country because our car won't run on charcoal gas or furnace oil, the area we have seen holds a promise of pretty good pheasant hunting next Saturday when the 1944 season opens up. The number of birds observed from roads surprised us. Near one road intersection in Lake county we saw seven or eight ringnecks cross the highway in front of us. Others boldly strutted around in stubble fields, a practice that will change about five minutes after the season opens Saturday.

Oldtimer Works Perfectly.

Our muzzle loader is working perfectly, we have a fresh pound of black powder, and 10 pounds of number six shot; Huntstone Felicia, our blue Belton setter, is better than ever and our Labrador is rarin' to hunt, so we're all ready for the ringnecks. Last week we visited a licensed shooting preserve in order to rehearse the muzzle loader and dogs and after we had missed a couple of birds with the old "oompah" gun we got in the groove and dropped our birds with it.

Despite the smoke, noise, and heavy odor from the powder, the dogs stood their ground, so we shall again proceed with the muzzle loader next Saturday when we hunt regular open territory for two cock pheasants, the daily bag limit.

Misses First Two Shots.

When we missed the first two shots during the rehearsal, our hunting partner, Lyman Barr, Highland Park, Ill., remarked we were behind our birds. And we certainly were because swinging our muzzle loader is like wielding a piece of heavy gaspipe compared to a light 20 gauge.

If any reader has a good way to clean a muzzle loader that saves time, we wish he'd write us. We enjoy shooting the old block buster for it will kill birds darned near a country mile away, and, more important, it saves shells, but cleaning out an ounce or two of carbon in the barrels is a job.

INTERNATIONAL SPORTS URGED BY STUHLDREHER

A proposal that the United States take steps to organize an international sports program as a means of eliminating wars of the future was made by Coach Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin yesterday at the weekly luncheon session of the Wailing Wall in the La Salle hotel.

Stuhldreher asserted that if European countries had followed the policy of the United States and fought their battles on Saturday afternoons on athletic fields the world wouldn't be in its present chaotic condition.

Cecil Isbell, Purdue's head coach, gave a short talk in which he reviewed highlights of the 35 to 0 victory over Wisconsin last Saturday and praised Boris Dimancheff of the Boilermakers as one of the really fine backs in the nation. Stuhldreher served as commentator for movies of the game.

LAYDEN HAS SAME PLAN

Elmer Layden, president of the National Football league, yesterday urged a campaign to substitute a physical training program with a backbone of competitive sports for the proposed compulsory military training suggestion in the post-war era.

Speaking at the Monday Quarter Back club luncheon in the Morrison hotel, Layden said cumpulsory military training would be of little or no value in the matter of keeping America prepared for all eventualities.

QUALIFICATIONS FOR MAN HIRING VETS OUTLINED

Understanding, Job Surveys Urged.

Human understanding and a complete knowledge of the physical and mental job requirements of a given plant are the qualifications needed by the person who employs returning war veterans, James I. Onarheim, employment manager of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company of Milwaukee, Wis., said yesterday.

"The first thing we did was hire a 52 year old man who had 10 years' army experience and an appreciative attitude toward the service man who comes back to take his place in civilian life," Onarheim told Advertising Men's post No. 38 of the American Legion in the Hotel Sherman in a review of his company's experience with reëmployment of veterans.

"The next thing we did was make a job survey so we would know what physical strength and mental skill each job in our plant required.

Know How Job Will Fit.

"In that way we know what each job amounts to and how it will suit the returning veteran. We also know whether it is safe for him and for others near him. We also know whether it is up to the level of the new skill or training he acquired in service."

Recalling that Allis-Chalmers already had placed more than 500 discharged veterans and that only five had presented any kind of an adjustment problem, Onarheim criticized the overemphasis some persons placed on the need for reorientating service men to civilian life. He said the veterans his company had employed were doing a good production job and a good morale job.

Every veteran is given a physical examination when hired, he said, and then placed where his capabilities are best suited. He told of a young soldier whose stomach was injured so that he could not eat full meals at the regular times. He was given a job in the tool room where he could eat every two hours, Onarheim said.

Wishes to Avoid Sympathy.

Another, who lost a leg, did not want to return to his former department because he wished to avoid the sympathy and pity of his former fellow employes. He was transferred to another part of the plant.

Onarheim said a similar procedure was adopted for the mentally handicapped. One such youth was not returned to his job on a crane, but given manual labor in a quiet section of the factory. Two others were sent away for six month rests.

The company has discovered that a large number of the men who served in the Southwest Pacific contracted some tropical disease in varying degrees, and has set up a program thru which the ailments are kept under close check when they recur, Onarheim said.

He estimated that half the returning veterans will want their old jobs, and that others will want different ones.

Injury to War Workers Cost Big Time Loss

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6.—American industry lost 56,800,000 man days in 1943 thru disabling injuries to workers, the office of war information reported today. Data furnished by the department of labor, war production board, and the war man power commission disclosed a heavy loss of production time in important war industries because of work accidents and illness.

The time loss emphasized the necessity of increased safety and health protection measures to utilize scarce man power to the fullest extent, said the OWI. The survey covered 10 typical war industries.

Disabling Injuries 4 Pct.

In the manufacturing field, 20 workers out of each 500 suffered disabling injuries last year. The bureau of labor statistics considers a disabling injury one which causes the loss of one full day or more of the productive capacity of a workman.

Six of the 10 important war industries studied had better records than the 20 out of 500 workers injured average of all industry, the OWI said. Tank construction had an average of 12.2 workers injured per each 500 in 1943, and heavy ammunition's average was 19 per 500. On the other hand, the injury frequency rate for logging was 82.2; miscellaneous lumber products was 37.1; shipbuilding and repair was 31.5, and canning and preserving reached 25.3.

Tank Industry Loss Light.

Only the tank industry had a work loss less than one day for each worker, while at the other extreme, more than 29 days were lost for each employe in the logging industry. The basic causes of high injury were found to be lack of proper safety training, lack of adequate supervision, and lack of suitable and effective mechanical guards. In general, accidents usually were traced to unsafe working conditions and individual carelessness, the OWI said.

AUTUMN SUPPLY OF SOFT COAL IS REPORTED SHORT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6 (AP).—Stocks of bituminous coal as the heating season got under way were "millions of tons" below levels of the two preceding war years, the solid fuels administration reported today. Consumers' supplies on Oct. 1 totaled 64,905,000 tons, compared with 72,866,000 a year ago and 87,311,000 in 1942.

An average of 43 days' supply was on hand at the start of October, unchanged from Sept. 1. In two critical southern Appalachian mining districts—7 and 8 in Virginia, West Virginia, eastern Kentucky, and part of Tennessee—production of soft coal amounted to 103,256,000 tons from April 1 to Oct. 21, 78,000 tons less than a year ago.

Bituminous coal production in all mining districts the week ended Oct. 28 was 12,150,000 tons, compared with 11,800,000 tons the preceding week. Anthracite output was about 1,319,000 tons, against 1,285,000 the week before.

STRIKERS BACK; END ARMY RULE OF OHIO PLANTS

Toledo, O., Nov. 6 (AP).—Possession and operation of eight Toledo war plants by the war department stopped tonight following the end of a strike that affected 25 Toledo plants and a score more in the Detroit area.

Col. Philip R. Faymonville, designated to carry out provisions of the Presidential order for seizure, announced that the plants were restored to private ownership at 8 p. m. He said full production was resumed this morning and the army "has been given assurance by all interested labor organizations that their members will remain on the job."

He did not disclose terms for settlement of the dispute, which started Oct. 24 over discharge of six men in the Electric Auto-Lite company plant.

A special offering of 7,500 capital shares of Swift International, Argentine subsidiary of Swift & Co., at 31 with a commission of 70 cents was made yesterday by Shields & Co. The offering was oversubscribed and allotments were made.

Allen & Co. headed a group which offered 13,000 shares of Foremost Dairies, Inc., $50 par 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock and 75,000 shares of common stock. The preferred was priced at 50 and the common at 7. The stock was sold for the account of two stockholders.

NORTH WESTERN ROAD GIVES STREAMLINERS STREAMLINED SCRUBS

Streamlined scrubs for the North Western railway's fleet of streamliners have been effected thru the installation of a portable mechanical car washer in the line's servicing yard near Keeler av. and Kinzie st., R. L. Williams, president, said yesterday.

The device washes an 18-car train in about 22 minutes. It is constructed in the form of a steel arch and is lined with a series of revolving brushes which, with the help of a fine spray of water, scrub the train as it passes thru the arch.

Costing approximately $7,500, the washer may be moved to any of the four tracks in the yard.

42 BILLIONS OF BONDS CAN BE SOLD BEFORE U. S. HITS DEBT LIMIT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6 (AP).—The United States can sell securities with a face value of about 42 billion dollars before reaching the debt limit of 260 billions, the treasury said today. Total gross public debt, including guaranteed obligations, is a little less than 212 billion dollars, of which about 209 billions are obligations subject to the statutory debt limit.

The 260 billion limit, however, is on face value, that is, the amount the government would have to repay if all securities were held until maturity date. In terms of face value, the 209 billion debt becomes 218 billion, or 42 billion short of the limit set by congress.

RESUME LIMITED MAIL SERVICES TO SWITZERLAND

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6 (AP).—Postmaster General Walker announced tonight that limited mail service with Switzerland will be resumed tomorrow. This service was discontinued a year and a half ago. Postcards and letters weighing not more than one ounce will be accepted for delivery to civilians in Switzerland. The postage rate is 5 cents for a letter and 3 cents for a postcard. Registration, money order, air mail, and parcel post services are not available.

The foreign economic administration announced that noncommercial packages may be sent by parcel post to Rome, Vatican City, Naples, and Palermo, Italy. One package a month will be allowed per person and will be limited in value to $25, in weight to four pounds. It may include food, clothing, medicinals, and other necessities.

NATIONAL INDEX OF INCOME DIPS FROM NEW PEAK

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8 (AP).—The department of commerce index of total income payments to individuals dropped to 232.1 in September after an all-time peak of 233.7 in August.

The index was adjusted to allow for seasonal changes. Actual income payments increased from 12 billion 605 million dollars in August to 13 billion 659 million in September, because of customary September payments of interest and dividends. That advance, however, was not up to the usual seasonal rise. Agricultural income and factory pay rolls contributed most heavily to the decline.

Tell Customer What He's Getting, Coal Dealers Told

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6 (AP).—Coal dealers, beginning Nov. 11, must give their customers full information about the coal they buy. An invoice, sales slip, or receipt must be given each purchaser, the OPA ruled today. It said the idea is "to aid in enforcement of ceiling prices."

Steel Output Estimated at 96.3 Pct. of Capacity

New York, Nov. 6 (AP).—Steel operations this week will be at the rate of 96.3 per cent of capacity with production at 1,732,400 net tons, the American Iron and Steel institute estimated today. Last week the rate was 94.9, a month ago 96.9, and a year ago 98.2 per cent.

Ford Develops Bomb Motor for Army Test

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 6 [Special].—Details of a hurry-up job by Ford Motor company engineers in designing and producing a jet propulsion engine which is powering reproductions of the German V-1 robot bomb for testing by army air forces were disclosed by the company today.

The successful operation of the first Ford built robot bomb propulsion engine came only three weeks after Col. D. J. Keirn, chief of the power plant laboratory at Wright field, Dayton, O., asked Ray R. Rausch, Ford general superintendent, if the company was interested in building a robot bomb. The company agreed to work on a jet propulsion engine, but not the entire bomb.

Early Experience Valued.

The same day, Aug. 9, Ford engineers went to Wright field where army officials told them the company's work in the World war on robot bombs would be invaluable in rushing thru the reconstruction design, production engineering, and production of jet-propulsion engines.

No specifications were available on the engine to be built, only an allied command report describing the apparent construction details of unexploded Nazi robot engines. Ford engineers had only a photograph clipped from a popular picture magazine showing the robot bomb in flight over England.

Inspect Bomb Parts.

The engine parts, all badly damaged, were studied and their metals analyzed. Drawings were made and rushed to the Ford plant, where strictest secrecy was observed. Trusted production men worked in widely scattered parts of the plants to complete the scores of precision parts needed for the engine.

FRENCH BONDS SOLD TO REDUCE CURRENCY USE

PARIS, Nov. 6 (AP).—The government's new bond issue designed to reduce the excessive amount of currency in circulation went on public sale today in the Paris area with what were described as excellent results.

Finance Minister Jean Leperc in a nation-wide broadcast appealed to Frenchmen to participate in their country's "financial liberation" from inflation by subscribing to the bonds and warned that compulsory measures would be necessary if money circulation is not sufficiently curtailed.

SHORTS COVER, LIFT PRICES OF GRAIN FUTURES

Even Commitments Before Election.

General short covering to even up commitments in the grain market for the election holiday lifted prices yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Buying of July and September wheat was aggressive and the new crop months led the advance, closing 1¾ cents higher. The near-by months were ½ to ⅝ cent higher. Rye gained 1⅜ to 1½ cents, corn ¾ to 1⅛ cents, oats ½ to 1 cent, and barley ⅝ to ⅝ cent.

Houses with eastern connections led the buying of July wheat. There was nothing in week-end news to account for the wheat upturn and brokers said the bulk of the support came from traders who sold futures sometime ago. The May-July spread narrowed to 11⅝ cents at the close, compared with 13 cents at one time last week. Rain was reported needed for winter wheat in parts of Illinois where germination was lacking in late seeded grain.

Little Corn Offered.

Corn showed a firm undertone from the start and country grain dealers were reported reluctant to sell much cash corn for deferred shipment owing to the large number of unfilled contracts for November shipment. Receipts aggregated 481 cars, or about 800,000 bushels, the largest single day's receipts so far this crop year.

Light rains fell in Illinois and Iowa over the week-end, but harvesting is reported in rapid progress in Illinois with picking completed by many farmers. Lack of freight cars was restricting the movement of corn to terminal markets.

Announcement of a government loan on the 1944 corn crop is expected to be made within a few days with the national average about 98 cents, or 6 cents higher than last year.

Rye Offerings Light.

A commission house that frequently acts for a northwestern cash grain firm was a heavy buyer of May rye and reported offerings relatively light. Some stop loss orders were uncovered on the way up with professional traders selling on the advance. December rye went to 2⅜ cents over December corn, compared with a discount of ⅝ cent two weeks ago.

188 RANDOLPH'S REORGANIZATION PLAN MODIFIED

Federal District Judge Holly yesterday approved a modified plan of reorganization for the 188 Randolph Building corporation, owner of the 45 story building at the northeast corner of Randolph and Wells sts.

Proposed by Ben Gold, successor trustee, the plan called for the creation of a trust to liquidate the property and issue 35,000 units of beneficial interest, without par value, to holders of 3½ million dollars of unsubordinated series A bonds. No participation was accorded other creditors or stockholders, including holders of $600,000 series B bonds and $500,000 junior bonds.

Joseph Z. Willner, attorney for the corporation, said delinquent taxes of $1,100,000 from 1928 thru 1942 had been settled for $370,000 and that 1943 taxes had been paid. A $300,000 first mortgage 4 per cent loan was obtained for tax payments.

12 BILLION IN REFUNDS ASKED ON CORPORATE EXCESS PROFIT TAXES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6 (AP).—Corporations are asking for refunds totalling about 12 billion dollars in excess profits taxes, the bureau of internal revenue estimated today.

Commissioner Joseph D. Nunan Jr. said this vast amount was involved in applications already filed or in preparation under section 722 of the internal revenue code, in which congress provided a method of relief in cases where the tax is unfair.

"We have trained a large and competent staff of accounting, economic, and legal experts to examine these applications so that they may be judged as fairly and carefully as possible," Nunan said.

Rise Ahead for COPPER STOCKS?

ARE copper stocks in a buying range? Most issues in this deflated group have fluctuated in a narrow range for the past three years, depressed by fears of an over-supply of metal at the War's end. Do indicated record peacetime demand for copper and the Government plan for holding excess supplies off the market justify substantially higher prices for copper stocks now selling to yield 7% to 8%?

Hogs Rise on Lower Volume; Average Price Advances 25c

A substantial advance in prices occurred on hog markets yesterday as farmers cut shipments to packing centers thruout the country. Arrivals at the Chicago stock yards were only 19,000 head, including shipments direct to packers, a reduction of 35 per cent from a week earlier, and of 58 per cent from the corresponding 1943 day.

Receipts of hogs were smallest for a November Monday since 1939. The 20 largest markets received 109,000 head, against 148,000 Monday of last week, and 187,000 a year ago. Trade members said the abnormally low supply was caused by last week's severe price break and the fact that farmers were staying home to go to the polls today.

Price Advance Is Uneven.

The price advance was uneven because the $14 a hundred pounds heavy hog ceiling blocked price gains by some stock weighing more than 270 pounds that sold at the price limit late last week. Some hogs just over 270 pounds and up to 300 pounds were steady at last week's close, but gains of 25 to 35 cents were general for those weighing 270 pounds or less.

The three largest packers, Swift, Armour, and Wilson, after a lull in midsession, led a buying move that advanced the average price to $14.25, 25 cents above last week's close and highest since Monday of last week. This average was 45 cents above last Wednesday and 35 cents higher than on the corresponding 1943 day. The three large packers scoured the yards for volume late in the day, paying the $14.40 top price freely on final rounds for selected 190 to 250 pound stock.

Cattle Receipts Decrease.

Cattle receipts dropped to 16,000 head, the smallest for a Monday in seven weeks. Twenty markets handled 121,000 head, 53,000 fewer than a week earlier and 36,000 fewer than a year ago. Steady to strong prices were paid for most steers, but trading was not as lively as in the hog market. Top steers sold at $18.35 and the bulk at $14.50 to $17.75. Sheep and lambs again were steady. The $14.40 top price was paid for natives.

WFA Seeks Bids on 225 Cars of Eggs

The war food administration announced yesterday that it is asking bids from commercial egg buyers on 132,859 cases, equal to 225 cars, of shell eggs purchased last winter and spring to maintain support prices. As the reason for the sale WFA gave current light production.

Invitations to bid have been mailed to prospective buyers. Bids must be made by Thursday and eggs will be released from storage on Nov. 18.

Trade sources expressed apprehension that the action may be the first move toward returning large government holdings to the market, despite WFA promises of "no dumping." Government holdings of shell eggs on Oct. 1 were 1,407,000 cases, most of which were bought to support prices earlier this year when supplies were largest in history.

Although the announcement was not made until after the market closed, rumors of the prospective sale sent December shell egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange down ½ cent a dozen to the lowest price in nearly three weeks. Part of the loss was recovered later and the December contract closed at 36.70 cents, down 0.30 cent. October futures closed 0.25 cent lower at 33.50 cents.

SUES TO UPSET WMC CEILINGS ON EMPLOYES

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 6 (AP).—Industrial Marine and Engineering company of San Francisco, in a suit filed in federal District court today, asked that the war man power commission be restrained from applying ceilings on the number of employes a plant may have.

The company asked for an injunction and $500,000 damages from the WMC labor-management committee for northern California.

The suit charged that the war powers' acts of congress and Presidential directives issued under them at no time gave the WMC legal and constitutional authority to keep men from working by establishing such ceilings.

STOCKS HIGHER ON ANTICIPATED POST-VOTE GAIN

Low Priced Issues Are Active.

New York, Nov. 6 (AP).—Advances were well distributed in today's stock market altho rails and utilities lagged and many industrials did little.

Some bidding was based on the belief prices will hold or rise moderately if Roosevelt is reëlected and that a victory for Dewey may touch off a temporary rally. It was recalled that the market usually has advanced following past Presidential elections.

Many Remain Cautious.

Other customers remained cautious and either lightened accounts or stood aside to await the results of tomorrow's balloting. War and international news were minor factors in influencing trends.

The market was uneven and dealings slow in the forenoon. Low-quoted issues, such as United corporation which came out in blocks of as much as 10,000 shares and Commonwealth and Southern, helped volume and activity elsewhere picked up in the final hour. Widest gains were reduced in many instances at the close.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was up 0.1 at 55.4. Of 890 issues traded, 385 advanced, 294 declined, and 211 were unchanged. Transfers were 866,230 shares compared with 730,340 Friday.

BOND MARKET STEADY.

New York, Nov. 6 (AP).—Small gains and losses were about evenly divided in a quiet and featureless bond market today. Rails, industrials, and utilities in the Associated Press averages ended unchanged, the 10 foreign bonds advanced a small fraction and the 10 low-yields declined slightly. Sales were $6,122,300, compared with $8,203,000 Friday.

CHICAGO SHARES HIGHER.

Prices were higher in turnover of 30,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Most heavily traded were Armour and Libby, each up ¼; Chicago corporation and Domestic Industries, each off ⅛, and Commonwealth Edison, unchanged. Four 1944 highs were set.

DECIDE TO KEEP CLOSER TAB ON STOCK DEALERS

New York, Nov. 6 (AP).—The New York Stock exchange decided today, partly at the suggestion of the securities and exchange commission, to keep closer tab on the market activities of its members.

Apart from brokerage house buying or selling for customers among the general public, such dealings normally average about 18 per cent of total transactions, an exchange source said.

All such deals henceforth must be tabulated chronologically, and reported once a week to the exchange, which will make the information available to the SEC. The decision of the exchange was termed "supplemental" to the specific inquiry made into business on two days late in October and an earlier checkup.

APPROVES ALTON PROGRAM TO BUY 3 DIESEL ENGINES

Federal District Judge Barnes yesterday approved the plan of Henry A. Gardner, trustee of the Alton railroad to purchase three diesel electric locomotives costing approximately $350,000 each. The diesels will be bought from General Motors corporation and will be used in passenger service between Chicago and St. Louis.

SUPREME COURT BACKS CONGRESS RULE OF CLAIMS

Rejects Opinion Judicial Toes Were Stepped On.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6 (AP).—A complaint by the Court of Claims that congress dictated to it and stepped on its judicial toes failed to enlist any sympathy from the Supreme court today.

By an 8 to 0 vote, the high tribunal reversed the lower court's refusal to consider a damage suit in compliance with a special congressional act. The Court of Claims had protested that the act encroached upon its judicial rights.

The dispute stemmed back 17 years when a contractor, Allen Pope, sued the government for $306,000 damages for breach of contract on a tunnel excavation job in the District of Columbia.

Pope was awarded $45,174 in that suit. Then, two years ago, congress passed a special act directing the court to hear the suit again, regardless of its previous decision and to award a judgment in line with certain specifications in the act.

Suit Is Renewed.

Pope renewed his suit, this time for $162,102, but the Court of Claims balked at hearing it, contending that congress could not "effectively direct" it to decide the case again or give Pope a judgment determined by "simple computation."

The Supreme court's opinion, written by Chief Justice Stone, said the act did not set aside the previous judgment, but rather had the effect of creating a new obligation on the government's part to pay Pope's claims. There were no constitutional obstacles, Justice Stone's opinion said, to bar congress from imposing this new obligation upon the government if it thought that Pope had not been adequately compensated.

No Encroachment Found.

"Congress by the creation of a legal, in recognition of a moral, obligation to pay petitioner's [Pope's] claims plainly did not encroach upon the judicial function which the court of claims had previously exercised," said the opinion.

The high tribunal upheld the conviction of Caroiene Products, Litchfield, Ill., for shipping in interstate commerce a product comprising skimmed milk, vegetable oil, and vitamins. The company was sentenced to pay fines totaling $8,000. Two officials were sentenced to pay fines totaling $8,000 and to one year in prison each.

Justice Reed delivered the unanimous decision, which attorneys considered significant because of the increasing use of synthetically fortified foods.

Holds Filled Milk Act Violated.

The government's contention was that the company violated the filled milk act which prohibits interstate shipment of milk to which has been added any fat or oil other than milk fat "so that the resulting product is in imitation or semblance of milk." The court said:

"Here a milk product, skimmed milk, from which a valuable element—butter fat—has been removed, is artificially enriched with cheaper fats and vitamins so that it is indistinguishable in the eyes of the average purchaser from whole milk products. The result is that the compound is confused with and passed off as the whole milk product in spite of proper labeling."

The company argued that its product was as good or better than whole milk; that when congress passed the act in 1923 the process of adding vitamins to milk was unknown; that the product was fairly labeled and sold on its merits, without fraud on the public.

Truck Case Review Granted.

The court also agreed to review a dispute over an interstate commerce commission order authorizing a Pennsylvania Railroad subsidiary to operate motor truck freight routes between Fort Wayne, Ind., and Mackinaw City, Mich.

The ICC approved plans of the Willett Company of Indiana to operate trucks over seven routes, auxiliary to rail service of the Pennsylvania, in transportation of less than carload freight. A special three judge federal District court in Indianapolis ordered the ICC action set aside after protests by other truckers.

The court also refused to consider a contention by Safeway Stores, Inc. [Maryland] that an indictment returned in the Kansas federal District court, charging violations of the Sherman anti-trust act, is defective because of failure to state sufficient facts.

LOUISVILLE GAS (DEL.) PLANS TO LIQUIDATE FILED

Will Distribute Stock of Subsidiary.

A plan was filed yesterday with the securities and exchange commission by Louisville Gas and Electric company [Delaware] which provides for its liquidation thru distribution to its stockholders of common stock in Louisville Gas and Electric company [Kentucky], a subsidiary. Standard Gas and Electric company is parent of the Delaware company.

Under the plan the holder of each share of the Delaware company's class A common stock would receive 1 1-12 share of Kentucky company stock, or one share plus $1.923 in cash. The holder of each share of class B common would be allocated three-fourths of a Kentucky company share.

Partial Shares Paid in Cash.

The remaining assets would be distributed in cash to holders of class B common except Standard Gas. The additional payment to class B common is estimated at $3.60 a share. Standard Gas will accept shares of common stock in the Kentucky company instead of cash.

Discussing negotiations of the city of Louisville toward the purchase of the Kentucky company properties or common stock, the petition said: "Based upon advice which the Delaware company has received from tax experts employed by it and from counsel, it is the opinion of the officers of the company that any such sale would result in a serious tax liability and therefore would be detrimental to the interest of stockholders of the Delaware company."

PIPE LINE AUTHORIZED

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6 (AP).—Construction and operation of a 65 mile pipe line by the Louisville [Ky.] Gas and Electric company was approved today by the federal power commission. The pipe line will consist of 62 miles of 8 inch and 3 miles of 12 inch pipe, connecting with the Tennessee Gas and Transmission company's Texas to West Virginia line.

FPC said the pipe line was needed "to assure maintenance of adequate natural gas service in Louisville and environs" and must be completed by Jan. 31.

STEELMAN QUITS AS U. S. DIRECTOR OF CONCILIATION

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6 (AP).—Resignation of John R. Steelman as director of the United States conciliation service, tendered last July 1, was accepted today by Secretary of Labor Perkins, effective Nov. 25. No successor has been chosen, Miss Perkins said.

Steelman, head of the service seven years, said, "I don't know what I am going to do yet," but planned his first vacation in 10 years. A former faculty member at Vanderbilt, Harvard, and Alabama college, he was a conciliation commissioner three years before his appointment as director in 1937.

He related that under his administration 25 field offices were established. The service's work grew from 1,267 cases involving 1,383,000 workers, 57 per cent of which were strikes, to 25,000 cases involving more than 12 million workers, with 11 per cent actual strikes, in the 1943-'44 fiscal year.

SUGAR BEET PROCESS.

Please give me some details regarding a reported new process for treatment of sugar beet seeds to facilitate mechanical methods of cultivation.—N. S.

Dow Chemical company recently announced that it had developed a process for reducing beet seed to pellet form suitable for use in a precision planting machine. The accurate spacing of seeds thus made possible, it was said, would permit later cultivation of beet fields by machinery, in place of present laborious methods by hand.

As described in a dispatch from Midland, Mich., the process involves separation of the multiple germ clusters found in sugar beet seed into units of one germ and the application of a coating to the single germ. The coating is a water soluble plastic, it was said.

How this amendment to nature's methods will work out as applied to practical farming remains to be seen, but past accomplishments of science in improving horticulture have been of the wonder working variety. The Dow announcement said the new development promises to help make the United States self-sufficient in sugar production.
